New Point Raised by Reds Kept Secret; No Surprise

Munsan, Korea, July 17 (AP)—An Allied spokesman said Communists raised a new point in Korean war cease-fire discussions today. But that came as no surprise to the United Nations delegation.

The spokesman did not report the nature of the new point.

Both he and an official communique said "some progress" was made in the fifth day of armistice conference at Kaesong. Delegates are still arguing about the agenda.

The spokesman, Col. James A. Norell of Mountain Home, Ida., said he had no idea how long delegates would be working on the agenda.

The negotiators spent an hour and 35 minutes on it Tuesday. They will resume at 10 a. m. Wednesday (7 p. m. Tuesday EST).

There was considerable "back and forth discussion," Norell said, but no heated arguments.

Short Reports

Allied announcements about armistice meetings were brief, but Communist reports were even shorter. The North Koreans' Pyongyang radio merely gave the time the meeting opened and the time it closed. Its reports have been terse since the talks resumed Sunday.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Communist delegate, opened Tuesday's sessions, a U. S. 8th Army announcement said. Most of the 55-minute morning session was devoted to a discussion between Nam and Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief United Nations delegate, of the allied proposals for the agenda.

Translations Take Time

Considerable time was required in clarifying definitions and in making translations.

In the afternoon Nam elaborated on the Reds' idea of what the agenda should include. He apparently came with the English and Chinese translations of his remarks already prepared.

Both Joy and Nam, who do virtually all the talking, read their statements.

During give and take discussions across the green topped table they have plenty of time to write their replies while trans-

Donald Williams Appointed Fireman

Fills One of Department's Vacancies, Another Is Postponed

The Board of Fire Commissioners last night appointed Donald Williams, 29, of 187 Hasbrouck avenue, to the local fire department.

Williams headed the recently compiled civil service list, and his appointment fills one of two department vacancies. The other appointment was deferred because of "a civil service technicality" it was reported today.

A graduate of School No. 4 and Kingston High School, the new fireman, is married and has a daughter, Donna, 4, and a son, Kenneth, four months old. A veteran of World War 2, he served with the Eighth Air Force in England and Europe. He is a member of Cordts Hose Company.

Williams was appointed to the department on a temporary basis in September, 1950. Last night's appointment was made at a special meeting of the board. It could not be determined today whether the "civil service technicality" will be cleared for the second appointment to the department by the board's next regular meeting on July 31.

The vacancies were caused by the recent death of Fireman John A. Carle and the retirement of Charles V. Brown, the department's supervisor of motors.

Moscow Sees Alliance

Moscow, July 17 (AP)—The Soviet press commented suspiciously today on western reports that the United States may make a military deal with Franco Spain. The newspapers appeared convinced that Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, U. S. chief of naval operations who visited Spain yesterday and talked with Generalissimo Francisco Franco, was there to work out some kind of American-Spanish alliance.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, July 17 (AP)—The position of the treasury July 13: Net budget receipts, $77,059,222.79; budget expenditures, $9,816,659.09; cash balance, $4,778,340,506.04; customs receipts for month, $15,752,794.69; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $850,101,450.89; budget expenditures fiscal year, $1,213,598,896.09; budget deficit, $365,497,445.20; total debt, $257,194,244,981.72; gold assets, $24,206,657,174.65.

B-29 Night Raiders Riddle Air Fields Traffic, Supply, Troop Centers

Tokyo, July 17 (AP)—Allied warplanes continued to pound Communist supply routes in Korea today as ground action slowed to a virtual halt.

B-29 Superforts dropped high explosive bombs on the rail yard at Sinmak, only 33 air miles northwest of Kaesong, where cease-fire negotiations are being held.

Other B-29s hit Opa, between Pyongyang and Sinanju, and Hungsu, just north of Sinmak. More than 100 tons of bombs were dropped in all.

The big bombers were following the 116 planes that flew sorties Monday night in the greatest after-dark operation of the Korean war.

The night raiders pounded Red air fields, road traffic and supply and troop centers.

There was little ground action.

Reds Repulsed

AP Correspondent George McArthur said the Reds made several small probing attacks north of Yanggu on the east-central front. The Reds advanced under cover of mortar and artillery fire, but were repulsed.

MacArthur also reported 200 Red troops and 10 pack animals were spotted north of Inje, moving north.

He said there was speculation the Reds may be moving their forces east toward the Hwachon reservoir.

The U. S. Eighth Army communique reported only light contact with the Reds. Some semi-automatic fire was reported from Communist troops on the western and central fronts.

The Red raido at Pyongyang, North Korean capital, said the Reds yesterday captured 1,000 troops, sank 11 warships and shot down six jet fighters and three light bombers.

No action of this magnitude has been reported by allied correspondents or communiques.

Fire Wrecks Town Hall

Albany, N. Y., July 17 (AP)—Fire today wrecked the town hall in suburban Colonie. Loss was estimated at more than $52,000. Police said lightning may have started the blaze.

Dairy Session Opens

Syracuse, N. Y., July 17 (AP)—The American Dairy Association opened today its two-day summer session with about 300 delegates attending. They represented dairymen in 40 states.

Kelly In Court To Get Counsel

New York Attorney and Howard C. St. John Are Assigned

Edward H. Kelly, who was convicted of first degree murder for the shooting of Mrs. Eloise McHugh on May 22, 1950, and later had the conviction reveresed by the Court of Appeals on a technicality, was brought into County Court this morning for assignment of counsel who will defend him on the second trial.

A formal plea of innocent was entered and Whitman Knapp of New York city, who was assigned by Chief Judge John T. Loughran of the Court of Appeals to represent Kelly on the appeal before the state's highest court, and Howard C. St. John of Kingston were assigned as defense counsel.

Following the assignment of counsel Judge John M. Cashin, county judge who presided at the first trial, asked counsel if they

Democrats Firm on Rollbacks

Washington, July 17 (AP)—Administration forces in the House, scenting partial victory, stood fast today in a determined defense of price rollbacks.

Immediately at stake was the ten per cent rollback on beef prices which Price Stabilizer Michael V DiSalle has termed the symbol of the whole attempt to stabilize prices.

Of more far-reaching effect was the fate of the overall price rollback principle, and the prospect of bans on all future rollbacks affecting non-agricultural as well as farm products.

Possibilities Listed

As the House neared the showdown stage on the rollback controversy in the economic controls bill before it, these possibilities emerged:

1. The House, with substantial Republican backing for the administration position, will vote to keep the price rollback on beef.

2. At the same time, it will prohibit future rollbacks in all segments of the economy.

Republican leaders, favoring what they term "reasonable" controls, indicated they would be willing to allow President Truman to keep the beef rollback.

But GOP members, together with southern Democrats, appeared determined to write an outright prohibition against all future rollbacks.

Farmers Concede

Farm state leaders, who have taken a "no compromise" stand on all rollbacks, including the one on beef already in effect, conceded privately they may have to settle on these terms.

The rollback battle started late yesterday. Debate was expected to continue through today, with a vote unlikely before tomorrow.

The eight-month extension of economic controls approved by the Senate sharply curbs price rollbacks. It falls short in other ways, too, of what the administration asked.

In the House, the banking committee offered the administration proposal, an amendment to the present defense production act.

What Amendment Says

The amendment provides that the secretary of agriculture should determine prices of agricultural products as of May 19, this year. No rollback should cut more than ten per cent off that price, the amendment says.

That would allow the ten per cent beef rollback in effect, but

Crime Committee Plans Probe End

Dope, Waterfront Rackets, Gambling Are Due for N. Y. Airing

Washington, July 17 (AP)—The Senate Crime Committee laid plans today to wind up its underworld probe within the next month after topping it off with another round of public hearings in New York city.

On its return to New York, where its televised hearings last March attracted an audience of millions, the committee probably will focus on the dope traffic, waterfront rackets and gambling and political tie-ups.

No date has been set for the New York hearings but a commit-

Costliest Flood Leaves $750 Million Damage Bill for Two States to Face Oklahoma Hit

17 Deaths Reported, Highways Gone and 70,000 Homeless

Washington, July 17 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee voted today against increasing an emergency fund for flood relief in the middle west from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000.

The House yesterday increased President Truman's request for $15,000,000 to $25,000,000, and it had been expected that the Senate would go along.

Ahead of the committee's action, Senator McClellan (D.-Ark.) pointed to the disastrous flood as an expensive answer to critics who call flood control projects "pork barrel" legislation.

Kansas City, Mo., July 17 (AP)—The battered Kansas City area mobilized today for a Herculean cleanup task as flood waters, swirling eastward, struck new blows at Missouri river towns.

And in Kansas, a line of wrecked or partially damaged towns and cities stretched across the eastern and central parts of the state.

The largest damage estimate for Kansas and Missouri is $750,000,000 — the nation's costliest flood.

Water still covered many sections but it was fast slipping back into river channels here in Kansas.

But to the east of Kansas City, small towns along the Missouri felt the full force of the turbulent river. Lexington, Wellington, Norborne and Hardin, Mo., were flooded. Some dikes in central Missouri gave way.

Water in Oklahoma

The run-off of Kansas flood waters also buffeted Oklahoma. Miami, in northeastern Oklahoma, suffered its worst flood in history from the Neosho-Grand river.

High water poured over 130 to 150 blocks of the town of 12,000, forcing approximately 3,500 persons from their homes.

President Truman, reported deeply concerned over the flood situation, planned to fly over the Missouri-Kansas disaster area today.

The flood has brought death to

New York Telephone Seeks Additional Rate Increase

Company Says It Needs Amount Sufficient to Meet Higher Income Taxes

Albany, N. Y., July 17 (AP)—The New York Telephone Company today asked the Public Service Commission to grant a $13,000,000-a-year rate increase in addition to the $44,000,000 boost being considered by the commission.

In seeking the additional increase the company said it needed an amount sufficient to meet higher federal income taxes passed by the House and now before the Senate.

A company spokesman said the tax legislation would "cut sharply" into the $44,000,000 rate increase requested last January.

The two increases, if granted, would raise telephone bills by a total of about 11 per cent.

The PSC granted the Telephone Company an 11 per cent increase last year—its first rate boost in 20 years. It amounted to $48,500,000.

R. W. Brown, New York Telephone's vice president and general counsel, sought the $13,000,000 increase in the form of an amendment to the company's January request.

He contended the additional revenues would produce no additional net income to the company. He said the amendment was filed now because the PSC had announced it would close the record on the case by Aug. 1.

"The total of the increases asked last January and now would add only two and a half cents a day to the average residence customer's bill," Brown said.

"Compared to 1939, the average cost of telephone service to users would be up less than 22 per cent, while consumers' prices, as shown by Bureau of Labor statistics, have risen 86 per cent."

The requested $44,000,000 increase would average 7.5 to 8 per cent, the company has estimated. The additional $13,000,000 boost would raise this to about 11 per cent, a company source said.

"The revenue resulting from our amendment will not add a penny to the company's earnings," Brown said in a statement.

"In January, we asked for only enough additional revenue to meet our minimum requirments. No margin was provided to absorb further increases in costs, and we pointed out at the time that an increase in taxes or other costs would make necessary an amendment to our request."

The company based its January request for higher rates on increases in wages, taxes and material and supply costs.

Brown said the company's expansion program had totaled nearly $850,000,000 since 1945 and "is still going forward at the rate of $160,000,000 a year."

"This program," he added, "is important in meeting civilian demands. It is even more important to the job of providing the telephone service needed in the defense effort. The company must stay in sound financial condition if it is to do these jobs."

The company said the pending federal tax increases would boost its income tax rate from 47 to 52 per cent.

Jersey Boy Is Drowned Monday In Ashokan Hole

Peter Harrower, 14, Loses Life as Attempt at Rescue Fails in Deep Water

Peter Harrower, 14, of 231 Stephens avenue, Jersey City, N. J., was drowned about 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon while swimming in the waste channel of the Ashokan reservoir at Olive Bridge. Harrower and several other lads had gone swimming in the deep hole when he apparently was seized with a cramp and disappeared.

At the pol was Mrs. Margaret Kemble, 43, of 200 McAdoo avenue, Jersey City, and Mary Gerken, 38, of 50 Wade street, Jersey City, who has a summer home at Olive Bridge where the Harrower boy was staying as a guest. The lad had come to the country last Saturday for a two-week stay. At one time one of those present was able to grab Harrower by the hair but could not hold on. The water in the pool is slightly "milky" and the lad disappeared.

Grapple for Body

Board of Water Supply men were attracted to the scene by the shouts and began diving for the body. Unable to locate the body they procured grappling hooks and about 15 minutes after the lad disappeared, the body was recovered. Among the BWS men who worked on the job were Vincent Callahan, George Hauser, Robert Vollmer, Irving Hesly and Lester Lawrence.

Mrs. Anna Lawrence, who was one of the first to arrive at the scene, attempted to revive the boy and Dr. Paul LePage of Ashokan and Henry Bernstein, game protector from Phoenicia also attempted artificial methods. Reginald Lapo of Woodstock came with a respirator and the Central Hudson emergency truck and crew arrived and aided in the effort.

Corporal Ray Dunn of Phoenicia was notified as was Sergeant Arthur A. Reilly of the Lake Katrine state police barracks. They arrived at the scene and aided in the efforts and later made an investigation.

Accidental Drowning

The boy was finally pronounced dead by Dr. LePage and Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was notified and gave a verdict of accidental drowning.

The lad was a son of William Harrower of Jersey City. The remains were taken in charge by Victor N. Lasher of Woodstock and taken today to Jersey City for services and interment.

94 More Aliens

New York, July 17 (AP)—Immigration officials said today they had seized 94 more aliens, raising to more than 1,000 the number rounded up in a drive that began June 11.

Accumulation of Gas in Kutschner Home Ignites as Match Is Struck

Joan O'Dea, 10, Diane VanWynen, 7, Dead; Host Is Hurt

Two young Brooklyn girls are dead and Albert F. Kutscher, 51, of 471 63rd street, Brooklyn, is in serious condition at the Benedictine Hospital as a result of an explosion of gas at the Kutscher summer home at Lanesville late Monday evening.

All three were very severely burned when an accumulation of gas in the cellar of the Kutscher home was ignited when Kutscher went to the cellar about 9:30 o'clock Monday night to ascertain why there was no hot water for the house.

A resident of Brooklyn, Kutscher during the summer operates the Stony Clove Cottage just across the Ulster-Greene county line in Greene county at Lanesville.

Girls Die of Burns

Joan O'Dea, 10, of 471 63rd street, and Diane Van Wynen, 7, of 1666 Glenwood Road, Brooklyn, died at the Benedictine Hospital about 10 o'clock this morning from the burns suffered.

Corporal Ray Dunn of Phoenicia with Corporal Knight of Catskill made an investigation.

Corporal Dunn reported that the two-story frame house was not badly damaged by the explosion of bottled gas. The cellar door was blown down and the curtains in the living room caught fire but the fire was extinguished by boarders. There was no fire in the cellar.

It was about 9:30 o'clock that boarders informed the proprietor there was no hot water and he went to the cellar to make an investigation. The two girls accompanied him.

Pilot Evidently Out

Apparently the gas pilot was out and when Kutscher struck a match to light the gas the accumulation in the cellar exploded with terrific force.

Although severely burned and with his clothing still on fire, Kutscher left the house, secured his car and drove with the two girls to the office of Dr. Charles Quinn in Phoenicia. There it was apparent the trio was in serious condition and Dr. Quinn summoned the Gormley ambulance and the three were brought to the hospital.

'Super Human' Fete

Dr. Quinn was at a loss to understand how Mr. Kutscher was able to bring the two girls to his office because of his own condition. Corporal Dunn said the effort was "super human."

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was called and gave a verdict of death from second and third degree burns from the accidental explosion.

Later the girls' bodies were taken by Eugene Gormley, Phoenicia undertaker, for return to Brooklyn where the funerals will be held.

Cloud Seeder Says Nature to Blame For Gigantic Flood

Denver, July 17 (AP) — The west's biggest cloud-seeder says Kansas and Missouri were flooded by mother nature's own rain and the artificial rainmakers had nothing to do with the deluge.

Dr. Irving P. Krick said the seeding of clouds with silver iodide crystals, which is big business with him, couldn't have caused the floods. Krick made the statement in replying to Senator Case (R.-S.D.).

Case said yesterday in Washington, D. C., that operations of "rainmakers" might have had something to do with the floods.

Krick, president of the Water Resources Development Corp., of Denver, said.

"We've been seeding clouds during storm periods in our operating areas all the way from Canada to Mexico and if we were having any influence on what was happening in Kansas it is only reasonable to look for floods in other states east of where we were seeding. There have been none.

Krick said, his firm is seeding clouds in 15 western states in an effort to increase rainfall on more than 325,000,000 acres.

Just an 'Impulse' Says Joyce

Television actress Joyce Mathews shows her right wrist to questioners July 16, to demonstrate the trivial nature of her suicide attempt as she leaves Roosevelt Hospital, New York, after an overnight stay. Her mother, Mrs. Gladys Mathews, accompanies her. The 31-year-old actress, twice-divorced wife of comedian Milton Berle, has only a small adhesive patch on the side of her left wrist as a souvenir of her wrist-slashing suicide attempt, July 15, in the midtown apartment of showman Billy Rose. Joyce insisted that she had acted on "impulse."

Tri-County Holstein Club Has Show Set for July 28th

The U. S. O. Holstein Club is holding its first Black and White show Saturday, July 28, at Goshen. The show will be held at the former Harriman Horse Farm, now a part of the Orange County Community College, on Route 17 at Goshen. The U.S.O. Holstein Club is composed of Holstein breeders in Ulster-Sullivan and Orange counties. The judging is scheduled to start at 10:30 a. m.

According to Dan Barnhart of Stone Ridge, chairman of the show, over 70 animals have been entered in the early entries. A large number of these have been from Ulster county herds. This will offer an opporunity for the first time for persons to see the best Holsteins from the three counties in one place. Many entries have been received from 4-H and F.F.A. members. These club members will add plenty of youth to the show.

Professor George W. Trimberger of the Animal Husbandry Department of Cornell University will be the judge of the show. He is one of the most popular judges in the state and had judged several state fairs.

Black and White shows have been growing in popularity throughout the east in the last few years. It gives the breeder an opportunity to bring his best

Mrs. Alice Irene Christiana Died From Natural Causes

Mrs. Alice Irene Christiana, 35, who died without medical aid at the home of her cousin, Irving Van Leuven, at The Trapps on Saturday morning, July 7, died from natural causes, it has been ascertained following a pathological examination at the state police laboratory.

This report from the state laboratory bears out the verdict of Dr. Herbert Derman and Dr. Anthony Tocco, who performed an autopsy upon the body at the Humiston Funeral Home morgue in Kerhonkson the day of the death.

Mrs. Christiana died of a severe liver ailment and there was no evidence of any foul play or poisoning, which had been hinted at shortly after her death.

Mrs. Christiana, mother of five children, had been committed to Middletown State Hospital some six years ago and about three years ago was released and went to the home of her sister, Carolyn Gairgan in Walden. Some time later Mrs. Christiana left her sister's home and hid in the woods. Later she was again committed to the hospital and in December 1950 she escaped from the hospital.

Just where Mrs. Christiana passed the next 12 days is not known but apparently she had been in hiding in the woods. Twelve days after her disappearance she appeared at the home

Farm state leaders, who have taken a "no compromise" stand on all rollbacks, including the one on beef already in effect, conceded privately they may have to settle on these terms.

The rollback battle started late yesterday. Debate was expected to continue through today, with a vote unlikely before tomorrow.

The eight-month extension of economic controls approved by the Senate sharply curbs price rollbacks. It falls short in other ways, too, of what the administration asked.

In the House, the banking committee offered the administration proposal, an amendment to the present defense production act.

What Amendment Says

The amendment provides that the secretary of agriculture should determine prices of agricultural products as of May 19, this year. No rollback should cut more than ten per cent off that price, the amendment says.

That would allow the ten per cent beef rollback in effect, but

Dope, Waterfront Rackets, Gambling Are Due for N. Y. Airing

Washington, July 17 (AP)—The Senate Crime Committee laid plans today to wind up its underworld probe within the next month after topping it off with another round of public hearings in New York city.

On its return to New York, where its televised hearings last March attracted an audience of millions, the committee probably will focus on the dope traffic, waterfront rackets and gambling and political tie-ups.

No date has been set for the New York hearings but a commit-

17 Deaths Reported, Highways Gone and 70,000 Homeless

Washington, July 17 (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee voted today against increasing an emergency fund for flood relief in the middle west from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000.

The House yesterday increased President Truman's request for $15,000,000 to $25,000,000, and it had been expected that the Senate would go along.

Ahead of the committee's action, Senator McClellan (D.-Ark.) pointed to the disastrous flood as an expensive answer to critics who call flood control projects "pork barrel" legislation.

Kansas City, Mo., July 17 (AP)—The battered Kansas City area mobilized today for a Herculean cleanup task as flood waters, swirling eastward, struck new blows at Missouri river towns.

And in Kansas, a line of wrecked or partially damaged towns and cities stretched across the eastern and central parts of the state.

The largest damage estimate for Kansas and Missouri is $750,000,000 — the nation's costliest flood.

Water still covered many sections but it was fast slipping back into river channels here in Kansas.

But to the east of Kansas City, small towns along the Missouri felt the full force of the turbulent river. Lexington, Wellington, Norborne and Hardin, Mo., were flooded. Some dikes in central Missouri gave way.

Water in Oklahoma

The run-off of Kansas flood waters also buffeted Oklahoma. Miami, in northeastern Oklahoma, suffered its worst flood in history from the Neosho-Grand river.

High water poured over 130 to 150 blocks of the town of 12,000, forcing approximately 3,500 persons from their homes.

President Truman, reported deeply concerned over the flood situation, planned to fly over the Missouri-Kansas disaster area today.

Company Says It Needs Amount Sufficient to Meet Higher Income Taxes

Albany, N. Y., July 17 (AP)—The New York Telephone Company today asked the Public Service Commission to grant a $13,000,000-a-year rate increase in addition to the $44,000,000 boost being considered by the commission.

In seeking the additional increase the company said it needed an amount sufficient to meet higher federal income taxes passed by the House and now before the Senate.

A company spokesman said the tax legislation would "cut sharply" into the $44,000,000 rate increase requested last January.

The two increases, if granted, would raise telephone bills by a total of about 11 per cent.

The PSC granted the Telephone Company an 11 per cent increase last year—its first rate boost in 20 years. It amounted to $48,500,000.

R. W. Brown, New York Telephone's vice president and general counsel, sought the $13,000,000 increase in the form of an amendment to the company's January request.

He contended the additional revenues would produce no additional net income to the company. He said the amendment was filed now because the PSC had announced it would close the record on the case by Aug. 1.

"The total of the increases asked last January and now would add only two and a half cents a day to the average residence customer's bill," Brown said.

"Compared to 1939, the average cost of telephone service to users would be up less than 22 per cent, while consumers' prices, as shown by Bureau of Labor statistics, have risen 86 per cent."

The requested $44,000,000 increase would average 7.5 to 8 per cent, the company has estimated. The additional $13,000,000 boost would raise this to about 11 per cent, a company source said.

"The revenue resulting from our amendment will not add a penny to the company's earnings," Brown said in a statement.

"In January, we asked for only enough additional revenue to meet our minimum requirments. No margin was provided to absorb further increases in costs, and we pointed out at the time that an increase in taxes or other costs would make necessary an amendment to our request."

The company based its January request for higher rates on increases in wages, taxes and material and supply costs.

Brown said the company's expansion program had totaled nearly $850,000,000 since 1945 and "is still going forward at the rate of $160,000,000 a year."

"This program," he added, "is important in meeting civilian demands. It is even more important to the job of providing the telephone service needed in the defense effort. The company must stay in sound financial condition if it is to do these jobs."

The company said the pending federal tax increases would boost its income tax rate from 47 to 52 per cent.

Jersey Boy Is Drowned Monday In Ashokan Hole

Peter Harrower, 14, Loses Life as Attempt at Rescue Fails in Deep Water

Peter Harrower, 14, of 231 Stephens avenue, Jersey City, N. J., was drowned about 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon while swimming in the waste channel of the Ashokan reservoir at Olive Bridge. Harrower and several other lads had gone swimming in the deep hole when he apparently was seized with a cramp and disappeared.

At the pol was Mrs. Margaret Kemble, 43, of 200 McAdoo avenue, Jersey City, and Mary Gerken, 38, of 50 Wade street, Jersey City, who has a summer home at Olive Bridge where the Harrower boy was staying as a guest. The lad had come to the country last Saturday for a two-week stay. At one time one of those present was able to grab Harrower by the hair but could not hold on. The water in the pool is slightly "milky" and the lad disappeared.

Grapple for Body

Board of Water Supply men were attracted to the scene by the shouts and began diving for the body. Unable to locate the body they procured grappling hooks and about 15 minutes after the lad disappeared, the body was recovered. Among the BWS men who worked on the job were Vincent Callahan, George Hauser, Robert Vollmer, Irving Hesly and Lester Lawrence.

Mrs. Anna Lawrence, who was one of the first to arrive at the scene, attempted to revive the boy and Dr. Paul LePage of Ashokan and Henry Bernstein, game protector from Phoenicia also attempted artificial methods. Reginald Lapo of Woodstock came with a respirator and the Central Hudson emergency truck and crew arrived and aided in the effort.

Corporal Ray Dunn of Phoenicia was notified as was Sergeant Arthur A. Reilly of the Lake Katrine state police barracks. They arrived at the scene and aided in the efforts and later made an investigation.

Accidental Drowning

The boy was finally pronounced dead by Dr. LePage and Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was notified and gave a verdict of accidental drowning.

The lad was a son of William Harrower of Jersey City. The remains were taken in charge by Victor N. Lasher of Woodstock and taken today to Jersey City for services and interment.

94 More Aliens

Accumulation of Gas in Kutschner Home Ignites as Match Is Struck

Joan O'Dea, 10, Diane VanWynen, 7, Dead; Host Is Hurt

Two young Brooklyn girls are dead and Albert F. Kutscher, 51, of 471 63rd street, Brooklyn, is in serious condition at the Benedictine Hospital as a result of an explosion of gas at the Kutscher summer home at Lanesville late Monday evening.

All three were very severely burned when an accumulation of gas in the cellar of the Kutscher home was ignited when Kutscher went to the cellar about 9:30 o'clock Monday night to ascertain why there was no hot water for the house.

A resident of Brooklyn, Kutscher during the summer operated the Stony Clove Cottage just across the Ulster-Greene county line in Greene county at Lanesville.

Girls Die of Burns

Joan O'Dea, 10, of 471 63rd street, and Diane Van Wynen, 7, of 1666 Glenwood Road, Brooklyn, died at the Benedictine Hospital about 10 o'clock this morning from the burns suffered.

Corporal Ray Dunn of Phoenicia with Corporal Knight of Catskill made an investigation.

Corporal Dunn reported that the two-story frame house was not badly damaged by the explosion of bottled gas. The cellar door was blown down and the curtains in the living room caught fire but the fire was extinguished by boarders. There was no fire in the cellar.

It was about 9:30 o'clock that boarders informed the proprietor there was no hot water and he went to the cellar to make an investigation. The two girls accompanied him.

Pilot Evidently Out

Apparently the gas pilot was out and when Kutscher struck a match to light the gas the accumulation in the cellar exploded with terrific force.

Although severely burned and with his clothing still on fire, Kutscher left the house, secured his car and drove with the two girls to the office of Dr. Charles Quinn in Phoenicia. There it was apparent the trio was in serious condition and Dr. Quinn summoned the Gormley ambulance and the three were brought to the hospital.

'Super Human' Fete

Dr. Quinn was at a loss to understand how Mr. Kutscher was able to bring the two girls to his office because of his own condition. Corporal Dunn said the effort was "super human."

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly was called and gave a verdict of death from second and third degree burns from the accidental explosion.

Later the girls' bodies were taken by Eugene Gormley, Phoenicia undertaker, for return to Brooklyn where the funerals will be held.

Cloud Seeder Says Nature to Blame For Gigantic Flood

Denver, July 17 (AP) — The west's biggest cloud-seeder says Kansas and Missouri were flooded by mother nature's own rain and the artificial rainmakers had nothing to do with the deluge.

Dr. Irving P. Krick said the seeding of clouds with silver iodide crystals, which is big business with him, couldn't have caused the floods. Krick made the statement in replying to Senator Case (R.-S.D.).

Case said yesterday in Washington, D. C., that operations of "rainmakers" might have had something to do with the floods.

Krick, president of the Water Resources Development Corp., of Denver, said.

"We've been seeding clouds during storm periods in our operating areas all the way from Canada to Mexico and if we were having any influence on what was happening in Kansas it is only reasonable to look for floods in other states east of where we were seeding. There have been none.

Krick said, his firm is seeding clouds in 15 western states in an effort to increase rainfall on more than 325,000,000 acres.

Just an 'Impulse' Says Joyce

Television actress Joyce Mathews shows her right wrist to questioners July 16, to demonstrate the trivial nature of her suicide attempt as she leaves Roosevelt Hospital, New York, after an overnight stay. Her mother, Mrs. Gladys Mathews, accompanies her. The 31-year-old actress, twice-divorced wife of comedian Milton Berle, has only a small adhesive patch on the side of her left wrist as a souvenir of her wrist-slashing suicide attempt, July 15, in the midtown apartment of showman Billy Rose. Joyce insisted that she had acted on "impulse."

Tri-County Holstein Club Has Show Set for July 28th

The U. S. O. Holstein Club is holding its first Black and White show Saturday, July 28, at Goshen. The show will be held at the former Harriman Horse Farm, now a part of the Orange County Community College, on Route 17 at Goshen. The U.S.O. Holstein Club is composed of Holstein breeders in Ulster-Sullivan and Orange counties. The judging is scheduled to start at 10:30 a. m.

According to Dan Barnhart of Stone Ridge, chairman of the show, over 70 animals have been entered in the early entries. A large number of these have been from Ulster county herds. This will offer an opporunity for the first time for persons to see the best Holsteins from the three counties in one place. Many entries have been received from 4-H and F.F.A. members. These club members will add plenty of youth to the show.

Professor George W. Trimberger of the Animal Husbandry Department of Cornell University will be the judge of the show. He is one of the most popular judges in the state and had judged several state fairs.

Black and White shows have been growing in popularity throughout the east in the last few years. It gives the breeder an opportunity to bring his best

Mrs. Alice Irene Christiana Died From Natural Causes

Mrs. Alice Irene Christiana, 35, who died without medical aid at the home of her cousin, Irving Van Leuven, at The Trapps on Saturday morning, July 7, died from natural causes, it has been ascertained following a pathological examination at the state police laboratory.

This report from the state laboratory bears out the verdict of Dr. Herbert Derman and Dr. Anthony Tocco, who performed an autopsy upon the body at the Humiston Funeral Home morgue in Kerhonkson the day of the death.

Mrs. Christiana died of a severe liver ailment and there was no evidence of any foul play or poisoning, which had been hinted at shortly after her death.

Mrs. Christiana, mother of five children, had been committed to Middletown State Hospital some six years ago and about three years ago was released and went to the home of her sister, Carolyn Gairgan in Walden. Some time later Mrs. Christiana left her sister's home and hid in the woods. Later she was again committed to the hospital and in December 1950 she escaped from the hospital.

Just where Mrs. Christiana passed the next 12 days is not known but apparently she had been in hiding in the woods. Twelve days after her disappearance she appeared at the home

Boys and Artists Are Saddened by Death of Fuhrman

The funeral of Alexander S. "Pop" Fuhrmann, 55, organizer and director of the Kingston Boys Club, who died at Kingston Hospital early Monday of pneumonia, will be held from the Walter Cooke Funeral Parlors, 1451 First avenue, New York, Friday at 1 p. m.

The death of the boys' club director, who was also director of the Ulster County Artists Association, was deeply felt among both groups, by local officials, and many local residents who knew him.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk said today, "There is no question in my mind but that the boys club will miss him. His death is a great loss to them."

Herbert L. Shultz, president of the Board of Directors of the Kingston Boys Club said: "On behalf of the Kingston Boys Club directors I wish to express our profound shock at the sudden and untimely death of Alexander S. "Pop" Fuhrman. Mr Fuhrman was founder and first director of the boys club, and the boys of Kingston are deeply indebted to him for his untiring devotion to this cause. I am sure that "Pop" would be happy to know that the board of directors is definitely planning to continue this work which meant so much to him for so many years."

Born in Hungary, the deceased, had attended the Royal Hungarian University and the Academy of Fine Arts in Paris. He came to the United States in 1914 and was art instructor in New York public schools before he entered the service in World War 1. He served with the 77th Division, and prior to that war experience, he had served with Gen. Pershing's forces in Mexico.

After the end of World War 1, he continued his interest in teaching and youth work and directed boys' programs at the West Side Youth Center and the Washington Street Boys Club, and others in New York. He was also affiliated with the Police Athletic League (Pal) in New York.

In 1943 he was advised by his physician to go to the country and came to Kingston where he worked for a time as an art director in public schools. He had also worked for the Kingston Recreation Department and in 1946 he organized the Kingston Boys Club. He continued in this work until the time of his death.

Herbert Shultz, president of the club's directors, stressed today that the board is planning to continue the club in its quarters at 139 Greenkill avenue.

The body was on view from 12 to 2 p. m. today at the Parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, and was then shipped to New York. Burial will be in Ferncliff cemetary Ardsley-on-Hudson.

Reds Claim Victory

New York, July 17 (AP)—The American Communist party says Korean cease fire negotiations represent a defeat for the United Nations forces. The talks, the party adds, have not changed the policies of "the imperialist forces that were out to conquer all of Korea and spread the war to China." Communist views were outlined yesterday in a statement from the party's national office.

No Commie Orders

Tokyo, July 17 (AP)—The Chinese Communist soldier was all confused. Somewhere in Korea, he handed his burp gun to Cpl. Charles Rife of Jolo, W. Va., and yelled to Rife to reload it. Rife shot him dead. "I don't like to be hollered at, especially when I'm mistaken for a Communist," drawled the First Cavalry Division soldier.

Tire Ban Lifted

Washington, July 17 (AP)—The government today lifted a three-month-old ban against putting a spare tire on new autos at the factory. The ban was imposed in April with the aim of saving rubber.

Local Death Record

Mrs. Abigal Bodie

Mrs. Abigal Bodie, of Woodstock, wife of Stephen Bodie, died in Kingston on Monday. Besides her husband, she leaves a son, Edward Buckland of Bethany, Pa.; two daughters, Mrs. Percy Bodie of Bethany, Pa. and Mrs. John Minor of Aldenville, Pa.; also eight grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren; three stepsons and one stepdaughter. Funeral services and burial will be in Honesdale, Pa., on Thursday.

John Gordon

John Gordon, of 155 Ten Broeck avenue, formerly of Kripplebush, died in Kingston early today. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Oakley Merrihew of Kingston and a granddaughter, Mrs. Carl Zamjohn of New Hartford, N. Y.; also several nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held at the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl street, on Thursday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery near Stone Ridge. Friends may call at the funeral parlor any time.

Frank N. Conklin

The funeral of Frank N. Conklin will be held from the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main street, Rosendale, on Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. and at All Saints Episcopal Church at 11 o'clock where a Mass of requiem will be offered. Burial will be in Rosendale Plains Cemetery. Mr. Conklin, a retired employe of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Co., died in Kingston on Sunday after a brief illness. A native of Beacon, he had lived in Rosendale for the past 25 years. He was a member of the Rosendale Fire Company, having served as its secretary for 10 years; and was also a member of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. His only survivor is his widow, Anna Thomas Conklin.

Mrs. Alice Irene

of Louis Frengo at Benton's Corners near New Paltz. This had formerly been her home. She remained in the Frengo home until April 26 when she again disappeared and was not seen until about July 3 when she appeared at the Van Leuven home off the Minnewaska Trail and complained of being ill. At that time she complained of severe pains in her stomach and Mr. Van Leuven gave her bisodal. Next day she was better, according to the statement given by Mr. Van Leuven to County Investigator Leonard Belmore, who conducted an investigation of the case after the death was reported.

Mrs. Christiana felt so much better she baked a cake for Van Leuven on Wednesday, July 4. However next day she again complained of being ill and Van Leuven told her he would call a physician.

When informed that a doctor would be called, Mrs. Christiana declined medical aid and allegedly told Van Leuven that if a doctor came she would not be there when he arrived.

Thursday night Van Leuven remained up all night with Mrs. Christiana and later did call Dr. Virgil DeWitt of New Paltz but told Dr. DeWitt if he could not come immediately not to come. Dr. DeWitt was busy and so informed Van Leuven and assumed another doctor had been called.

Autopsy Performed

Friday Mrs. Christiana was unable to eat and was very ill and it was then the neighbor summoned Dr. DeWitt at the insistence of Van Leuven. Van Leuven remained up all night with Mrs. Christiana and at about 2 o'clock Saturday morning she died. He had a neighbor then drive him to New Paltz where he notified Mrs. DeWitt at 4 a. m. of the death of Mrs. Christiana. Dr. DeWitt informed Van Leuven not to remove the body and summoned Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson who arrived and took the remains to the Humiston Funeral Home where an autopsy was performed.

An extensive investigation was made by District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, Sheriff Cluett Schantz, and County Investigator Leonard Belmore.

This investigation led officials to believe Mrs. Christiana has spent the time from April until the time she appeared at the Van Leuven home, wandering and camping in the woods and getting food from house to house.

Following the autopsy it was the opinion of the physicians that death had been due to a severe liver disease but the vital organs were submitted for laboratory tests at the state laboratory.

Today Dr. Derman reported that examination had showed negative and there was no evidence of any poisoning.

Following that report Coroner Chipp rendered a verdict of death from natural causes.

Democrats Firm

would not permit further cuts already announced.

Rep. Cooley (D-N.C.), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, immediately offered the farm group's substitute proposal.

It added up to no farm price rollbacks and rescinding of the beef rollback.

To this, Rep Cox (D-Ga.)—a leader of the Southern Democrats—added a proposal to ban rollbacks of all kinds.

Cooley said the beef rollback was a "wholly un-American,, illegal, immoral device" which had taken a "price squeeze off the meat packers" at a cost of $700,000,000 to cattlemen.

Rep. Jensen (R-Iowa) asked if the administration had not granted packing house workers a pay increase over the wage ceiling last January, then put the rollback on cattle producers to take the resultant "squeeze" off the packers.

"Why, of course," Cooley agreed.

Swirling Waters

17 persons, tied up highway and rail transportation, forced more than 70,000 from their homes and severely damaged the industrial capacity of numerous towns and cities

In Kansas City, Kas., and Kansas City, Mo., four major industrial areas covering thousands of acres were flooded. Water during the height of the flood stood more than 20 feet deep in some places.

Worst Fire in 30 Years

A five-day old fire that ravager a seven-block area and injured 14 firemen was left to burn itself out. Fire Chief Harvey Baldwin called it the most destructive Kansas City fire in more than 30 years.

The fire destroyed or damaged 24 major firms. Preliminary estimates indicated damage would run well over $1,000,000.

The flames were fed by oil and gasoline floating on flood waters.

Receding waters left scenes of desolation. Houses standing on end, lying on their sides or tilted at weird angles. Porches hung on the tops of light poles, bedding on utility wires.

Tanks and barrels were perched on roofs. Household furniture was smashed and covered with thick mud. Piles of debris—floating lumber, porches, roofs and window frames were swept against some buildings.

Repairs Slow

It will be weeks before wrecked gas lines, broken water mains and telephone and light circuits can be repaired.

In the flooded industrial district, workers sought to salvage what they could from first and second floors where waters had swept over machinery and other installations.

In meatpacking plants, crews worked day and night to save perishables. Refrigeration units were wrecked.

One company took out more than a million pounds of meat in boats and still has several million more pounds to remove.

Livestock that survived the flood also were being moved to higher ground as the water level dropped.

Engineers worked feverishly to restore to operation the Turkey creek pumping station, which normally supplies two thirds of Kansas City, Mo., with water. The full task of supplying the city is now being carried by one station.

Organization Formed

A non-profit organization—Disaster Corp., Inc.—has been set up here to clean up flood damage.

Crews will operate 24 hours a day.

Union officials estimated approximately 35,000 of their men will be available for the jobs.

Half of the 20,000 Topekans forced to leave their homes had returned. Many however, won't be able to go back for days.

Many hard hit Kansas towns—Manhattan, Junction City, Ottawa, Abilene, Lawrence, Salina, Great Bend and others—surveyed their damage and turned to rehabilitation work.

As the flood waters rushed eastward across Missouri, army engineers at St. Louis called for more help to sandbag dikes along the Mississippi river. The Missouri empties into the Mississippi north of St. Louis.

The swollen Mississippi has inched its way into the river front industrial area in St. Louis but officials hope a major overflow can be averated.

Arguments

lators are reading the English and then the Chinese translations.

"The afternoon session of the conference was more formal," the army statement said. It added:

The United Nations command delegation felt that some progress may be recorded in the conference sessions."

Only Two Armed Men

For the third day there were no Red guards near the tiled building where meetings are held. The allied party saw only two armed Communists in Kaesong.

Both were North Korean police. One stood in a traffic circle with a Red flag in one hand, a white flag in the other. He presumably was directing the almost non-existent traffic. The other was leading an ox cart.

Negotiators appeared to be in good spirits when they came out of Tuesday's sessions.

Tri-County

animals to the show and see how they compare with his neighbors and friends. No special preparation has to be taken with the animals, just bring them from pasture as they are. This differs from the fairs in that many fit the animals carefully for several weeks in advance.

At lunch time a picnic basket lunch will be held. It will be in the form of a big family picnic with neighbors and friends enjoying the noontime activities. During the lunch hour introductions of visitors will be made. In the afternoon a ringside judging contest will take place so that the onlookers will have a chance to match their decisions with the judges.

Entries Close July 21

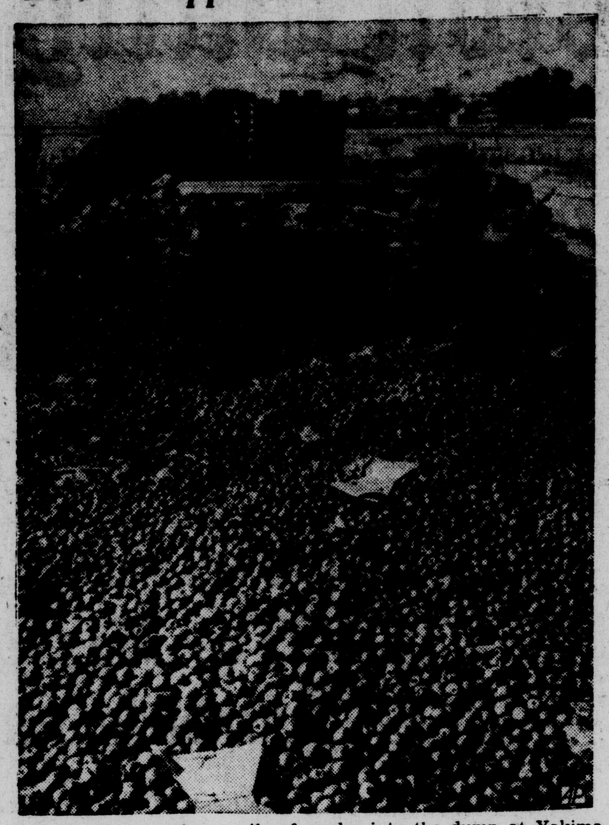

Entries still may be made until July 21 by sending them to Dan Barnhart at Stone Ridge. The animals must be registered Holsteins. Certain health requirements must be met and they can be learned from any club member.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the show on Saturday, July 28. It will be an educational feature for all.

Acres of Apples Go Back to the Soil

A bull dozer pushes a pile of apples into the dump at Yakima, Wash., after growers said they could not keep them any longer for fear of spoilage. Some 2,000-3,000 carloads of fruit have been dumped because growers said nobody would buy it at 50 cents a box and the fruit would soon decay. (AP Wirephoto)

Medal Turns Up Safely

Tokyo, July 17 (AP)—A Florida sergeant's lost Bronze Star medal has turned up safely—in the hands of a captured Chinese Red. Sfc. George Pitts, Tampa, won the medal in World War 2 and brought it to Korea. He lost it last December at the Changjin reservoir, deep inside North Korea. "It's the same one, all right," Pitts exclaimed after being shown the medal taken from a captured Red.

Offers Kansas Aid

Albany, N. Y., July 17 (AP)—Acting Gov. Frank C. Moore has offered "any services" of New York state to flood-stricken Kansas and Missouri. The offer was made yesterday in telegrams Moore sent to Governors Forrest D. Smith of Missouri and Edward F. Arn of Kansas.

Alexandria, Egypt, July 17 (AP)—Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab League, said today the main issue in the Anglo-Egyptian dispute over shipping through the Suez Canal is the attempt to slip oil through the Arab blockade of Israel.

Crime Committee

tee source indicated they probably will start late this month or early in August.

The committee will hold three days of public hearings here, starting Friday, on gambling activities in Atlantic City, N. J., and the northern Kentucky area across the Ohio river from Cincinnati.

The committee's life extends to Sept. 1, but the members want to close out their investigations by mid-August to allow time to prepare a final report.

Stiffer Penalties Bill

The House yesterday passed by voice vote a bill to stiffen penalties for violation of the narcotics and marihuana laws. The bill went to the Senate, where a similar measure drafted by the Crime Commission is awaiting action.

The House bill fixes minimum and maximum prison terms for offenders and would deny suspension of sentence or probation to persons convicted two or more more times.

A first offense would be punishable by a sentence of two to five years, a second offense five to ten years, and a third or subsequent offense ten to 20 years. The maximum fine in all cases would be $2,000.

Present law fixes no minimum penalties, and there are varying penalties under different federal laws. The House bill would make them uniform.

Would Bar Red Newsmen

Washington, July 17 (AP)—Senator O'Conor (D.-Md.), proposed today that all Communist newsmen be excluded from the U. S. until AP Correspondent William N. Oatis is released from jail in Czechoslovakia. O'Conor prepared for the Senate a resolution which also would bar all U. S. trade with Czechoslovakia as long as Oatis is held in prison. The Maryland Senator told the Senate that Oatis' conviction on charges that he was a spy "has shocked our people beyond words." Asserting that "if there ever was a newspaperman who is truly a credit to his profession, it is Bill Oatis" O'Conor declared.

May Go to State Board

Washington, July 17 (AP)—Workers claiming occupation deferment from the draft now may appeal to the appeal board in the state where they work rather than to their home board, Selective Service said today. The agency also amended its regulations to enable an employer to file such an appeal for his employe with the local board instead of with the employe's home board.

Stage Version of Dorothy Baker's 'Trio' Opens Tonight at Woodstock Playhouse

LAURIS LAMBERT

A quartet of newcomers will be introduced at the Woodstock Playhouse tonight during the opening of Trio, dramatic version of Dorothy Parker's best selling novel of the same name. Actresses appearing for the first time on the Woodstock stage are Dorothy McLaughlin, Lauris Lambert, Anna Leonard and Elnita Ostrom.

Trio, by the author of Young Man With a Horn, recounts the crucial, decisive moment in the lives of three people, a French teacher, her admiring assistant, and a student.

Oddly enough, Miss McLaughlin, who will be cast tonight in the French professor's role, is also a teacher in private life, coaching and directing productions for the University of Texas.

Lauris Lambert, who plays the assistant, Janet, has worked with Paramount Pictures in New York, appearing in So Young, So Bad with Paul Henreid and Catherine McLeod, and The Golden Twenties, a Louis De Rochemont film. Her most recent New York appearance was with the Group Players in The Young and Fair.

The third newcomer, in private life, is Salem Ludwig's better half. Salem, for those with weak memories, is the lad who has been knocking himself out for the past week as that wonderful GI, Colucci. Anna Leonard, meanwhile, has worked both as an actor and director with Boston community treatres, has several years stock beneath her belt, and has worked under Constance Welch at the Yale Drama School where she received her MFA degree.

Others appearing in this week's cast are Van Williams as the student Ray, third point of the trio's strange triangle, Maurice Edwards, Willis Claire, Heywood Hale Broun, and Conrad Hamanaka.

Trio's last performance will be Sunday, July 22, at 8:40 p. m.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 17 (AP)—After a hestitant and sagging start, the stock market today turned around and headed higher.

Buying of a light nature came into the rails, steels and oils, and the remainder of the market followed their lead forward in a moderate advance.

Leaders posted gains generally less than a dollar a share with outstanding exceptions. Losses were largely fractional.

Shell Oil and Northern Pacific shot ahead around 3 points after Shell announced discovery of a new wildcat oil well on land in northeastern Montana leased from the railroad.

Montana-Dakota Utilities was up around 2 points in apparent sympathy with the other two stocks.

Stocks moving up today included Canadian Pacific (which has large oil holdings), New York Central, Amerada Petroleum (up as much as 7 points at times), Standard Oil (NJ), U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Gypsum, Kennecott Copper, American Cyanamid, Union Carbide, American Can, International Paper, Sears Roebuck, and Caterpillar Tractor.

CSRB stocks tended lower. On the downside were Arkansas Natural Gas "A", Brazilian Traction, Clinchifield Coal, Consolidated Mining & Smelting, Creole Petroleum, Kaiser-Frazer, and National Rubber Machinery. Higher were New Jersey Zinc, Ryan Consolidated Petroleum, and U. S. Foil "B".

Investor Forum

by Harry C. France

Today in a Broadway, New York city, grocery store, I met a shopping friend. Knowing of my interest in prices and such things, she asked: "Aren't edibles awfully high? This little package of food costs me $8.81. That's about what I get in interest on $500 for a whole year in my savings bank."

Well, I bought a dozen eggs for 91 cents, a pound of butter for 85 cents, two small cans of salmon for $1.66 and ten pounds of sugar for 98 cents. Small change was left out of a five dollar bill which I proffered in payment.

We walked down the street together chatting about one of my favorite themes: Low interest rates and high prices. In a city like New York this is a painful problem in thousands of homes. And its evil consequences encompass the country. Finally, as we were about to go our separate ways, she again asked:

"What could be done with say, $5,000? All I'm getting now is $100 a year and you know how quickly that goes with prices as they are."

"Well," I answered, "if you want to speculate, you can presently get 8 and 10 and 12 per cent annually by buying stocks of medium grade that do carry considerable risk."

I shall carry this conversation no farther. It developed surprising proportions. Economic necessity does drive people to extremes and her case was no exception.

Economic conditions do create alluring invitations to speculate. Right now in the United States a deep and broad psychological base for speculation exists. It has never carried greater potentialities. There are 70-million people and institutions owning low yielding government bonds. There are millions of savings bank depositors.

Almost without exception, all of these persons have economic problems of a nature similar to those of the widow mentioned earlier in this article. And what will they do in the future? Nobody knows. But if even a million of them should start doing what the widow is, America would experience a wild wave of speculation.

Risk-taking dynamite is present in the national economy. Currency in circulation totals more than $27-billion. That can be dangerous money. Its flow is unpredictable.

Commercial bank deposits are $150-billion. Mutual savings banks carry $20-billions of deposit money. United States savings bonds run into $58-billions. And United States Treasury bills, notes and bonds total $138-billion more.

Add all of this up! It reaches the unheard of amount of $393-billions! No wonder eggs are 91 cents a dozen and butter 85 cents a pound.

During the past twenty years, the fires of inflation, started mainly in Washington, have been kept going by a great variety of political and economic forces. And the end is far, far ahead.

What I can't understand is this: why stock prices long before this have not gone through the high levels of 1929. Personally, I think they will eventually.

In 1929 speculators borrowed money at 20 per cent a year to carry stocks paying 2 and 3 per cent in dividends on margin. Speculative psychology was favorable in those days.

Today, strange to relate, people will not take idle money or two per cent savings bank money or two and a half per cent government bond cash to buy sound stocks outright that pay 6 and 7 and 8 per cent a year. Psychology is as wrong today as it was in 1929.

I firmly believe that the invitation to speculate will, before the present tempestuous times are over, be broadly accepted. Interest rates and high living costs dictate such a course. There are millions of good Americans who sooner or later will have the 2 per cent interest-91 cents a dozen egg dilemma solved. A great many of them will grasp the speculative invitation.

Macaroni Tip

To vary the way you serve elbow macaroni add a little catsup or chili sauce to it after you have cooked and drained it; put it in a baking dish, sprinkle with grated cheese, and reheat and brown in the oven.

Turnips With Peas, Carrots

Diced cooked turnip tastes good mixed with cooked peas and carrots; season well with salt and freshly-ground pepper and butter or margarine.

Kelly In Court

could at this time indicate when they could be ready for trial. He stated the next term of County Court will be in September, followed by one in November.

District Louis G. Bruhn indicated he would be ready in September but would not oppose additional time for counsel to prepare defense.

Asks for November

St. John asked that the case go over to the November term, stating that he had just entered the case and Mr. Whitman, except for the argument, was not familiar with the case. The case was set down for trial at the November term.

When Kelly appeared in court he was informed of his rights to counsel and asked if he had employed counsel. Replying in the negative, Judge Cashin then informed Kelly he would assign counsel. Judge Cashin indicated he would not force the trial but permit counsel just assigned to have ample time to prepare defense.

Attorney Knapp, after a formal plea of innocent had been entered for Kelly, inquired of the court if the right to make further motions in regard to that plea might not be held open. Judge Cashin informed Knapp that any application concerning the innocent plea might be later entertained.

Woman Shot on Main Street

Kelly was convicted of shooting Mrs. McHugh as she was walking along Main street on her way to work on the morning of May 22. After the alleged shooting of Mrs. McHugh he turned the deer rifle on himself, inflicting a slight wound on the forehead. The shooting took place after Kelly had stopped the car he was driving across the street from where Mrs. McHugh was walking.

On the last trial Kelly was found guilty and sentenced to death in the electric chair. That conviction was reversed by the Court of Appeals on a technicality in the charge to the jurors by the court.

It is expected the defense on the second trial in November will be based on the theory that Kelly was not responsible for his actions at the time of the shooting. This may well be based on one sentence of the opinion written by Judge Conway which reads: "They (the jury) were not adequately apprised of the fact that the evidence adduced by The People may, by its very nature, have within it proof that defendant was not responsible for his actions."

When he appeared in court Kelly, who is now confined to the county jail, appeared calm and unmoved by the proceedings.

10 Are Indicted

Miami, Fla., July 17 (AP)—Former Dade County Sheriff Jimmy Sullivan, his wife, Ethel, and eight other persons indicted yesterday on income tax charges, probably won't face trial until late fall. Assistant U. S. District Attorney Ernest L. Duhaime said this is only the first of batches of income tax cases on which indictments can be expected.

Farmer's Compensation

U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Brannan says the average U. S. farmer gets about 69 cents an hour for his labor plus five per cent interest on his investment with no allowance for payment of the farmer for managing his farm.

Snow Value

U. S. experts show the value of snow in high country for irrigation by pointing out that about 20 per cent of Utah is above 7,000 feet high, but this 20 per cent of the state contributes 80 per cent of the runoff used for irrigation.

GENERAL MANUFACTURING MANAGER

We need a young executive who can assume complete responsibility for the production of pre-cast concrete roofing and siding.

Reporting to the President, he will be responsible for raw material purchasing, production planning, quality control, inspection, shipping, labor relations, plant accounting, plant engineering and all other phases of manufacturing.

The company is a small one. Starting salary $9,000, with a bonus arrangement based on profit.

Experience in mechanized foundry or cement cinder block plant would be useful, but not essential.

Boys and Artists Are Saddened by Death of Fuhrman

The funeral of Alexander S. "Pop" Fuhrmann, 55, organizer and director of the Kingston Boys Club, who died at Kingston Hospital early Monday of pneumonia, will be held from the Walter Cooke Funeral Parlors, 1451 First avenue, New York, Friday at 1 p. m.

The death of the boys' club director, who was also director of the Ulster County Artists Association, was deeply felt among both groups, by local officials, and many local residents who knew him.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk said today, "There is no question in my mind but that the boys club will miss him. His death is a great loss to them."

Herbert L. Shultz, president of the Board of Directors of the Kingston Boys Club said: "On behalf of the Kingston Boys Club directors I wish to express our profound shock at the sudden and untimely death of Alexander S. "Pop" Fuhrman. Mr Fuhrman was founder and first director of the boys club, and the boys of Kingston are deeply indebted to him for his untiring devotion to this cause. I am sure that "Pop" would be happy to know that the board of directors is definitely planning to continue this work which meant so much to him for so many years."

Born in Hungary, the deceased, had attended the Royal Hungarian University and the Academy of Fine Arts in Paris. He came to the United States in 1914 and was art instructor in New York public schools before he entered the service in World War 1. He served with the 77th Division, and prior to that war experience, he had served with Gen. Pershing's forces in Mexico.

After the end of World War 1, he continued his interest in teaching and youth work and directed boys' programs at the West Side Youth Center and the Washington Street Boys Club, and others in New York. He was also affiliated with the Police Athletic League (Pal) in New York.

In 1943 he was advised by his physician to go to the country and came to Kingston where he worked for a time as an art director in public schools. He had also worked for the Kingston Recreation Department and in 1946 he organized the Kingston Boys Club. He continued in this work until the time of his death.

Herbert Shultz, president of the club's directors, stressed today that the board is planning to continue the club in its quarters at 139 Greenkill avenue.

The body was on view from 12 to 2 p. m. today at the Parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, and was then shipped to New York. Burial will be in Ferncliff cemetery Ardsley-on-Hudson.

Reds Claim Victory

New York, July 17 (AP)—The American Communist party says Korean cease fire negotiations represent a defeat for the United Nations forces. The talks, the party adds, have not changed the policies of "the imperialist forces that were out to conquer all of Korea and spread the war to China." Communist views were outlined yesterday in a statement from the party's national office.

No Commie Orders

Tokyo, July 17 (AP)—The Chinese Communist soldier was all confused. Somewhere in Korea, he handed his burp gun to Cpl. Charles Rife of Jolo, W. Va., and yelled to Rife to reload it. Rife shot him dead. "I don't like to be hollered at, especially when I'm mistaken for a Communist," drawled the First Cavalry Division soldier.

Tire Ban Lifted

Washington, July 17 (AP)—The government today lifted a three-month-old ban against putting a spare tire on new autos at the factory. The ban was imposed in April with the aim of saving rubber.

Besides her husband, she leaves a son, Edward Buckland of Bethany, Pa.; two daughters, Mrs. Percy Bodie of Bethany, Pa. and Mrs. John Minor of Aldenville, Pa.; also eight grandchildren, eight great-grandchildren; three stepsons and one stepdaughter. Funeral services and burial will be in Honesdale, Pa., on Thursday.

John Gordon

John Gordon, of 155 Ten Broeck avenue, formerly of Kripplebush, died in Kingston early today. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Oakley Merrihew of Kingston and a granddaughter, Mrs. Carl Zamjohn of New Hartford, N. Y.; also several nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held at the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl street, on Thursday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery near Stone Ridge. Friends may call at the funeral parlor any time.

Frank N. Conklin

The funeral of Frank N. Conklin will be held from the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main street, Rosendale, on Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. and at All Saints Episcopal Church at 11 o'clock where a Mass of requiem will be offered. Burial will be in Rosendale Plains Cemetery. Mr. Conklin, a retired employe of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Co., died in Kingston on Sunday after a brief illness. A native of Beacon, he had lived in Rosendale for the past 25 years. He was a member of the Rosendale Fire Company, having served as its secretary for 10 years; and was also a member of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. His only survivor is his widow, Anna Thomas Conklin.

Mrs. Alice Irene

of Louis Frengo at Benton's Corners near New Paltz. This had formerly been her home. She remained in the Frengo home until April 26 when she again disappeared and was not seen until about July 3 when she appeared at the Van Leuven home off the Minnewaska Trail and complained of being ill. At that time she complained of severe pains in her stomach and Mr. Van Leuven gave her bisodal. Next day she was better, according to the statement given by Mr. Van Leuven to County Investigator Leonard Belmore, who conducted an investigation of the case after the death was reported.

Mrs. Christiana felt so much better she baked a cake for Van Leuven on Wednesday, July 4. However next day she again complained of being ill and Van Leuven told her he would call a physician.

When informed that a doctor would be called, Mrs. Christiana declined medical aid and allegedly told Van Leuven that if a doctor came she would not be there when he arrived.

Thursday night Van Leuven remained up all night with Mrs. Christiana and later did call Dr. Virgil DeWitt of New Paltz but told Dr. DeWitt if he could not come immediately not to come. Dr. DeWitt was busy and so informed Van Leuven and assumed another doctor had been called.

Autopsy Performed

Friday Mrs. Christiana was unable to eat and was very ill and it was then the neighbor summoned Dr. DeWitt at the insistence of Van Leuven. Van Leuven remained up all night with Mrs. Christiana and at about 2 o'clock Saturday morning she died. He had a neighbor then drive him to New Paltz where he notified Mrs. DeWitt at 4 a. m. of the death of Mrs. Christiana. Dr. DeWitt informed Van Leuven not to remove the body and summoned Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson who arrived and took the remains to the Humiston Funeral Home where an autopsy was performed.

An extensive investigation was made by District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn, Sheriff Cluett Schantz, and County Investigator Leonard Belmore.

This investigation led officials to believe Mrs. Christiana has spent the time from April until the time she appeared at the Van Leuven home, wandering and camping in the woods and getting food from house to house.

Following the autopsy it was the opinion of the physicians that death had been due to a severe liver disease but the vital organs were submitted for laboratory tests at the state laboratory.

Today Dr. Derman reported that examination had showed negative and there was no evidence of any poisoning.

Following that report Coroner Chipp rendered a verdict of death from natural causes.

Democrats Firm

would not permit further cuts already announced.

Rep. Cooley (D-N.C.), chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, immediately offered the farm group's substitute proposal.

It added up to no farm price rollbacks and rescinding of the beef rollback.

To this, Rep Cox (D-Ga.)—a leader of the Southern Democrats—added a proposal to ban rollbacks of all kinds.

Cooley said the beef rollback was a "wholly un-American,, illegal, immoral device" which had taken a "price squeeze off the meat packers" at a cost of $700,000,000 to cattlemen.

Rep. Jensen (R-Iowa) asked if the administration had not granted packing house workers a pay increase over the wage ceiling last January, then put the rollback on cattle producers to take the resultant "squeeze" off the packers.

"Why, of course," Cooley agreed.

Swirling Waters

17 persons, tied up highway and rail transportation, forced more than 70,000 from their homes and severely damaged the industrial capacity of numerous towns and cities

In Kansas City, Kas., and Kansas City, Mo., four major industrial areas covering thousands of acres were flooded. Water during the height of the flood stood more than 20 feet deep in some places.

Worst Fire in 30 Years

A five-day old fire that ravager a seven-block area and injured 14 firemen was left to burn itself out. Fire Chief Harvey Baldwin called it the most destructive Kansas City fire in more than 30 years.

The fire destroyed or damaged 24 major firms. Preliminary estimates indicated damage would run well over $1,000,000.

The flames were fed by oil and gasoline floating on flood waters.

Receding waters left scenes of desolation. Houses standing on end. lying on their sides or tilted at weird angles. Porches hung on the tops of light poles, bedding on utility wires.

Tanks and barrels were perched on roofs. Household furniture was smashed and covered with thick mud. Piles of debris—floating lumber, porches, roofs and window frames were swept against some buildings.

Repairs Slow

It will be weeks before wrecked gas lines, broken water mains and telephone and light circuits can be repaired.

In the flooded industrial district, workers sought to salvage what they could from first and second floors where waters had swept over machinery and other installations.

In meatpacking plants, crews worked day and night to save perishables. Refrigeration units were wrecked.

One company took out more than a million pounds of meat in boats and still has several million more pounds to remove.

Livestock that survived the flood also were being moved to higher ground as the water level dropped.

Engineers worked feverishly to restore to operation the Turkey creek pumping station, which normally supplies two thirds of Kansas City, Mo., with water. The full task of supplying the city is now being carried by one station.

Organization Formed

A non-profit organization—Disaster Corp., Inc.—has been set up here to clean up flood damage.

Crews will operate 24 hours a day.

Union officials estimated approximately 35,000 of their men will be available for the jobs.

Half of the 20,000 Topekans forced to leave their homes had returned. Many however, won't be able to go back for days.

Many hard hit Kansas towns—Manhattan, Junction City, Ottawa, Abilene, Lawrence, Salina, Great Bend and others—surveyed their damage and turned to rehabilitation work.

As the flood waters rushed eastward across Missouri, army engineers at St. Louis called for more help to sandbag dikes along the Mississippi river. The Missouri empties into the Mississippi north of St. Louis.

The swollen Mississippi has inched its way into the river front industrial area in St. Louis but officials hope a major overflow can be averated.

"The afternoon session of the conference was more formal," the army statement said. It added:

The United Nations command delegation felt that some progress may be recorded in the conference sessions."

Only Two Armed Men

For the third day there were no Red guards near the tiled building where meetings are held. The allied party saw only two armed Communists in Kaesong.

Both were North Korean police. One stood in a traffic circle with a Red flag in one hand, a white flag in the other. He presumably was directing the almost non-existent traffic. The other was leading an ox cart.

Negotiators appeared to be in good spirits when they came out of Tuesday's sessions.

animals to the show and see how they compare with his neighbors and friends. No special preparation has to be taken with the animals, just bring them from pasture as they are. This differs from the fairs in that many fit the animals carefully for several weeks in advance.

At lunch time a picnic basket lunch will be held. It will be in the form of a big family picnic with neighbors and friends enjoying the noontime activities. During the lunch hour introductions of visitors will be made. In the afternoon a ringside judging contest will take place so that the onlookers will have a chance to match their decisions with the judges.

Entries Close July 21

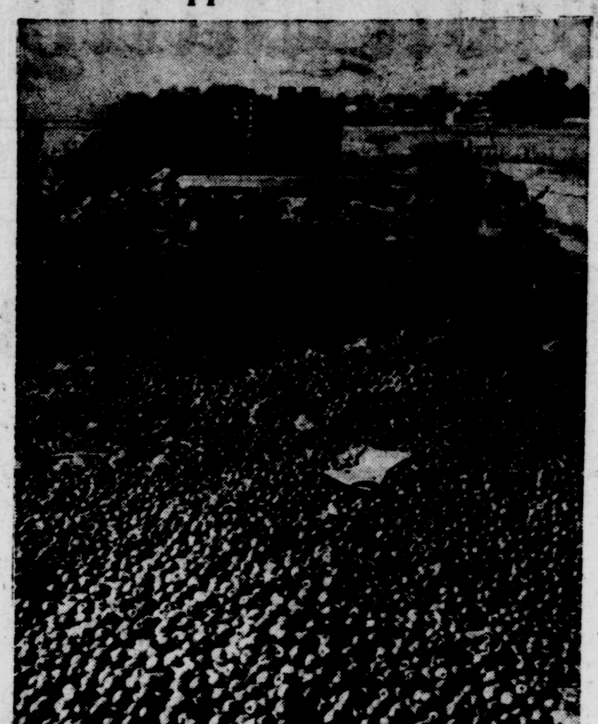

Entries still may be made until July 21 by sending them to Dan Barnhart at Stone Ridge. The animals must be registered Holsteins. Certain health requirements must be met and they can be learned from any club member.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend the show on Saturday, July 28. It will be an educational feature for all.

Acres of Apples Go Back to the Soil

A bull dozer pushes a pile of apples into the dump at Yakima, Wash., after growers said they could not keep them any longer for fear of spoilage. Some 2,000-3,000 carloads of fruit have been dumped because growers said nobody would buy it at 50 cents a box and the fruit would soon decay. (AP Wirephoto)

Medal Turns Up Safely

Tokyo, July 17 (AP)—A Florida sergeant's lost Bronze Star medal has turned up safely—in the hands of a captured Chinese Red. Sfc. George Pitts, Tampa, won the medal in World War 2 and brought it to Korea. He lost it last December at the Changjin reservoir, deep inside North Korea. "It's the same one, all right," Pitts exclaimed after being shown the medal taken from a captured Red.

Offers Kansas Aid

Albany, N. Y., July 17 (AP)—Acting Gov. Frank C. Moore has offered "any services" of New York state to flood-stricken Kansas and Missouri. The offer was made yesterday in telegrams Moore sent to Governors Forrest D. Smith of Missouri and Edward F. Arn of Kansas.

Main Issue Is Canal

Alexandria, Egypt, July 17 (AP)—Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, secretary general of the Arab League, said today the main issue in the Anglo-Egyptian dispute over shipping through the Suez Canal is the attempt to slip oil through the Arab blockade of Israel.

Crime Committee

tee source indicated they probably will start late this month or early in August.

The committee will hold three days of public hearings here, starting Friday, on gambling activities in Atlantic City, N. J., and the northern Kentucky area across the Ohio river from Cincinnati.

The committee's life extends to Sept. 1, but the members want to close out their investigations by mid-August to allow time to prepare a final report.

Stiffer Penalties Bill

The House yesterday passed by voice vote a bill to stiffen penalties for violation of the narcotics and marihuana laws. The bill went to the Senate, where a similar measure drafted by the Crime Commission is awaiting action.

The House bill fixes minimum and maximum prison terms for offenders and would deny suspension of sentence or probation to persons convicted two or more more times.

A first offense would be punishable by a sentence of two to five years, a second offense five to ten years, and a third or subsequent offense ten to 20 years. The maximum fine in all cases would be $2,000.

Present law fixes no minimum penalties, and there are varying penalties under different federal laws. The House bill would make them uniform.

Would Bar Red Newsmen

Washington, July 17 (AP)—Senator O'Conor (D.-Md.), proposed today that all Communist newsmen be excluded from the U. S. until AP Correspondent William N. Oatis is released from jail in Czechoslovakia. O'Conor prepared for the Senate a resolution which also would bar all U. S. trade with Czechoslovakia as long as Oatis is held in prison. The Maryland Senator told the Senate that Oatis' conviction on charges that he was a spy "has shocked our people beyond words." Asserting that "if there ever was a newspaperman who is truly a credit to his profession, it is Bill Oatis" O'Conor declared.

May Go to State Board

Washington, July 17 (AP)—Workers claiming occupation deferment from the draft now may appeal to the appeal board in the state where they work rather than to their home board, Selective Service said today. The agency also amended its regulations to enable an employer to file such an appeal for his employe with the local board instead of with the employe's home board.

LAURIS LAMBERT

A quartet of newcomers will be introduced at the Woodstock Playhouse tonight during the opening of Trio, dramatic version of Dorothy Parker's best selling novel of the same name. Actresses appearing for the first time on the Woodstock stage are Dorothy McLaughlin, Lauris Lambert, Anna Leonard and Elnita Ostrom.

Trio, by the author of Young Man With a Horn, recounts the crucial, decisive moment in the lives of three people, a French teacher, her admiring assistant, and a student.

Oddly enough, Miss McLaughlin, who will be cast tonight in the French professor's role, is also a teacher in private life, coaching and directing productions for the University of Texas.

Lauris Lambert, who plays the assistant, Janet, has worked with Paramount Pictures in New York, appearing in So Young, So Bad with Paul Henreid and Catherine McLeod, and The Golden Twenties, a Louis De Rochemont film. Her most recent New York appearance was with the Group Players in The Young and Fair.

The third newcomer, in private life, is Salem Ludwig's better half. Salem, for those with weak memories, is the lad who has been knocking himself out for the past week as that wonderful GI, Colucci. Anna Leonard, meanwhile, has worked both as an actor and director with Boston community treatres, has several years stock beneath her belt, and has worked under Constance Welch at the Yale Drama School where she received her MFA degree.

Others appearing in this week's cast are Van Williams as the student Ray, third point of the trio's strange triangle, Maurice Edwards, Willis Claire, Heywood Hale Broun, and Conrad Hamanaka.

Trio's last performance will be Sunday, July 22, at 8:40 p. m.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 17 (AP)—After a hesitant and sagging start, the stock market today turned around and headed higher.

Buying of a light nature came into the rails, steels and oils, and the remainder of the market followed their lead forward in a moderate advance.

Leaders posted gains generally less than a dollar a share with outstanding exceptions. Losses were largely fractional.

Shell Oil and Northern Pacific shot ahead around 3 points after Shell announced discovery of a new wildcat oil well on land in northeastern Montana leased from the railroad.

Montana-Dakota Utilities was up around 2 points in apparent sympathy with the other two stocks.

Stocks moving up today included Canadian Pacific (which has large oil holdings), New York Central, Amerada Petroleum (up as much as 7 points at times), Standard Oil (NJ), U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Gypsum, Kennecott Copper, American Cyanamid, Union Carbide, American Can, International Paper, Sears Roebuck, and Caterpillar Tractor.

CSRB stocks tended lower. On the downside were Arkansas Natural Gas "A", Brazilian Traction, Clinchifield Coal, Consolidated Mining & Smelting, Creole Petroleum, Kaiser-Frazer, and National Rubber Machinery. Higher were New Jersey Zinc, Ryan Consolidated Petroleum, and U. S. Foil "B".

Investor Forum

by Harry C. France

Today in a Broadway, New York city, grocery store, I met a shopping friend. Knowing of my interest in prices and such things, she asked: "Aren't edibles awfully high? This little package of food costs me $8.81. That's about what I get in interest on $500 for a whole year in my savings bank."

Well, I bought a dozen eggs for 91 cents, a pound of butter for 85 cents, two small cans of salmon for $1.66 and ten pounds of sugar for 98 cents. Small change was left out of a five dollar bill which I proffered in payment.

We walked down the street together chatting about one of my favorite themes: Low interest rates and high prices. In a city like New York this is a painful problem in thousands of homes. And its evil consequences encompass the country. Finally, as we were about to go our separate ways, she again asked:

"What could be done with say, $5,000? All I'm getting now is $100 a year and you know how quickly that goes with prices as they are."

"Well," I answered, "if you want to speculate, you can presently get 8 and 10 and 12 per cent annually by buying stocks of medium grade that do carry considerable risk."

I shall carry this conversation no farther. It developed surprising proportions. Economic necessity does drive people to extremes and her case was no exception.

Economic conditions do create alluring invitations to speculate. Right now in the United States a deep and broad psychological base for speculation exists. It has never carried greater potentialities. There are 70-million people and institutions owning low yielding government bonds. There are millions of savings bank depositors.

Almost without exception, all of these persons have economic problems of a nature similar to those of the widow mentioned earlier in this article. And what will they do in the future? Nobody knows. But if even a million of them should start doing what the widow is, America would experience a wild wave of speculation.

Risk-taking dynamite is present in the national economy. Currency in circulation totals more than $27-billion. That can be dangerous money. Its flow is unpredictable.

Commercial bank deposits are $150-billion. Mutual savings banks carry $20-billions of deposit money. United States savings bonds run into $58-billions. And United States Treasury bills, notes and bonds total $138-billion more.

Add all of this up! It reaches the unheard of amount of $393-billions! No wonder eggs are 91 cents a dozen and butter 85 cents a pound.

During the past twenty years, the fires of inflation, started mainly in Washington, have been kept going by a great variety of political and economic forces. And the end is far, far ahead.

What I can't understand is this: why stock prices long before this have not gone through the high levels of 1929. Personally, I think they will eventually.

In 1929 speculators borrowed money at 20 per cent a year to carry stocks paying 2 and 3 per cent in dividends on margin. Speculative psychology was favorable in those days.

Today, strange to relate, people will not take idle money or two per cent savings bank money or two and a half per cent government bond cash to buy sound stocks outright that pay 6 and 7 and 8 per cent a year. Psychology is as wrong today as it was in 1929.

I firmly believe that the invitation to speculate will, before the present tempestuous times are over, be broadly accepted. Interest rates and high living costs dictate such a course. There are millions of good Americans who sooner or later will have the 2 per cent interest-91 cents a dozen egg dilemma solved. A great many of them will grasp the speculative invitation.

Macaroni Tip

To vary the way you serve elbow macaroni add a little catsup or chili sauce to it after you have cooked and drained it; put it in a baking dish, sprinkle with grated cheese, and reheat and brown in the oven.

Turnips With Peas, Carrots

Diced cooked turnip tastes good mixed with cooked peas and carrots; season well with salt and freshly-ground pepper and butter or margarine.

Kelly In Court

could at this time indicate when they could be ready for trial. He stated the next term of County Court will be in September, followed by one in November.

District Louis G. Bruhn indicated he would be ready in September but would not oppose additional time for counsel to prepare defense.

Asks for November

St. John asked that the case go over to the November term, stating that he had just entered the case and Mr. Whitman, except for the argument, was not familiar with the case. The case was set down for trial at the November term.

When Kelly appeared in court he was informed of his rights to counsel and asked if he had employed counsel. Replying in the negative, Judge Cashin then informed Kelly he would assign counsel. Judge Cashin indicated he would not force the trial but permit counsel just assigned to have ample time to prepare defense.

Attorney Knapp, after a formal plea of innocent had been entered for Kelly, inquired of the court if the right to make further motions in regard to that plea might not be held open. Judge Cashin informed Knapp that any application concerning the innocent plea might be later entertained.

Woman Shot on Main Street

Kelly was convicted of shooting Mrs. McHugh as she was walking along Main street on her way to work on the morning of May 22. After the alleged shooting of Mrs. McHugh he turned the deer rifle on himself, inflicting a slight wound on the forehead. The shooting took place after Kelly had stopped the car he was driving, across the street from where Mrs. McHugh was walking.

On the last trial Kelly was found guilty and sentenced to death in the electric chair. That conviction was reversed by the Court of Appeals on a technicality in the charge to the jurors by the court.

It is expected the defense on the second trial in November will be based on the theory that Kelly was not responsible for his actions at the time of the shooting. This may well be based on one sentence of the opinion written by Judge Conway which reads: "They (the jury) were not adequately apprised of the fact that the evidence adduced by The People may, by its very nature, have within it proof that defendant was not responsible for his actions."

When he appeared in court Kelly, who is now confined to the county jail, appeared calm and unmoved by the proceedings.

10 Are Indicted

Miami, Fla., July 17 (AP)—Former Dade County Sheriff Jimmy Sullivan, his wife, Ethel, and eight other persons indicted yesterday on income tax charges, probably won't face trial until late fall. Assistant U. S. District Attorney Ernest L. Duhaime said this is only the first of batches of income tax cases on which indictments can be expected.

Farmer's Compensation

U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Brannan says the average U. S. farmer gets about 69 cents an hour for his labor plus five per cent interest on his investment with no allowance for payment of the farmer for managing his farm.

Snow Value

U. S. experts show the value of snow in high country for irrigation by pointing out that about 20 per cent of Utah is above 7,000 feet high, but this 20 per cent of the state contributes 80 per cent of the runoff used for irrigation.

GENERAL MANUFACTURING MANAGER

We need a young executive who can assume complete responsibility for the production of pre-cast concrete roofing and siding.

Reporting to the President, he will be responsible for raw material purchasing, production planning, quality control, inspection, shipping, labor relations, plant accounting, plant engineering and all other phases of manufacturing.

The company is a small one. Starting salary $9,000, with a bonus arrangement based on profit.

Experience in mechanized foundry or cement cinder block plant would be useful, but not essential.

Wickersham Praised For Defense Setup

New York, July 17 (AP)—Nassau county's retired civil defense director, Lt. Gen. Cornelius W. Wickersham, was praised yesterday for the progress made by his organization. Col. Lawrence Wilkinson, chairman and director of the state Civil Defense Commission, said in a letter to Wickersham that Nassau county's civil defense organization was "far ahead of most of the state both in the precision and intelligence of its planning, and in the large number of volunteers enrolled and in training." Wickersham, who retired last week, is remaining as an informal advisor to the county organization, Wilkinson said.

Pleads Innocent

San Luis Obispo, Calif., July 17 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret G. Ryan, wealthy New York widow, has pleaded innocent of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of a young trespasser on her California ranch last month. The widow of a grandson of the late financier Thomas Fortune Ryan in court yesterday waived the right to a trial within 60 days, Superior Judge Ray B. Lyon set the case for Oct. 30. Mrs. Ryan, at liberty on $10,000 bail, admitted at the coroner's inquest she shot 22-year-old Leonard D. Ray, but insisted it was accidentaly after he threatened her with a rifle.

'Y' Camp Attracts Large Crowd Again

The Pine Knoll YMCA Day Camp at DeWitt Lake is again breaking a record for a fourth week registration with over 125 registered every day throughout the first four weeks. This is the best continuous registrations of the nine years of day camping, Lou Schafer, camp director, reported this morning.

The weather during the third week was ideal and all boys and girls received much benefit from this out-of-doors living. All boys and girls are reported to be healthy individuals and all are participating in all the camp activities in the two large camp groves. While some are active in the game and recreational program, others are doing excellent craft work in electric jig saw wood work in cutting out animals and varnishing them for home decoration, while others are doing leather work and still others are learning to make bracelets, whistle lanyards and dog leashes from pyro lacing. Instead of the daily refreshment last Friday, all campers participated in the party or special treat of ice cream which all campers enjoyed.

Some boys and girls will drop out from camp this week, but there are many others to take their place. The new campers this week include in the junior camp: LeRoy Winkler, Michael Toffel, Richard Raible, Carol Blackwell, Helen Henderson, James Thompson, Joseph Shuler.

New campers in the senior camp are Thomas Myers, Mildred Winkler, David Ebel, Robert and Barbara DuMond, Patricia Gendreau, Michael Martini, Thomas and Judson Emerick and John Daley.

Many more campers were expected to register this morning because of the many telephone calls received by Schafer who told the parents to report at the Y this morning ready for Day Camp.

The cards of today's hand are exactly the same as those shown yesterday. They are just twisted around to show the declarer in the South position.

North should have doubled four diamonds, as I pointed out in yesterday's column. When the hand was actually dealt North passed over four diamonds. South, who was not an expert, went on to five clubs.

West led two top diamonds, and South ruffed the second. Declarer decided to ruff one of dummy's remaining small diamonds. Next he would draw trumps from the dummy. Finally he would run the spades, for a total of eleven tricks.

This was a good plan. No expert could have improved on it, but the plan needed careful handling. After ruffing the second diamond, South led the eight of clubs to dummy's jack. Looks harmless, doesn't it? About as harmless as TNT.

He returned a diamond from dummy, according to plan, and East promptly discarded his singleton spade. South ruffed with the nine of clubs and laid down the club ace. But now there was no way to re-enter dummy to draw East's trumps. When South tried to get to dummy with a spade East ruffed. This was the second defensive trick, and the defenders were bound to get a heart or a diamond later on to defeat the contract.

The correct play was to enter dummy for the first time with a spade, not with a trump. This gives East no chance to get rid of his singleton spade. Then declarer ruffs a diamond, cashes the ace of clubs, and leads his last trump to dummy. It is then easy to continue the plan by drawing trumps and running the spades.

Here's good judgment in Warm Weather Feeding

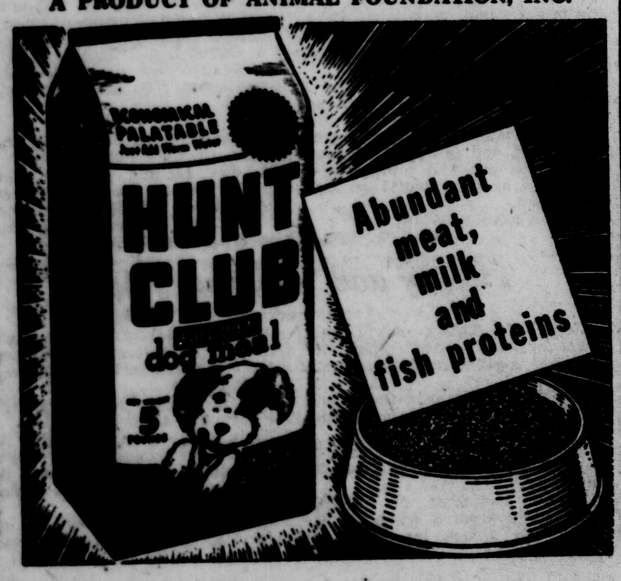

Feed Hunt Club full-diet meal every day. It may seem like monotony — but it is the kind of monotony dogs thrive on, and appreciate.

In warm weather especially, dogs need Hunt Club's taste-teasing flavor to keep them eating sufficiently. They need Hunt Club's digestibility for easy assimilation. They need Hunt Club's higher efficiency to make them feel more comfortable; they get energy and satisfaction without distressing bulk.

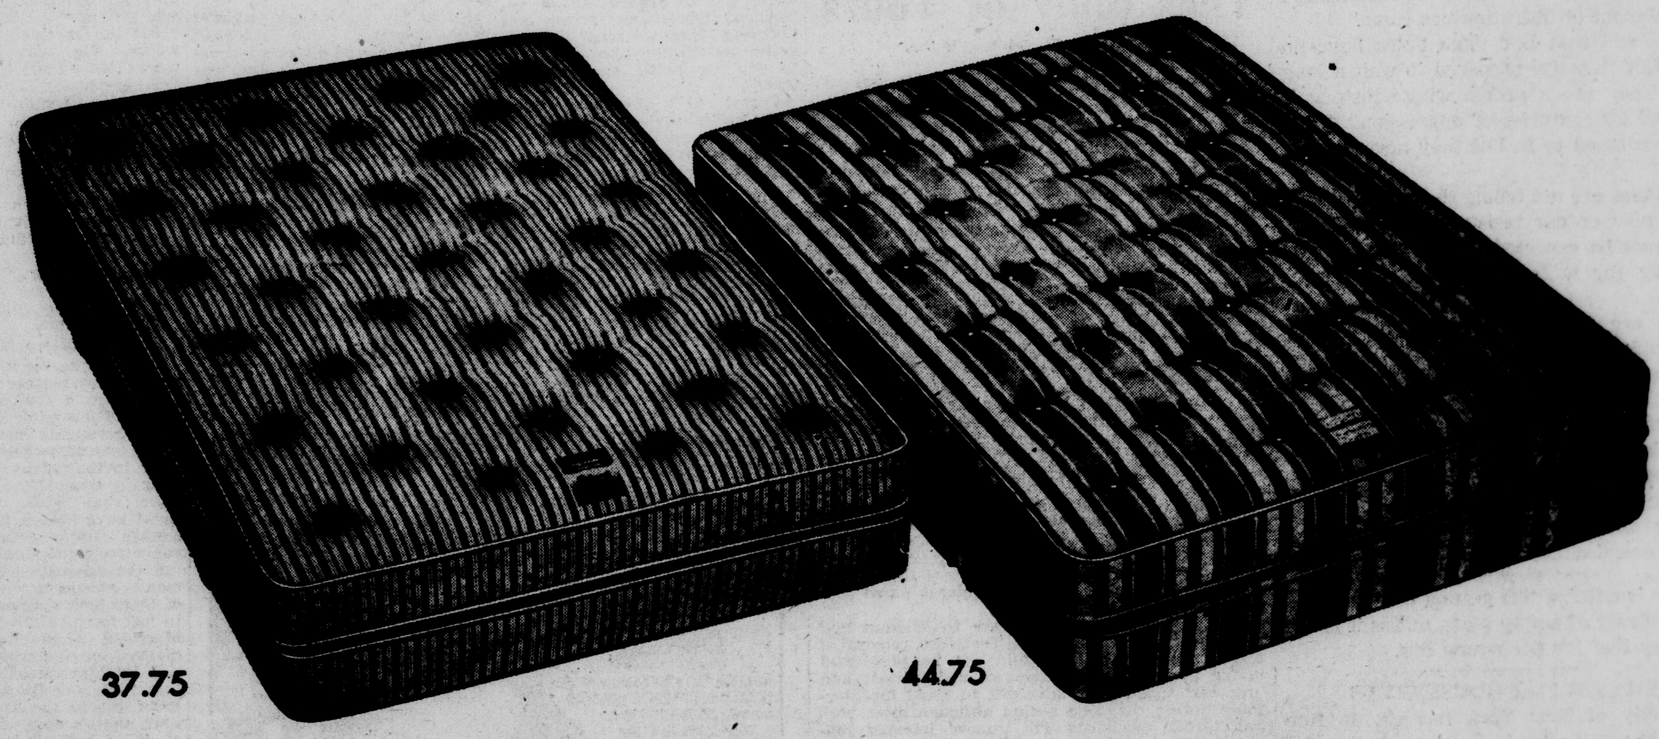

You're certain of freshness, too . . . the makers of Hunt Club don't want dogs eating stale food. And, since these are the most active days for so many dogs they need Hunt Club's high energy . . . it comes from proper protein, carbohydrates, and fat.

Change now . . . do your dog a warm weather favor.

Wickersham Praised For Defense Setup

New York, July 17 (AP)—Nassau county's retired civil defense director, Lt. Gen. Cornelius W. Wickersham, was praised yesterday for the progress made by his organization. Col. Lawrence Wilkinson, chairman and director of the state Civil Defense Commission, said in a letter to Wickersham that Nassau county's civil defense organization was "far ahead of most of the state both in the precision and intelligence of its planning, and in the large number of volunteers enrolled and in training." Wickersham, who retired last week, is remaining as an informal advisor to the county organization, Wilkinson said.

Pleads Innocent

San Luis Obispo, Calif., July 17 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret G. Ryan, wealthy New York widow, has pleaded innocent of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of a young trespasser on her California ranch last month. The widow of a grandson of the late financier Thomas Fortune Ryan in court yesterday waived the right to a trial within 60 days, Superior Judge Ray B. Lyon set the case for Oct. 30. Mrs. Ryan, at liberty on $10,000 bail, admitted at the coroner's inquest she shot 22-year-old Leonard D. Ray, but insisted it was accidentaly after he threatened her with a rifle.

'Y' Camp Attracts Large Crowd Again

The Pine Knoll YMCA Day Camp at DeWitt Lake is again breaking a record for a fourth week registration with over 125 registered every day throughout the first four weeks. This is the best continuous registrations of the nine years of day camping, Lou Schafer, camp director, reported this morning.

The weather during the third week was ideal and all boys and girls received much benefit from this out-of-doors living. All boys and girls are reported to be healthy individuals and all are participating in all the camp activities in the two large camp groves. While some are active in the game and recreational program, others are doing excellent craft work in electric jig saw wood work in cutting out animals and varnishing them for home decoration, while others are doing leather work and still others are learning to make bracelets, whistle lanyards and dog leashes from pyro lacing. Instead of the daily refreshment last Friday, all campers participated in the party or special treat of ice cream which all campers enjoyed.

Some boys and girls will drop out from camp this week, but there are many others to take their place. The new campers this week include in the junior camp: LeRoy Winkler, Michael Toffel, Richard Raible, Carol Blackwell, Helen Henderson, James Thompson, Joseph Shuler.

New campers in the senior camp are Thomas Myers, Mildred Winkler, David Ebel, Robert and Barbara DuMond, Patricia Gendreau, Michael Martini, Thomas and Judson Emerick and John Daley.

Many more campers were expected to register this morning because of the many telephone calls received by Schafer who told the parents to report at the Y this morning ready for Day Camp.

Quickly Cooked Beets

If you want to cook fresh beets quickly pare and dice them, then boil in a small amount of water in a tightly covered saucepan until tender.

The cards of today's hand are exactly the same as those shown yesterday. They are just twisted around to show the declarer in the South position.

North should have doubled four diamonds, as I pointed out in yesterday's column. When the hand was actually dealt North passed over four diamonds. South, who was not an expert, went on to five clubs.

West led two top diamonds, and South ruffed the second. Declarer decided to ruff one of dummy's remaining small diamonds. Next he would draw trumps from the dummy. Finally he would run the spades, for a total of eleven tricks.

This was a good plan. No expert could have improved on it, but the plan needed careful handling. After ruffing the second diamond, South led the eight of clubs to dummy's jack. Looks harmless, doesn't it? About as harmless as TNT.

He returned a diamond from dummy, according to plan, and East promptly discarded his singleton spade. South ruffed with the nine of clubs and laid down the club ace. But now there was no way to re-enter dummy to draw East's trumps. When South tried to get to dummy with a spade East ruffed. This was the second defensive trick, and the defenders were bound to get a heart or a diamond later on to defeat the contract.

The correct play was to enter dummy for the first time with a spade, not with a trump. This gives East no chance to get rid of his singleton spade. Then declarer ruffs a diamond, cashes the ace of clubs, and leads his last trump to dummy. It is then easy to continue the plan by drawing trumps and running the spades.

The average American uses about 350 pounds of paper a year, northern Europeans about 116 pounds and Asiatics about two and four-tenths pounds.

Here's good judgment in Warm Weather Feeding

Feed Hunt Club full-diet meal every day. It may seem like monotony — but it is the kind of monotony dogs thrive on, and appreciate.

In warm weather especially, dogs need Hunt Club's taste-teasing flavor to keep them eating sufficiently. They need Hunt Club's digestibility for easy assimilation. They need Hunt Club's higher efficiency to make them feel more comfortable; they get energy and satisfaction without distressing bulk.

You're certain of freshness, too . . . the makers of Hunt Club don't want dogs eating stale food. And, since these are the most active days for so many dogs they need Hunt Club's high energy . . . it comes from proper protein, carbohydrates, and fat.

Change now . . . do your dog a warm weather favor.

POLISH RESISTANCE MOVEMENT

Often you hear it said that Russia doesn't want a big war now because she fears her satellites would prove untrustworthy in battle.

All reports from the satellites indicate that the Russians are not loved by the peoples of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria. But there are wide differences among them in their will and their ability to combat their masters in Moscow.

The resistance movement in Poland is generally viewed as the strongest and most active. Indeed, the conduct of the Polish underground is an example to men of the resistance in other lands, and to all free peoples.

The Poles have a real resistance army, organized in secret cadres. They have stores of arms cached away. They are prepared for sabotage on an extensive scale. Taken together, these factors make them a genuinely dangerous threat to the Kremlin's control of Poland.

The regular Polish army, under command of Russian General Rokossovsky, is shot through with resistance members and sympathizers. As presently constituted, it can only be a huge question mark in Stalin's strategy for the conquest of Western Europe.

The Polish peasants raised such a furore about certain restrictive, collectivizing proposals affecting their farms that the Kremlin's puppet government had to back down. In fact, the measures were so unpopular Moscow felt it necessary to liquidate the officials publicly labeled as responsible for them.

Yet with all this acknowledged strength, the Polish underground is playing an extremely cautious hand. The army trains, but it does not act. The arms are kept hidden. Factory slow-downs and incidents of sabotage do occur, but on a limited scale.

The mood is one of watchful waiting. The men of the underground, remembering Poland's costly premature uprising against the Nazis in World War II, are determined not to repeat that mistake. They do not intend to strike full force until they are convinced their moment of liberation has come.

When will that be? The Poles have no idea. But they are prepared to wait a long time. They are a people whose history is darkened by centuries of oppression. They are accustomed to it, but they never accept it.

The Poles are not telling the West: "Liberate us now or our resistance will collapse. We cannot be expected to risk our lives indefinitely for a freedom that may never come."

They are not built that way. An unquenchable flame of independence burns in them, and no oppressor, however cruel, can snuff it out. Nor will the oppressor ever be made to feel at home in Poland.

If it is true the Russians are worried over the loyalty of their satellites in war, they must be troubled most of all by the fierce courage and the infinite patience of their tireless enemies, the Poles.

There is nothing like getting on a bus and finding plenty of empty seats, unless it is the discovery that it's the wrong bus.

CLASSES FOR HOUSEWIVES

The city of New York has set up free classes in menu planning and marketing for housewives who live there. The classes will provide the housewives, one city official said, with a list of the seasonably reasonable and plentiful food items available in the marketplaces. A nutritionist will be at the classes to assist the women in planning economical menus which will not sacrifice food values.

This action on the part of New York is an intelligent effort to combat inflation by taking positive action. It emphasizes what individuals can do to keep their own living costs down. The housewife who is informed as to how she can feed her family on less money and where she can buy the food to do it can be a big factor in curbing inflation. Perhaps the idea of such education might be tried in other parts of the country to good advantage.

'These Days'

A FOOTNOTE FROM HONGKONG

The "Hongkong Standard" discusses at great length Dean Acheson's astonishing statement that "Chiank Kai-shek and other Chinese Nationalist leaders were entirely satisfied with the terms of the Yalta agreement and the Sino-Soviet treaty negotiated on the basis of it."

The Hongkong newspaper calls attention to these facts:

". . . Only four months after the conclusion of this (Yalta) agreement was China advised of its existence. China had either to raise a hue and cry at the risk of impairing allied unity in the war to acquiesce in the act of misappropriation committed by the United States and Great Britain and reply (sic) on their support to insure the faithful observance of the agreement by the Soviet Union. In a sacrificing spirit, China reluctantly entered into negotiations with Russia for the conclusion of a formal treaty. Through the months of July and August, 1945, the negotiations were on the point of breaking down at various stages; but the sudden surrender of Japan paved the way for its conclusion, as China was then anxious to preserve the esprit de corps with the United States for the sake of her future programme of rehabilitation and reconstruction, and also because Russia solemnly undertook to refrain from lending aid to the Chinese Communists. . . ."

This is a fair statement of what happened. It will be recalled that the President of the United States undertook at Yalta to get Chiang to reach an agreement with Soviet Russia. Had Chiang rejected Roosevelt's proposals, he would have faced the antagonism of both Roosevelt and Stalin. His peril was so great that he had no alternative but to agree to the Soong-Molotov treaty.

I quote from this article copiously because it seems to me to be so complete as to represent not only considerable study but Formosan inspiration. It looks like an indirect Chiang Kai-shek reply to Dean Acheson. Therefore, it is important to note that Dean Acheson's statement made before the Russell Committee that the United States gave Chiang $2,000,000,000 as aid, since the end of the war, is analyzed and brought to a much lower figure.

Of the $2,000,000,000, according to the "Hongkong Standard," $1,200,000,000 was non-military aid concerning which the paper says that "no less than 50 per cent must be charged to 'expenses and services' (including those of American engineering firms, shipping companies and technicians). Of the remainder of the $600,000,000, the sum of $500,000,000 must be charged to the so-called 'surplus property' sold to China by General George C. Marshall. In this deal China was to get not what she wanted or needed but what the United States did not find it economical to ship back to its own shores. Much of the surplus property consisted of such useless things as vitamin pills, cosmetics, canned foods unsafe for human consumption, and spare parts which could fit into nothing, and equipment for which China had no use. Whatever remained useful had to be reconditioned at great expense. It is estimated that of this $500,000,000 worth of surplus property, no more than $100,000,000 in value was actually received by China. . . ." (Note: The billions and millions got twisted in Hongkong.)

And of this amount, the Hongkong newspaper says:

". . . It is less than the amount which the United Nations has to spend for its police action in Korea for less than a month while China had to spread over a period of five years and over an area at least 10 times larger than Korea. Certainly, it is infinitely less than the price of Manchuria which the United States gave away to Russia with consequences which cannot be expressed in terms of dollars and cents."

The article ends in a characteristic Chinese parable which no one can misunderstand:

"In the present Senate investigation, China is like a helpless child standing between a friendly relative and an unfriendly stepmother while they quarrel about her before all the neighbors. If the child utters one word on the side of the stepmother, she may displease the relative; if the child utters a word on the side of the relative, she may make the unfriendly step-mother all the more unfriendly; and if the child keeps silent, all the mud now being smeared about her may be considered as being well deserved in the opinion of all the neighbors, and what is more, she may even lose the relative's moral support and thereafter all the material support from the step-mother who will then have no one to fear for abandoning her altogether."

Even Dean Acheson ought to taste the kernel of this little parable.

TONSILS—HELPFUL AND HARMFUL

I write often about the tonsils because the removal of tonsils that are infected not only may prevent attacks of rheumatic fever, childhood's greatest enemy, but may prevent heart disease or death itself. On the other hand, unless tonsils are infected or are interfering with breathing, they should not be removed. The Creator placed them in the throat to prevent harmful organisms from entering the blood stream; the tonsils are great filters.

Leave healthy tonsils in the throat until about the age of puberty when all childhood ailments are passed. It is particularly necessary to leave healthy tonsils when the individual suffers with the common cold as healthy tonsils prevent the common cold in most cases.

In Today's Health, Dr. Edgar P. Copeland states that tonsils are removed too often; removal of tonsils sacrifices a "strategic line of defense." Lung infections and bronchitis are more common in children who have had their tonsils and adenoids removed.

However, the tonsils should be removed in the following cases or conditions: (1) interference with breathing, swallowing or hearing; (2) chronically infected tonsils with frequent occurrences of tonsillitis and sinusitis; (3) tuberculosis of the tonsils; (4) kidney or heart disease or enlarge gland tonsillitis.

Infected tonsils, however, are treacherous and can start many complications. Therefore, removal of tonsils (tonsillectomy) should not be performed in the presence of infections of nose, throat and bronchial tubes. It is advisable to avoid tonsillectomy during the polio season although most nose and throat specialists will remove infected tonsils if they feel that an attack of rheumatic fever or heart disease may occur, even if during the polio season.

Throat surgeons try to avoid removal of tonsils during measles and influenza epidemics.

Where the tonsils must be removed and parents and surgeons can select the most suitable time, the operation is best performed after the age of four years.

To repeat, I write often about the danger of leaving infected tonsils in the throat—rheumatic fever, rheumatism and arthritis, heart disease, eye, ear, sinus and kidney diseases. And I write often about the mistake of removing healthy tonsils, even if large, as the removal of healthy tonsils removes Nature's effective guard of the nose, throat and lungs, and the destroyer of harmful organisms.

There'll Be a Slight Delay

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson has had many bitter battles with labor both before and after he came to Washington. However, the former General Electric boss pulled shoulder-to-shoulder with labor leaders last week in a closed-door assault on Congress for failing to pass effective price controls.

More than 100 House members, including about 20 Republicans, heard Wilson, AFL President Bill Green and CIO Secretary-treasurer James Carey denounce the badly gutted price control bill as a boon to Joe Stalin and an invitation to ruinous inflation.

"If the dollar goes down to 25 cents in value because Congress has failed to control prices, Joe Stalin will have gained a great victory without firing a shot," the ex-head of General Electric declared at the secret meeting, called by House Rules Chairman Adolph Sabath of Illinois.

"I do not agree with labor all the time, but I agree with labor on this. We are moving into a period of stepped-up production for defense that will greatly increase the pressure on our economy. Yet Congress is about to pass legislation that weakens controls on inflation instead of stiffening them.

"I'm from big business and I'm proud of it," continued Wilson, "even though this spokesman for labor"—he pointed to CIO's Jim Carey—"has ripped into me from time to time in the past. But we've got to realize—all of us, business, labor, the farmer and Congress—that we must pull together unselfishly if we are going to win the battle against inflation."

Carey, AFL President Green and Charles Anderson, an official of the railroad brotherhoods, vigorously supported Wilson.

Missing Diplomats

In the background of the State Department's re-examination of 500 members of its staff from top to bottom, including the suspension of several career diplomats pending security hearings, was the mysterious disappearance of the two British diplomats.

This scrutiny is no reflection on any particular person, and many of those suspended merely face technical charges. It is significant, furthermore, that the FBI lady informer, for many years a member of the Communist party, recently testified that she knew of no Communists in the State Department, though her job was to list the membership of all Washington Communists.

The State Department, however, is taking precautions, lest the same thing happen to the American diplomatic service that happened to the British. For, with the disappearance of the two British career men, it was necessary to fly special couriers all over the world to change the secret codes of both the United States and Britain. In addition, almost every secret known to the two countries was exposed—probably to the Kremlin.

Furthermore, this tragic loss of secrets could have been prevented by more alertness on the part of British authorities—which is why the State Department is staging a new self-inspection.

The most widespread and thorough manhunt in history has now been conducted for Donald MacLean and Guy Burgess. Allied agents have spent hundreds of hours trying to track down the missing men. They have combed the continent, searched the dives of Montmartre, inspected the waterfronts of Rotterdam, Antwerp, and La Havre; have even checked as far away as Argentina. But so far every trail has led up a blind alley.

Every day that passes makes it more conclusive that MacLean and Burgess have disappeared behind the Iron Curtain—as was first predicted by the companion who started off with them and then came home.

Meanwhile here is the story of what happened, as intelligence officers have carefully pieced it together. It is a story illustrating the need for housecleaning all diplomatic deadwood before it is too late.

A Neurotic Failure

1. Before leaving the United States in May, Guy Burgess had become a diplomatic failure. Perhaps as a result, he had also become an outspoken anti-American. There is no record, however, that he engaged in any pro-Russian activities while in this country, but he had been asked to leave the United States because of drunken-driving and a strong protest by Virginia's Governor John S. Battle.

Burgess was a sexual deviate, and an extensive search has been made to locate his friends in Washington. So far the search has proved futile. Burgess apparently had no close friends except for some of the dregs of the city.

2. Actually Burgess was no more than a diplomatic flunky attached to the British Embassy. Associates report that he was neurotic, unreliable and a bore. One associate described him as "an explosive mass of frustrations and inner conflicts." He should have been housecleaned long ago.

3. MacLean was of a different calibre. Only 38 years old and son of a distinguished father, he was the chief of the American division of the foreign office—a post in which he knew every vital allied secret.

In recent years, however, MacLean had become increasingly unstable. Due to overwork he had two nervous breakdowns. He had also acquired a personality unbalance somewhat similar to Burgess's, and his American wife was concerned.

4. Before Burgess and MacLean left together for France on May 25, Burgess, the bachelor, told friends he was going to "visit the continent" for several weeks. He was starting six weeks' leave from the foreign office, preparatory to looking for a new job. Significantly he didn't mention MacLean's name in any conversation about his forthcoming trip.

MacLean, however, didn't have any official leave from his government post. That Friday, when he left home, MacLean told his pregnant wife: "I'm going away for the weekend and will be back Sunday night or Monday morning." He didn't say where he was going. And he didn't mention Burgess's name.

No Extra Money

5. As far as the authorities can determine, neither man took more than a limited amount of money. Their bank accounts have been thoroughly checked and no heavy withdrawals were made prior to their departure. Neither man is thought to have taken more than $200, though they could have hidden funds in their clothes, funds received in advance from the Russians.

6. An exhaustive check of each man's wardrobe indicates both of them took only enough clothes to last for a relatively short trip. MacLean had only enough clothes for the weekend.

7. Intelligence officers are certain that both Burgess and MacLean got as far as Paris. However, there's absolutely no record of their arrival or presence in the French capital.

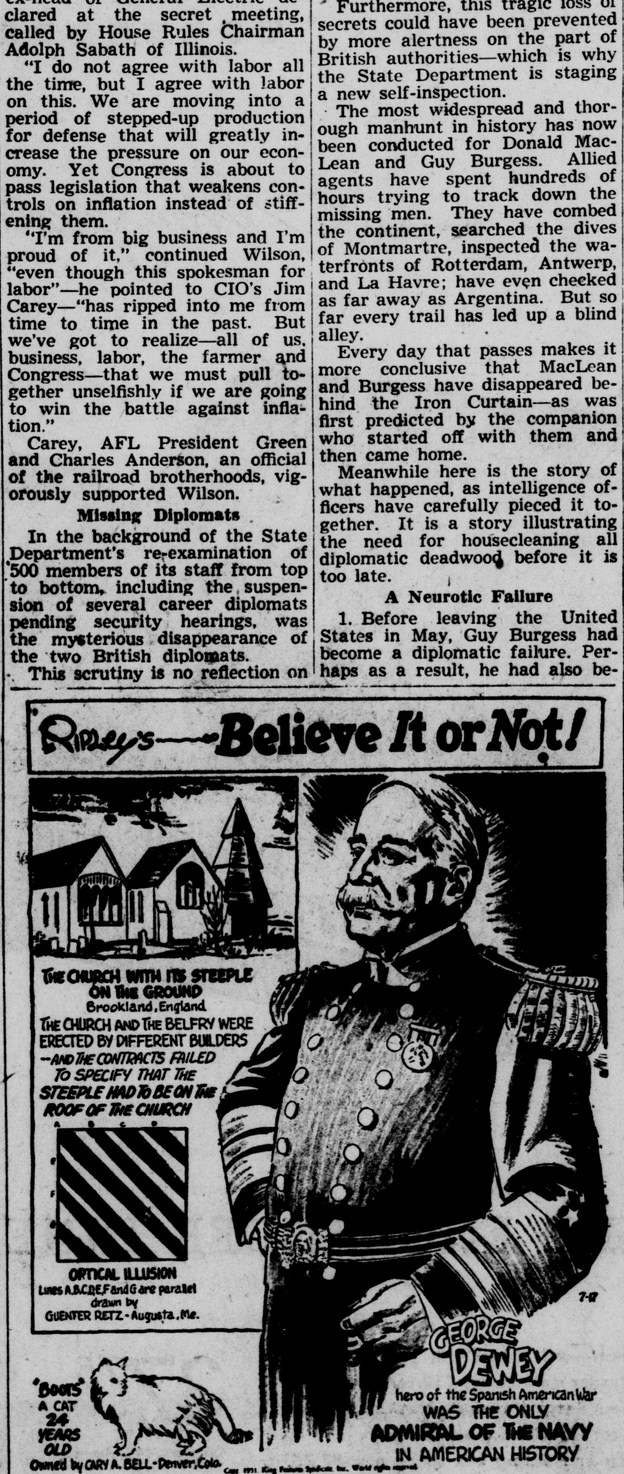

The pair left Southampton on the channel steamer "Falaise," docking at St. Malo. They proceeded from St. Malo to Rennes by taxi, telling the taxi driver they were trying to catch the 1.18 train to Paris. For some strange reason they had left their bags on the steamer—maybe for the purpose of starting completely fresh in the strange new Soviet world they were entering.

Despite thousands of interviews by the French police and British agents, the trial of the two British diplomats ends right here—with the two men, frustrated, at odds with the world, running bareheaded to catch the Paris train.

Russia's Note of Protest Reveals She's Fully Aware Armament Is Important in Jap Treaty

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 17—There is very little that's spectacular or revealing in the ponderous phrases of a peace treaty, and maybe that's the reason the real significance of the proposed pact with Japan appears to have escaped general attention.

For the document paves the way for the rearmament of Japan as against the Communists of China and Soviet Russia.

While the Japanese constitution forbids the revival of militarism and limits armament to self-defense, the new treaty specifically opens the door to Japanese participation in a collective defense agreement which could be as important to the western Pacific area as the North Atlantic Treaty was designed to be for the defense of Europe.

Russia is fully alive to the meaning of the new treaty with Japan. Her note of protest, dated June 10 last, raised the issue of armament. The Department of State here has just made reply as follows:

"In essence, the Soviet memorandum objected not to anything contained in the draft treaty but because the treaty would not restrict Japan with respect to the right of individual or collective self-defense, a right recognized by the United Nations charter as 'inherent.' The government of the Soviet Union would have the peace treaty deny to Japan the right hereafter to enter into collective-security arrangements with other countries of its choosing. This is a viewpoint which the government of the United States cannot accept."

So the issue is joined already. The United States, in association with Great Britain and other powers in the Pacific, has insisted that Japan be permitted to rearm. Those persons who feared that Russia would have been provoked into general war by bombing a few bases in China's territory may argue that to sign the proposed Japanese treaty will be giving further provocation now to Russia.

But the American government fortunately has taken a firm stand behind the proposal to allow Japan to rearm. Already many observers see this as a countervailing move—one that can in time offer a checkmate to the rise of both Communist China and Russia's armament in the Far East.

Reports vary as to what could be done as a practical matter by Japan. Her main army did not suffer much in World War 2. Most of the officers and trained men are still available if the U.N. should set up a system calling for their participation.

The problem is not much different from that which faces the allies in Europe with respect to Germany. Would a rearmed Japan be a militaristic menace? The answer usually heard is that, unless Japan is provided with a navy which is not planned for her—she could not disturb the peace of the Far East. This is but another way of saying that the British and American navies would have the principal responsibility for the defense of Japan and for protecting the transport of any of her divisions of troops to the mainland of Asia should war with Russia develop there.

Certainly if World War 3 breaks out, there will be operations in the Far East in which Japan will play a part. The consummation of a peace treaty releases Japan to begin to take steps as a member of a collective-security team—to help resist large-scale aggression.

Much depends, however, on how much progress the Communists may make in infiltrating inside Japan as they did in China. Also, economic support has to be given the Japanese people so that they can sustain an armament program on the scale needed to stabilize the Far Eastern situation. On paper, it's a good plan. Whether it ever will be carried out depends on many factors not clear as yet, among them financial aid for Japan and Communist countertactics.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, July 16—After all the confirmed documentation of the activities of Drew Pearson as a propagandist of pro-Communist issues presented by Joe McCarthy on the floor of the Senate, Collier's Weekly and Time Magazine, whose own records on this issue are none too clean, have undertaken a questionable mission to rehabilitate him. In an attempt to muzzle me Pearson filed a suit against me in June, 1949, two years ago, charging that I had called him, in print, under my name and with conscious legal responsibility, a lying blackguard and a faker. I admitted authorship and publication and undertook to prove many flagrant lies, fakes and disgraceful abuses of the power of the press by Pearson for ulterior reasons.

The original charge arose from his statement that the late James E. Forrestal had been guilty of cowardice when his wife was being robbed by armed gunmen. He accused Forrestal of running away. Among the surrounding circumstances was a peculiar fact, that Pearson was trying to drive Forrestal out of office at a time when Forrestal was defending the American navy's interest in middle-eastern oil. Forrestal's only "client" was the United States of America and particularly her navy. For this devotion he was savagely abused.

After two years, Pearson still has not brought me to court with my proof of this and many other similar offenses set forth in plain, unflinching language in my answer on file in the Supreme Court of the county and state of New York. His purpose was to deter me from publishing further detailed serious charges under a general but not invariable custom of suspending controversy during the pendency of a suit. I refused to submit to this and went after him, publishing a whole series of instances of blackguardism, mendacity and fakery, all supported by details. Pearson let the statute of limitations run against these further charges without protest, denial or further legal action.

Some editors hold that the public has no interest in the "personal" disagreements of "columnists." True or not, this objection is beside the mark. It would be equally correct to say that the public has no interest in an editorial campaign waged by an editor against some great wrong in his community personified by some notorious individual. Pearson is not a person in this issue but an evil. The fact that he continues to be published by an uncertain number of newspapers notwithstanding the knowledge by the editors of documented charges against him, and proof that he employed Communist reporters and plugged the Communist line in these papers, is a serious blot on the reputation of the American press. At least three editors who continue to publish him have admitted that he writes lies.

Collier's built up a shady political reputation during the New Deal and war years which was documented from time to time. After the war, Collier's "cleaned house" and a change of policy was noted. Recently, Collier's published, gratuitously, another laudation of Pearson written by Pearson. In this, he surrounded himself with a reputation for brave and valuable work in the Balkans after the First World War. Pearson's compliments to himself are subject to a discount of 100 per cent on the basis of his proven mendacity. Aware of his reputation, Collier's must have made a deliberate decision to brazen it through.

POLISH RESISTANCE MOVEMENT

Often you hear it said that Russia doesn't want a big war now because she fears her satellites would prove untrustworthy in battle.

All reports from the satellites indicate that the Russians are not loved by the peoples of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria. But there are wide differences among them in their will and their ability to combat their masters in Moscow.

The resistance movement in Poland is generally viewed as the strongest and most active. Indeed, the conduct of the Polish underground is an example to men of the resistance in other lands, and to all free peoples.

The Poles have a real resistance army, organized in secret cadres. They have stores of arms cached away. They are prepared for sabotage on an extensive scale. Taken together, these factors make them a genuinely dangerous threat to the Kremlin's control of Poland.

The regular Polish army, under command of Russian General Rokossovsky, is shot through with resistance members and sympathizers. As presently constituted, it can only be a huge question mark in Stalin's strategy for the conquest of Western Europe.

The Polish peasants raised such a furore about certain restrictive, collectivizing proposals affecting their farms that the Kremlin's puppet government had to back down. In fact, the measures were so unpopular Moscow felt it necessary to liquidate the officials publicly labeled as responsible for them.

Yet with all this acknowledged strength, the Polish underground is playing an extremely cautious hand. The army trains, but it does not act. The arms are kept hidden. Factory slow-downs and incidents of sabotage do occur, but on a limited scale.

The mood is one of watchful waiting. The men of the underground, remembering Poland's costly premature uprising against the Nazis in World War II, are determined not to repeat that mistake. They do not intend to strike full force until they are convinced their moment of liberation has come.

When will that be? The Poles have no idea. But they are prepared to wait a long time. They are a people whose history is darkened by centuries of oppression. They are accustomed to it, but they never accept it.

The Poles are not telling the West: "Liberate us now or our resistance will collapse. We cannot be expected to risk our lives indefinitely for a freedom that may never come."

They are not built that way. An unquenchable flame of independence burns in them, and no oppressor, however cruel, can snuff it out. Nor will the oppressor ever be made to feel at home in Poland.

If it is true the Russians are worried over the loyalty of their satellites in war, they must be troubled most of all by the fierce courage and the infinite patience of their tireless enemies, the Poles.

There is nothing like getting on a bus and finding plenty of empty seats, unless it is the discovery that it's the wrong bus.

CLASSES FOR HOUSEWIVES

The city of New York has set up free classes in menu planning and marketing for housewives who live there. The classes will provide the housewives, one city official said, with a list of the seasonably reasonable and plentiful food items available in the marketplaces. A nutritionist will be at the classes to assist the women in planning economical menus which will not sacrifice food values.

This action on the part of New York is an intelligent effort to combat inflation by taking positive action. It emphasizes what individuals can do to keep their own living costs down. The housewife who is informed as to how she can feed her family on less money and where she can buy the food to do it can be a big factor in curbing inflation. Perhaps the idea of such education might be tried in other parts of the country to good advantage.

'These Days'

A FOOTNOTE FROM HONGKONG

The "Hongkong Standard" discusses at great length Dean Acheson's astonishing statement that "Chiank Kai-shek and other Chinese Nationalist leaders were entirely satisfied with the terms of the Yalta agreement and the Sino-Soviet treaty negotiated on the basis of it."

The Hongkong newspaper calls attention to these facts:

". . . Only four months after the conclusion of this (Yalta) agreement was China advised of its existence. China had either to raise a hue and cry at the risk of impairing allied unity in the war to acquiesce in the act of misappropriation committed by the United States and Great Britain and reply (sic) on their support to insure the faithful observance of the agreement by the Soviet Union. In a sacrificing spirit, China reluctantly entered into negotiations with Russia for the conclusion of a formal treaty. Through the months of July and August, 1945, the negotiations were on the point of breaking down at various stages; but the sudden surrender of Japan paved the way for its conclusion, as China was then anxious to preserve the esprit de corps with the United States for the sake of her future programme of rehabilitation and reconstruction, and also because Russia solemnly undertook to refrain from lending aid to the Chinese Communists. . . ."

This is a fair statement of what happened. It will be recalled that the President of the United States undertook at Yalta to get Chiang to reach an agreement with Soviet Russia. Had Chiang rejected Roosevelt's proposals, he would have faced the antagonism of both Roosevelt and Stalin. His peril was so great that he had no alternative but to agree to the Soong-Molotov treaty.

I quote from this article copiously because it seems to me to be so complete as to represent not only considerable study but Formosan inspiration. It looks like an indirect Chiang Kai-shek reply to Dean Acheson. Therefore, it is important to note that Dean Acheson's statement made before the Russell Committee that the United States gave Chiang $2,000,000,000 as aid, since the end of the war, is analyzed and brought to a much lower figure.

Of the $2,000,000,000, according to the "Hongkong Standard," $1,200,000,000 was non-military aid concerning which the paper says that "no less than 50 per cent must be charged to 'expenses and services' (including those of American engineering firms, shipping companies and technicians). Of the remainder of the $600,000,000, the sum of $500,000,000 must be charged to the so-called 'surplus property' sold to China by General George C. Marshall. In this deal China was to get not what she wanted or needed but what the United States did not find it economical to ship back to its own shores. Much of the surplus property consisted of such useless things as vitamin pills, cosmetics, canned foods unsafe for human consumption, and spare parts which could fit into nothing, and equipment for which China had no use. Whatever remained useful had to be reconditioned at great expense. It is estimated that of this $500,000,000 worth of surplus property, no more than $100,000,000 in value was actually received by China. . . ." (Note: The billions and millions got twisted in Hongkong.)

And of this amount, the Hongkong newspaper says:

". . . It is less than the amount which the United Nations has to spend for its police action in Korea for less than a month while China had to spread over a period of five years and over an area at least 10 times larger than Korea. Certainly, it is infinitely less than the price of Manchuria which the United States gave away to Russia with consequences which cannot be expressed in terms of dollars and cents."

The article ends in a characteristic Chinese parable which no one can misunderstand:

"In the present Senate investigation, China is like a helpless child standing between a friendly relative and an unfriendly stepmother while they quarrel about her before all the neighbors. If the child utters one word on the side of the stepmother, she may displease the relative; if the child utters a word on the side of the relative, she may make the unfriendly step-mother all the more unfriendly; and if the child keeps silent, all the mud now being smeared about her may be considered as being well deserved in the opinion of all the neighbors, and what is more, she may even lose the relative's moral support and thereafter all the material support from the step-mother who will then have no one to fear for abandoning her altogether."

Even Dean Acheson ought to taste the kernel of this little parable.

TONSILS—HELPFUL AND HARMFUL

I write often about the tonsils because the removal of tonsils that are infected not only may prevent attacks of rheumatic fever, childhood's greatest enemy, but may prevent heart disease or death itself. On the other hand, unless tonsils are infected or are interfering with breathing, they should not be removed. The Creator placed them in the throat to prevent harmful organisms from entering the blood stream; the tonsils are great filters.

Leave healthy tonsils in the throat until about the age of puberty when all childhood ailments are passed. It is particularly necessary to leave healthy tonsils when the individual suffers with the common cold as healthy tonsils prevent the common cold in most cases.

In Today's Health, Dr. Edgar P. Copeland states that tonsils are removed too often; removal of tonsils sacrifices a "strategic line of defense." Lung infections and bronchitis are more common in children who have had their tonsils and adenoids removed.

However, the tonsils should be removed in the following cases or conditions: (1) interference with breathing, swallowing or hearing; (2) chronically infected tonsils with frequent occurrences of tonsillitis and sinusitis; (3) tuberculosis of the tonsils; (4) kidney or heart disease or enlarge gland tonsillitis.

Infected tonsils, however, are treacherous and can start many complications. Therefore, removal of tonsils (tonsillectomy) should not be performed in the presence of infections of nose, throat and bronchial tubes. It is advisable to avoid tonsillectomy during the polio season although most nose and throat specialists will remove infected tonsils if they feel that an attack of rheumatic fever or heart disease may occur, even if during the polio season.

Throat surgeons try to avoid removal of tonsils during measles and influenza epidemics.

Where the tonsils must be removed and parents and surgeons can select the most suitable time, the operation is best performed after the age of four years.

To repeat, I write often about the danger of leaving infected tonsils in the throat—rheumatic fever, rheumatism and arthritis, heart disease, eye, ear, sinus and kidney diseases. And I write often about the mistake of removing healthy tonsils, even if large, as the removal of healthy tonsils removes Nature's effective guard of the nose, throat and lungs, and the destroyer of harmful organisms.

There'll Be a Slight Delay

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson has had many bitter battles with labor both before and after he came to Washington. However, the former General Electric boss pulled shoulder-to-shoulder with labor leaders last week in a closed-door assault on Congress for failing to pass effective price controls.

More than 100 House members, including about 20 Republicans, heard Wilson, AFL President Bill Green and CIO Secretary-treasurer James Carey denounce the badly gutted price control bill as a boon to Joe Stalin and an invitation to ruinous inflation.

"If the dollar goes down to 25 cents in value because Congress has failed to control prices, Joe Stalin will have gained a great victory without firing a shot," the ex-head of General Electric declared at the secret meeting, called by House Rules Chairman Adolph Sabath of Illinois.

"I do not agree with labor all the time, but I agree with labor on this. We are moving into a period of stepped-up production for defense that will greatly increase the pressure on our economy. Yet Congress is about to pass legislation that weakens controls on inflation instead of stiffening them.

"I'm from big business and I'm proud of it," continued Wilson, "even though this spokesman for labor"—he pointed to CIO's Jim Carey—"has ripped into me from time to time in the past. But we've got to realize—all of us, business, labor, the farmer and Congress—that we must pull together unselfishly if we are going to win the battle against inflation."

Carey, AFL President Green and Charles Anderson, an official of the railroad brotherhoods, vigorously supported Wilson.

Missing Diplomats

In the background of the State Department's re-examination of 500 members of its staff from top to bottom, including the suspension of several career diplomats pending security hearings, was the mysterious disappearance of the two British diplomats.

This scrutiny is no reflection on any particular person, and many of those suspended merely face technical charges. It is significant, furthermore, that the FBI lady informer, for many years a member of the Communist party, recently testified that she knew of no Communists in the State Department, though her job was to list the membership of all Washington Communists.

The State Department, however, is taking precautions, lest the same thing happen to the American diplomatic service that happened to the British. For, with the disappearance of the two British career men, it was necessary to fly special couriers all over the world to change the secret codes of both the United States and Britain. In addition, almost every secret known to the two countries was exposed—probably to the Kremlin.

Furthermore, this tragic loss of secrets could have been prevented by more alertness on the part of British authorities—which is why the State Department is staging a new self-inspection.

The most widespread and thorough manhunt in history has now been conducted for Donald MacLean and Guy Burgess. Allied agents have spent hundreds of hours trying to track down the missing men. They have combed the continent, searched the dives of Montmartre, inspected the waterfronts of Rotterdam, Antwerp, and La Havre; have even checked as far away as Argentina. But so far every trail has led up a blind alley.

Every day that passes makes it more conclusive that MacLean and Burgess have disappeared behind the Iron Curtain—as was first predicted by the companion who started off with them and then came home.

Meanwhile here is the story of what happened, as intelligence officers have carefully pieced it together. It is a story illustrating the need for housecleaning all diplomatic deadwood before it is too late.

A Neurotic Failure

1. Before leaving the United States in May, Guy Burgess had become a diplomatic failure. Perhaps as a result, he had also become an outspoken anti-American. There is no record, however, that he engaged in any pro-Russian activities while in this country, but he had been asked to leave the United States because of drunken-driving and a strong protest by Virginia's Governor John S. Battle.

Burgess was a sexual deviate, and an extensive search has been made to locate his friends in Washington. So far the search has proved futile. Burgess apparently had no close friends except for some of the dregs of the city.

2. Actually Burgess was no more than a diplomatic flunky attached to the British Embassy. Associates report that he was neurotic, unreliable and a bore. One associate described him as "an explosive mass of frustrations and inner conflicts." He should have been housecleaned long ago.

3. MacLean was of a different calibre. Only 38 years old and son of a distinguished father, he was the chief of the American division of the foreign office—a post in which he knew every vital allied secret.

In recent years, however, MacLean had become increasingly unstable. Due to overwork he had two nervous breakdowns. He had also acquired a personality unbalance somewhat similar to Burgess's, and his American wife was concerned.

4. Before Burgess and MacLean left together for France on May 25, Burgess, the bachelor, told friends he was going to "visit the continent" for several weeks. He was starting six weeks' leave from the foreign office, preparatory to looking for a new job. Significantly he didn't mention MacLean's name in any conversation about his forthcoming trip.

MacLean, however, didn't have any official leave from his government post. That Friday, when he left home, MacLean told his pregnant wife: "I'm going away for the weekend and will be back Sunday night or Monday morning." He didn't say where he was going. And he didn't mention Burgess's name.

No Extra Money

5. As far as the authorities can determine, neither man took more than a limited amount of money. Their bank accounts have been thoroughly checked and no heavy withdrawals were made prior to their departure. Neither man is thought to have taken more than $200, though they could have hidden funds in their clothes, funds received in advance from the Russians.

6. An exhaustive check of each man's wardrobe indicates both of them took only enough clothes to last for a relatively short trip. MacLean had only enough clothes for the weekend.

7. Intelligence officers are certain that both Burgess and MacLean got as far as Paris. However, there's absolutely no record of their arrival or presence in the French capital.

The pair left Southampton on the channel steamer "Falaise," docking at St. Malo. They proceeded from St. Malo to Rennes by taxi, telling the taxi driver they were trying to catch the 1.18 train to Paris. For some strange reason they had left their bags on the steamer—maybe for the purpose of starting completely fresh in the strange new Soviet world they were entering.

Despite thousands of interviews by the French police and British agents, the trial of the two British diplomats ends right here—with the two men, frustrated, at odds with the world, running bareheaded to catch the Paris train.

Only Admiral of the Navy

George Dewey, (1837-1917), known as the "Hero of Manila Bay" was the only American naval offier to hold the title "Admiral of the Navy." This was a special rank that was created for him in 1899. It expired after Dewey's death in 1917.

Russia's Note of Protest Reveals She's Fully Aware Armament Is Important in Jap Treaty

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 17—There is very little that's spectacular or revealing in the ponderous phrases of a peace treaty, and maybe that's the reason the real significance of the proposed pact with Japan appears to have escaped general attention.

For the document paves the way for the rearmament of Japan as against the Communists of China and Soviet Russia.

While the Japanese constitution forbids the revival of militarism and limits armament to self-defense, the new treaty specifically opens the door to Japanese participation in a collective defense agreement which could be as important to the western Pacific area as the North Atlantic Treaty was designed to be for the defense of Europe.

Russia is fully alive to the meaning of the new treaty with Japan. Her note of protest, dated June 10 last, raised the issue of armament. The Department of State here has just made reply as follows:

"In essence, the Soviet memorandum objected not to anything contained in the draft treaty but because the treaty would not restrict Japan with respect to the right of individual or collective self-defense, a right recognized by the United Nations charter as 'inherent.' The government of the Soviet Union would have the peace treaty deny to Japan the right hereafter to enter into collective-security arrangements with other countries of its choosing. This is a viewpoint which the government of the United States cannot accept."

So the issue is joined already. The United States, in association with Great Britain and other powers in the Pacific, has insisted that Japan be permitted to rearm. Those persons who feared that Russia would have been provoked into general war by bombing a few bases in China's territory may argue that to sign the proposed Japanese treaty will be giving further provocation now to Russia.

But the American government fortunately has taken a firm stand behind the proposal to allow Japan to rearm. Already many observers see this as a countervailing move—one that can in time offer a checkmate to the rise of both Communist China and Russia's armament in the Far East.

Reports vary as to what could be done as a practical matter by Japan. Her main army did not suffer much in World War 2. Most of the officers and trained men are still available if the U.N. should set up a system calling for their participation.

The problem is not much different from that which faces the allies in Europe with respect to Germany. Would a rearmed Japan be a militaristic menace? The answer usually heard is that, unless Japan is provided with a navy which is not planned for her—she could not disturb the peace of the Far East. This is but another way of saying that the British and American navies would have the principal responsibility for the defense of Japan and for protecting the transport of any of her divisions of troops to the mainland of Asia should war with Russia develop there.

Certainly if World War 3 breaks out, there will be operations in the Far East in which Japan will play a part. The consummation of a peace treaty releases Japan to begin to take steps as a member of a collective-security team—to help resist large-scale aggression.

Much depends, however, on how much progress the Communists may make in infiltrating inside Japan as they did in China. Also, economic support has to be given the Japanese people so that they can sustain an armament program on the scale needed to stabilize the Far Eastern situation. On paper, it's a good plan. Whether it ever will be carried out depends on many factors not clear as yet, among them financial aid for Japan and Communist countertactics.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, July 16—After all the confirmed documentation of the activities of Drew Pearson as a propagandist of pro-Communist issues presented by Joe McCarthy on the floor of the Senate, Collier's Weekly and Time Magazine, whose own records on this issue are none too clean, have undertaken a questionable mission to rehabilitate him. In an attempt to muzzle me Pearson filed a suit against me in June, 1949, two years ago, charging that I had called him, in print, under my name and with conscious legal responsibility, a lying blackguard and a faker. I admitted authorship and publication and undertook to prove many flagrant lies, fakes and disgraceful abuses of the power of the press by Pearson for ulterior reasons.

The original charge arose from his statement that the late James E. Forrestal had been guilty of cowardice when his wife was being robbed by armed gunmen. He accused Forrestal of running away. Among the surrounding circumstances was a peculiar fact, that Pearson was trying to drive Forrestal out of office at a time when Forrestal was defending the American navy's interest in middle-eastern oil. Forrestal's only "client" was the United States of America and particularly her navy. For this devotion he was savagely abused.

After two years, Pearson still has not brought me to court with my proof of this and many other similar offenses set forth in plain, unflinching language in my answer on file in the Supreme Court of the county and state of New York. His purpose was to deter me from publishing further detailed serious charges under a general but not invariable custom of suspending controversy during the pendency of a suit. I refused to submit to this and went after him, publishing a whole series of instances of blackguardism, mendacity and fakery, all supported by details. Pearson let the statute of limitations run against these further charges without protest, denial or further legal action.

Some editors hold that the public has no interest in the "personal" disagreements of "columnists." True or not, this objection is beside the mark. It would be equally correct to say that the public has no interest in an editorial campaign waged by an editor against some great wrong in his community personified by some notorious individual. Says Army on Borders

Karachi, Pakistan, July 16 (AP)—Pakistan's prime minister charged yesterday that 90 per cent of India's army is poised on his country's borders and accused the Indian press of inciting war against Pakistan. The prime minister, Liaquat Ali Khan, told a news conference he had appealed to India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and the western powers "to remove the threat" and would appeal also to the United Nations Security Council.

Approve Aid Cut To Friends of Reds

Washington, July 17 (AP)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday approved legislation designed to cut off United States military and economic aid to nations shipping war materials to Russia or her satellites.

It would replace an existing law aimed at denying only economic help to nations which let the Russians have war materials.

The measure calls for President Truman to appoint a mutual defense assistance officer. This officer would determine what items should not be sent to the Soviets and their friends.

Any nation knowingly shipping embargoed items to the Communists would lose all forms of United States aid.

However, the President could permit continued aid to such nations if "unusual circumstances indicate that the cessation of aid would clearly be detrimental to the security of the United States."

Exceptions would have to be reported to Congress.

'Home Town Story' At Sunset Theatre

Home Town Story, MGM's film of the fighting editor and the romantic school teacher, will have a first run showing in Kingston Friday and Saturday of this week at the Sunset Drive-In Theatre, Onteora Trail.

The movie co-stars Jeffrey Lynn, Donald Crisp, Marjorie Reynolds, Marilyn Monroe and Alan Hale, Jr.

FBI Makes Report

Washington, July 17 (AP)—The FBI said today that prosecutions in cases it investigated last year resulted in 97.5 per cent convictions. Director J. Edgar Hoover reported that there were 8,408 such convictions. He said there were 7,949 pleas of guilty and 459 convictions after trial. Hoover said the penalties imposed in these cases included two death sentences, five life sentences, and additional imprisonments totaling 21,712 years. Hoover's report covered the fiscal year ended June 30.

Is Permanent Now

Washington, July 17 (AP)—It took 86 years, but the U. S. Secret Service has finally achieved permanent status. President Truman yesterday signed a bill which puts the agency responsible for his safety on the roster of regular government bureaus. It has existed throughout its long history on a year-to-year basis, needing annual authorization from Congress. Besides guarding the President, the Secret Service is the government's anti-counterfeiting policeman. It also has other law enforcement activities connected with the treasury, its parent organization.

Rail Architect Named

Washington, July 16 (AP)—Robert L. Corsbie, an architect with the New York Central Railroad, was named today by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) to handle liaison with the Civil Defense Administration and other government and private agencies.

Plans Ready for New $5 Million Store in N. Y.

New York, July 17 (AP)—Plans have been filed for one of the biggest retail store developments here in recent years.

The project involves construction of a $5,000,000 four-story store and office building, it was announced yesterday.

The building will contain a through-street F. W. Woolworth store with entrances opposite R. H. Macy's on 34th street and opposite Gimbels on 33rd street.

The building will be in the easterly part of the block between Broadway and Seventh avenue in the heart of the Herald Square shopping district.

Seven buildings will be razed, and the new building is expected to be ready for occupancy by the end of 1952 or early in 1953. Buildings to be torn down include the Herald Square Hotel.

The plans were announced by William Zeckendorf, president of the real estate firm of Webb and Knapp, Inc.

Two Sentenced

New York, July 17 (AP)—Bejeweled Anthony Granza, 35, was sentenced to five to ten years in jail yesterday for selling heroin. The prosecution said that he had never filed a state or federal income tax report. Assistant District Attorney Irving Slonim said Granza supplied drug addicts in the Times Square area, Chicago and other cities. Joseph Pinto, 32, of 48-05 98th street, Corona, Queens, described by police as a lieutenant of Granza, was sentenced to two and one-half years. Granza and Pinto were among 19 arrested last Jan. 22 after a 10-month probe into the narcotics racket.

Downs Two Jets

Tokyo, July 17 (AP)—The Far East Air Force said today that Sgt. Gus C. Opfer, a B-29 waist-gunner from Opportunity, Wash., shot down two MIG-15 jets near Sinanju July 9. In the same July 9 action, another gunner in the same B-29 formation was credited with probable destruction of a MIG. He is Cpl. Michael J. Collins, 4729 40th street, Woodside, Long Island, N. Y.

Two Boys Lose Lives In Flushing Pool

New York, July 17 (AP)—Two boys were found drowned near each other in the Flushing Park amphitheater pool in Queens yesterday.

The victims were Patrick Murphy, 15, of 88-15 Lyman street, Bellerose, and Donald Mezzetti, 13, of 112-35 39th avenue, Corona.

The Murphy boy's father, Joseph Murphy, is a member of the New York city staff of The Associated Press.

There were several hundred swimmers in the pool at the time and several guards were on duty, but no one witnessed what happened to the two boys who were found at an end where the water is 15 feet deep.

The boys, both of whom could swim, apparently were not acquainted.

Detective Dennis Burke said it was possible that one boy dived upon the other and both were knocked out. But there was no external evidence of this, and further investigation was planned.

Arrested in Hospital

New York, July 17 (AP)—A Bronx man who was arrested in a Yonkers Hospital was under $3,500 bail today for a hearing Thursday on a charge of the theft of $1,300 worth of merchandise from a Bronx store. The defendant, William Tompkins, 21, a machinist, was arrested Saturday in St. Joseph's Hospital, Yonkers. Police said he had gone there for treatment of cuts on the hand suffered in allegedly breaking into the Progress Radio & Television Store at 5601 Broadway.

Perfumed Horse Room

Atlantic City, N. J., July 17 (AP)—Police say they smoked out a perfumed horseroom yesterday. Mrs. Elizabeth Palmer, 44, was charged with taking bets in her home. Her clients were almost exclusively women, police added.

Needs Time in Treaty

Jakarta, Indonesia, July 17 (AP)—Indonesia has notified the United States she needs more time to study the proposed Japanese treaty and cannot give her views on the draft before July 20, as the U. S. had requested.

Says Army on Borders

Karachi, Pakistan, July 16 (AP)—Pakistan's prime minister charged yesterday that 90 per cent of India's army is poised on his country's borders and accused the Indian press of inciting war against Pakistan. The prime minister, Liaquat Ali Khan, told a news conference he had appealed to India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and the western powers "to remove the threat" and would appeal also to the United Nations Security Council.

Jerry—I understand Jones has been given a medal by the Society for Pharmaceutical Research.

Perry — Yes, he has invented three new types of sandwiches.

Teacher — What's the definition of a split second?

Student — From the time the light turns green until the guy behind you blows his horn.

A question that has been worrying us is whether Houdini could get out of a stadium parking lot if he were alive today.

Prospective Customer—Do you keep fountain pens here?

Drugstore Clerk (brightly) — No, we sell them.

Prospective Customer — Okay, but keep the one you might have sold me if you hadn't been so smart.

It pays to aim high, young man, though you may miss what you are shooting at. You may aspire to be a high salaried corporation executive and turn out to be a plumber, which is almost as good.

The best reducing exercise is to move the head slowly from side to side when offered a second helping.

The young swaim climbed into a field to gather some flowers for his girl friend and, sighting a bull in the same pasture, called to a nearby farmer:

Young Man—Hey, mister, is this bull over here safe?

Farmer—Well, sonny, I don't know for sure, but I can tell you he's a darn sight safer'n you are.

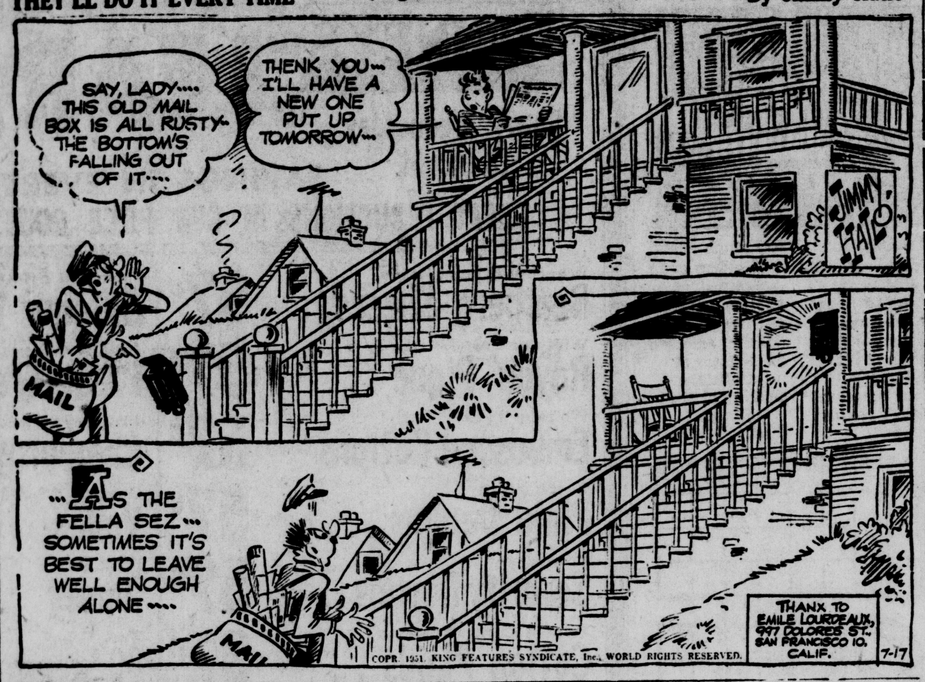

It is by translating your higher aspirations into daily deeds that you grow toward your ideal.

Perry — Yes, he has invented three new types of sandwiches.

Teacher — What's the definition of a split second?

Student — From the time the light turns green until the guy behind you blows his horn.

A question that has been worrying us is whether Houdini could get out of a stadium parking lot if he were alive today.

Prospective Customer—Do you keep fountain pens here?

Drugstore Clerk (brightly) — No, we sell them.

Prospective Customer — Okay, but keep the one you might have sold me if you hadn't been so smart.

It pays to aim high, young man, though you may miss what you are shooting at. You may aspire to be a high salaried corporation executive and turn out to be a plumber, which is almost as good.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Art Conference Is Concluded Here

Woodstock, July 17—A wind-up session of the Fourth Equity Conference on the "Role of Art in Liberal Education" took place Saturday night at the Woodstock Art Gallery, following a three-day group of sessions at Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, beginning July 12.

An impressive list of art historians, art educators and artists, who had participated in the Bard College session, returned to Woodstock to conclude with a lively recapitulation of the group of panel discussions held at the conference.

Ralph Wickiser, as chairman, pointed out after a few accounts were given that "you are hearing all of the things they thought of after the conference!" In turn Wickiser presented a distinguished group of visitors and residents—Rico LeBrun, famous California painter; Robert Cronbach, sculptor, and instructor of St. Louis; Justus Bier, art historian of Louisville University; Richard Florsheim, painter of Chicago; Julio Diego, of New York, Kyle Morris of the University of Minnesota and Arnold Blanch, Herman Cherry and Edward Millman, of Woodstock, Stefan Hirsch of Bard College and Herman Moore, director of the Whitney Museum.

Stresses Exchange

Bier stressed the necessity for an exchange between artists and art historians. "A great step," he said, "has been made by institutions which put artists and art historians side by side. A community must have art as something vital in existence, and students who have attended these institutions want this double challenge."

Florsheim, painter and teacher of Chicago, reported that at the end of the painting session each day he would read poetry or part of an article on art in order to promote discussion between his students.

Facing the problem that many of his students will become neither artists nor teachers, Cronbach, sculptor of St. Louis University, discovered that just such a group may become extremely interesting. "My students were stimulated by the act of completing some kind of creation right in class."

Need Clearer Attitude

Morris, head of the painting department of the University of Minnesota, commented on the general over-all picture of the conference. He said that it was possible for a student to progress through four years of college without doing any kind of creative thinking, merely memorizing what others have said. "We must give considerable thought to the nature of a conference avoiding generalities; we need a more clear and more articulate attitude toward our conferences."

Millman, who has been artist in residence at the University of Iowa, said that "it is a comparatively new thing that painters are teaching painting in universities and colleges today."

Blanch stated that "words are not the artist's language. His appearance is second hand—through his paintings." He deplored the practice of the art teacher in attempting to influence a student's opinions when viewing a picture. He said that he felt word explanations destroyed real appreciation of a painting.

De Diego, artist of New York, suggested that "we be constructive in our relation to the public."

LeBrun, noted California painter, spoke with intense conviction concerning controversies and disagreements in general in connection with a conference. "It is legitimate to expect personal explosions now and then. "Artists," he said, "have a right to criticize, but when a spectator is present, we should take care to marshal our forces so we will not create chaos. In spite of enmities and hysterical quarrels, we must be equipped to resist what we must legitimately call 'the enemy.'"

Mrs. Stefan Hirsch, who was introduced as the final speaker, defended humorous criticism as a "method of giving an account of something." She complimented the group of artists who had participated in the conference. "You did," she said," a wonderful job of educating historians and the administrators of the colleges."

Eddy, Carroll Featured In Maverick Concert

Woodstock, July 17—The second Maverick Sunday concert of the 36th season was once more a supremely worthwhile highpoint in the summer activities of the community .On Sunday afternoon Maverick concert goers were given the singular opportunity to hear the cello and piano in brilliant ensemble with Cynthia Eddy and Inez Carroll, respectively, performing the unique Sonata, op. 6 by Samuel Barber.

Certainly the Barber work does not make for relaxed listening, containing as do many contemporary works, what might be termed as definitely unsettling elements. Once the mood has become established, however, the listener may anticipate with pleasure the swift changes from probing depths, tempestuous and sad to the suddenly sweet and lyrical passages which haunt for a moment only to take unexpected flight. Miss Eddy and Miss Carroll seemed so much a part of the realm of the work itself that the instruments blended indistinguishably into the sheer beauty of sound and emotion.

In contrast only as to content and century, but equally as high in the level of performance, the Schubert Trio in B Flat was lilting, predictable and uncomplex. With William Kroll, violinist an established favorite both here and at Tanglewood, it was Schubert in the finest tradition, joyous and truly worth recapturing.

During the intermission Pierre Henrotte announced that the appearance of a talented young violinist next Sunday would be dependent upon the decision of his draft board. The concert program will be announced during the coming week.

Blind Sale Thursday

Woodstock, July 17—Thursday, July 19, is the date of the Woodstock sale for the blind, and residents are asked to visit and patronize the sale of articles made by the sightless. The Woodstock sale is being held on the Lutheran Church grounds, rain or shine, July 19, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Mrs. John Wolven is serving as general chairman of the sale which will contain numerous practical and economical household articles. Work done by the blind is noted for excellence of materials and workmanship, and an unusual variety of attractive pieces will be on view at the coming sale.

Will Close Early

Woodstock, July 17—The Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen shop will close at 1 p. m. on the day of the Library Fair. In the event of rain and the postponement of the fair, the Guild shop will close on the same day the fair will be held.

String Quartet Sets First Concert Date

Woodstock, July 17—The first concert on July 19, at 8:30 p. m., of the Woodstock String Quartet will be given at the Town Hall with guest artist Joseph Wolman, pianist, and members of the string quartet, Sidney Harth, violin; Teresa Tests, violin; Carolyn Voigt, viola, and Engelbert Roentgen, cellist and director of the series.

The following program will be presented: Haydn's String Quartet in C Major Op. 33, No. 3; selections for piano—Choral-Prelude, Bach, Busoni; Intermezzo-Novelette, Schumann; Polonaise in E Flat Major, Chopin; Sonata for two violins by Rozsa; Dvorak's Quartet for piano, violin and cello in E Flat Major opus 87.

The next concert will be presented July 27, with Inez Carroll Richards and Ilse Sass, pianists.

New Paint Show

Woodstock, July 17—A showing of recent paintings by Harold A. Laynor opened Monday in the main gallery of the Parnassus Square Galleries. Also on view will be a group of paintings by members of the Dutchess County Artists Association. The exhibition will continue at the gallery for the next two weeks.

Fair and Supper

Woodstock, July 17—The Wittenberg Methodist Church will hold a fair and supper Saturday, July 21, at the church hall. The fair will begin at 2 p. m., and supper will be served at 5 p. m.

Students to Exhibit

Woodstock, July 17—An exhibition of work by students at the Art Students League will probably be held during the first week in August. To date, registration through July 14, at the League totaled 120 students, with a smaller proportion of veterans than usual. Among those registered are students from the Canal Zone, Texas, California and Wisconsin. The League will conclude its summer session August 31.

Village Notes

Woodstock, July 17—Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ostler entertained at cocktails Saturday afternoon at their Ohayo Mountain home.

Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Knight, of Nyack, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franchot R. Paige, of Bearsville. Mr. and Mrs. Paige entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Knight Saturday afternoon.

Gaston Bell left Saturday with William Gunderson for a motor trip through New England. They expect to be away for about 10 days. Mr. Gunderson whose home is in Lincoln, Neb., has been a guest in this village for the past month.

Tower Boggs has returned to his home from Camp Edwards, Mass., where he is director of the American Red Cross office there, for a vacation.

Everand Short, of Wittenberg, is ill at his home.

Two Jersey Men Die In Seaplane Crash

Patchogue, N. Y., July 17 (AP)—Two men from New Jersey were killed yesterday in the crash of a tiny seaplane near fog-bound Fire Island.

Brookhaven town police identified the victims as John F. Smith, 24, of Ridgefield Park, the pilot, and John De Carolis, 25, of Hackensack, his brother-in-law.

Bathers on the beach at nearby Fire Island told police they heard an airplane engine sputter and then a "thump" about 10:30 a. m. Heavy fog in the area limited visibilty to 15 feet.

Two hours later police found the wrecked plane floating toward shore. The bodies of Smith and Carolis were still in the plane.

Smith rented the small plane from the Mellor-Howard Seaplane Base in Ridgefield Park earlier in the day saying he was going to fly to Fire Island.

Seeking Queens Man

New York, July 17 (AP)—John P. Campbell, assistant counsel of the U. S. Senate Crime Investigating Committee, announced yesterday the group investigating narcotics and gambling has been seeking Joseph Biondo, 54, of 77-12 35th avenue, Jackson Heights, Queens, for six weeks. Campbell said the committee believes Biondo is "evading a conference with committee representatives" and therefore it may ask the Senate to issue an arrest warrant for him.

As Pegler Sees It

other good reporters but mingled these worthy fellows with a bunch of notorious pleaders who have specialized in motivated New Deal, Socialist and Communist propaganda in a capital knee-deep in corruption, including treason. The whole pack of these trustees of the free press franchise had ignored the Bubblehead Wallace letters, the White House frauds and larcenies under Roosevelt, and other degradation of the government except to condone them.

Without obligation to state the standards on which it based its selections, Time gave Pearson credit for "Quaker righteousness and bull-dog tenacity" and dismissed his notorious mendacity with the admission that his work is "often inaccurate." His Quakerism is not put to any test of authenticity.

About this time, in Washington, Mrs. Mary Markward, an undercover agent of the FBI in the Communist party for six years, disclosed that Andrew Older, deceased, was one of her comrades in the group.

The Washington Post, which publishes Pearson's "column" and which apologized for the treason of Alger Hiss, duly listed Older but did not exploit the fact that Older had been a contributor to its own most prominent political feature during three years when Older worked for Pearson. Yet, when Older died on October 9, 1950, the same Post did not hesitate to say that he had been one of Pearson's staff. This fact was pertinent then. When he proved to have been a traitorous reporter it was beneath mention.

Long before this posthumous denunciation of Older, David Karr, formerly of The Daily Worker, the Communist Party organ in New York, had been identified as one of Pearson's reporters. Karr later came to New York to take up advertising and propaganda but he has maintained his association with Pearson. Pearson wrote many demands during the war for commissions in the American Army for veterans of the Communist Army in Spain. He wrote vehement attempts to belittle the American spy case as soon as the story broke. The wife of David Karr, on the payroll of an obscure Greek language newspaper in New York, was accredited as a White House correspondent until General Harry Vaughan, President Truman's aide, discovered her background and caused that assignment to be terminated. Vaughan suspected that she was serving Pearson, too.

Collier's and Time have been sporadic in their opposition to the Communists. Their spontaneous advertisement of Pearson is not a new manifestation of a strange policy.

Opera Will Make Tour

New York, July 17 (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera resumed preparations today for a 50-city tour of 'Die Fledermaus" after harmony was restored between two discordant AFL theatrical unions. A jurisdictional dispute between the unions had led the Met to announce the tour might have to be called off. But yesterday one of the unions, the American Guild of Musical Artists (AGMA), withdrew its claim to jurisdiction. The action left the Actors Equity Association as the exclusive collective bargaining agency of the performers.

Western Train Crash

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 17 (AP)—A Nickel Plate freight and a Wabash passenger train collided with a thunderous roar at a cross-over junction last night. Three trainmen were killed and 11 persons were hurt. The trains piled up in a tangled mass near New Haven, seven miles east of Fort Wayne. State police said the freight rammed and sideswiped the passenger train, splintering a day coach. Both trains were westbound, traveling on rails nearly parallel near the cross-over. Four passenger cars and six freight cars were wrecked.

About this time, in Washington, Mrs. Mary Markward, an undercover agent of the FBI in the Communist party for six years, disclosed that Andrew Older, deceased, was one of her comrades in the group.

The Washington Post, which publishes Pearson's "column" and which apologized for the treason of Alger Hiss, duly listed Older but did not exploit the fact that Older had been a contributor to its own most prominent political feature during three years when Older worked for Pearson. Yet, when Older died on October 9, 1950, the same Post did not hesitate to say that he had been one of Pearson's staff. This fact was pertinent then. When he proved to have been a traitorous reporter it was beneath mention.

Long before this posthumous denunciation of Older, David Karr, formerly of The Daily Worker, the Communist Party organ in New York, had been identified as one of Pearson's reporters. Karr later came to New York to take up advertising and propaganda but he has maintained his association with Pearson. Pearson wrote many demands during the war for commissions in the American Army for veterans of the Communist Army in Spain. He wrote vehement attempts to belittle the American spy case as soon as the story broke. The wife of David Karr, on the payroll of an obscure Greek language newspaper in New York, was accredited as a White House correspondent until General Harry Vaughan, President Truman's aide, discovered her background and caused that assignment to be terminated. Vaughan suspected that she was serving Pearson, too.

Collier's and Time have been sporadic in their opposition to the Communists. Their spontaneous advertisement of Pearson is not a new manifestation of a strange policy.

Opera Will Make Tour

New York, July 17 (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera resumed preparations today for a 50-city tour of 'Die Fledermaus" after harmony was restored between two discordant AFL theatrical unions. A jurisdictional dispute between the unions had led the Met to announce the tour might have to be called off. But yesterday one of the unions, the American Guild of Musical Artists (AGMA), withdrew its claim to jurisdiction. The action left the Actors Equity Association as the exclusive collective bargaining agency of the performers.

Western Train Crash

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 17 (AP)—A Nickel Plate freight and a Wabash passenger train collided with a thunderous roar at a cross-over junction last night. Three trainmen were killed and 11 persons were hurt. The trains piled up in a tangled mass near New Haven, seven miles east of Fort Wayne. State police said the freight rammed and sideswiped the passenger train, splintering a day coach. Both trains were westbound, traveling on rails nearly parallel near the cross-over. Four passenger cars and six freight cars were wrecked.

Wake Up To More Comfort

Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

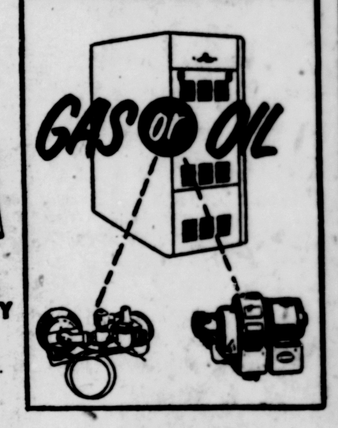

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Annual Immaculate Conception Church Parish Picnic Set

Sunday, July 29 was the date set for the annual Parish Picnic by the combined societies of the Immaculate Conception Church at a meeting held last week in the school hall.

The affair will commence at 3 p. m. and continue until 12 midnight on the school grounds, Delaware avenue, rain or shine. Refreshments will be available throughout the afternoon and evening and a buffet supper will be served from 4 p. m. on. Dancing will start at 7 p. m. with music furnished by Tony Kwasnik and his orchestra. Both polkas and modern dancing will be enjoyed. Elaborate plans are under way by the committee in charge to assure all who attend a good time.

Tickets are now on sale and may be procured from any member of the societies, at the rectory, 467 Delaware avenue or at the gate the day of the picnic.

The Rev. Joseph Sieczek pastor of the church as well as the committee chairmen invite the public to attend.

As in the past few years, the entire proceeds will go toward the new school fund.

Marshalov to Appear At Playhouse Twice

Boris Marshalov has been signed to appear in Giraudoux's The Enchanted, and Chekov's always memorable The Sea Gull at the Woodstock Playhouse, David Lifson, director, announced yesterday.

Today, Marshalov is remembered as a student of Ivan Lazarev, and other direct collaborators of Stanislavski, all original members of the Moscow Art Theatre. The interim has found him on Broadway, where he appeared in Brief Moment, Tight Britches, Libel, The Innocent Voyage, Flight to the West, Smile of the World, and others.

Hardy Traveler Is Best Vacation Suit

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

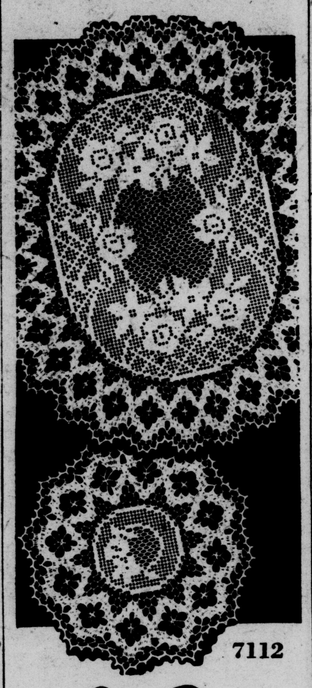

New York — (NEA) — Putting travel on a personal basis means not only planning what you will wear when you reach the ultimate spot, but how you will look en-route. No matter what the conveyance, you don't really want to step from it looking as if you'd just made a cross-country trek by covered wagon in the winning of the west.

A suit that's a hardy traveler, therefore, is the suit that most women want. It should have simple, uncluttered lines and be cut from a fabric that can take it and still come out looking fresh.

Such a suit (left) is in pale blue rayon given a soil-and-crease resistant finish. Designed by Seasonaire, it's useful both on the way and at the point of arrival. The single-breasted jacket with its double-cuffed pockets can be worn with other skirts, slacks and with knee-length shorts. The straight skirt can fill in with odd sweaters and blouses.

Another of these suits (right) is double-checked in gray-and-yellow. It has cuffed patch pockets, pearl buttons at the front closing, and a lapelled collar. Skirt is slim but sufficiently easy to allow for walking comfort.

Grange News

Hurley Unit

The regular meeting of Hurley Grange, 963, was held last week with Walter Stauble, master, presiding. Mrs. Winfred Snyder, service and hospitality chairman, reported that the annual picnic would be held July 24 at Forsyth Park. The picnic supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. The affair will be a family picnic for Grange members and children.

Mrs. Vernon Goetchius reported that the Juvenile Grange met during the afternoon and completed the soap-carving and postcard boxes.

The literary program was in charge of Mrs. Andrew Lehtonen. A social hour with refreshments followed.

Hurley Juvenile

The meeting of Hurley Juvenile Grange, 596, was held Tuesday afternoon at the church. Last week about 25 hours were spent weeding and planting and moving flowers on the bank near the church.

Postcard boxes were made by some while others worked on soap-carving and mounting of pictures.

Girls are busy making aprons while the boys are making bird houses.

Dentifrice From Old Recipe

Prof. Armand E. Singer of West Virginia University has made an acceptable dentifrice from an old Roman recipe using barley, flour, vinegar mixed with honey, salt and spikenard root.

BEST TO FORGET

A girl writes: "I need help on this problem: I like a particular boy very much and he seemed to like me very much for a time. Then he began going out with someone else. Is there anything I can do to get him back?"

This is one of the few questions which has not much chance of a happy answer. There is nothing to do but try not to care. If you succeed in not wanting him back he is quite likely to return. If you let him become the sole subject of your waking thoughts he is almost certain to banish you completely from his mind.

To Escort Or Not?

Dear Mrs. Post: When my girl friend and I are driving a friend of hers home from a movie, having offered her a lift, is it up to me to escort this girl to the door and leave my own girl sitting alone in the car? Or will it be sufficient if we merely wait until she is safely inside the house before driving away?

Answer: Your last suggestion is proper.

No Engagement Present

Dear Mrs. Post: We are foreign-born parents of an American boy. In a short time he is to become engaged and at that time the girl's family are giving a dinner and we will be invited. Is is an American custom to take a present for her on this occasion? I understand there will be only relatives and a few family friends at the dinner.

Answer: I have never heard of such a custom! In fact, the one-time popular Southern one of giving a cup and saucer to an engaged girl, went out of fashion just about 50 years ago!

Engraved Trophies

Dear Mrs. Post: Trophies are being awarded at our club and I think they have been mistakenly engraved. As they now appear, the name is engraved "D. Jones;" "M. Topflight," etc. I think the full name should have been used. Am I right?

Answer: You are!

Do you know when you should rise to shake hands with someone to whom you are introduced? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-17, "Introductions," will explain this. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Trinity Lutheran Picnic Is Scheduled Wednesday

An old fashioned picnic will be held at Forsyth Park Wednesday under auspices of Trinity Lutheran Church. In case of rain the picnic will be held Thursday.

There will be a luncheon for the Sunday school children at 12 o'clock and dinners, cafeteria style, will be served to the public from noon until 8 p. m. Dinners will feature the usual picnic items plus homemade pies.

The dinner will be served by the Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. Edward Snyder, chairman. There will be music and square dancing during the evening from 7 until 10 o'clock with the Catskill Mountaineers furnishing the music.

Grange News

Hurley Unit

The regular meeting of Hurley Grange, 963, was held last week with Walter Stauble, master, presiding. Mrs. Winfred Snyder, service and hospitality chairman, reported that the annual picnic would be held July 24 at Forsyth Park. The picnic supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. The affair will be a family picnic for Grange members and children.

Mrs. Vernon Goetchius reported that the Juvenile Grange met during the afternoon and completed the soap-carving and postcard boxes.

The literary program was in charge of Mrs. Andrew Lehtonen. A social hour with refreshments followed.

Hurley Juvenile

The meeting of Hurley Juvenile Grange, 596, was held Tuesday afternoon at the church. Last week about 25 hours were spent weeding and planting and moving flowers on the bank near the church.

Postcard boxes were made by some while others worked on soap-carving and mounting of pictures.

Girls are busy making aprons while the boys are making bird houses.

Dentifrice From Old Recipe

Prof. Armand E. Singer of West Virginia University has made an acceptable dentifrice from an old Roman recipe using barley, flour, vinegar mixed with honey, salt and spikenard root.

BEST TO FORGET

A girl writes: "I need help on this problem: I like a particular boy very much and he seemed to like me very much for a time. Then he began going out with someone else. Is there anything I can do to get him back?"

This is one of the few questions which has not much chance of a happy answer. There is nothing to do but try not to care. If you succeed in not wanting him back he is quite likely to return. If you let him become the sole subject of your waking thoughts he is almost certain to banish you completely from his mind.

To Escort Or Not?

Dear Mrs. Post: When my girl friend and I are driving a friend of hers home from a movie, having offered her a lift, is it up to me to escort this girl to the door and leave my own girl sitting alone in the car? Or will it be sufficient if we merely wait until she is safely inside the house before driving away?

Answer: Your last suggestion is proper.

No Engagement Present

Dear Mrs. Post: We are foreign-born parents of an American boy. In a short time he is to become engaged and at that time the girl's family are giving a dinner and we will be invited. Is is an American custom to take a present for her on this occasion? I understand there will be only relatives and a few family friends at the dinner.

Answer: I have never heard of such a custom! In fact, the one-time popular Southern one of giving a cup and saucer to an engaged girl, went out of fashion just about 50 years ago!

Engraved Trophies

Dear Mrs. Post: Trophies are being awarded at our club and I think they have been mistakenly engraved. As they now appear, the name is engraved "D. Jones;" "M. Topflight," etc. I think the full name should have been used. Am I right?

Answer: You are!

Do you know when you should rise to shake hands with someone to whom you are introduced? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-17, "Introductions," will explain this. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Trinity Lutheran Picnic Is Scheduled Wednesday

An old fashioned picnic will be held at Forsyth Park Wednesday under auspices of Trinity Lutheran Church. In case of rain the picnic will be held Thursday.

There will be a luncheon for the Sunday school children at 12 o'clock and dinners, cafeteria style, will be served to the public from noon until 8 p. m. Dinners will feature the usual picnic items plus homemade pies.

The dinner will be served by the Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. Edward Snyder, chairman. There will be music and square dancing during the evening from 7 until 10 o'clock with the Catskill Mountaineers furnishing the music.

The orange-colored lenses of the prairie dog's eyes act as filters permitting it to withstand the sun's intense glare.

Young Designs for Mature Woman

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

New York—(NEA)—The cool, slick fabric called bemberg rayon is particularly adaptable to the summertime needs of the mature woman. Because it's a rayon yarn made in fine deniers, it drapes beautifully. It's a fabric that does not wrinkle easily. It gives long service, can be washed and ironed. And it won't fade in the sun, won't lose its lustre in laundering.

Lately, designers have been working youthful lines into clothes for the older woman. This does not mean that they turn up a kittenish version of a junior cotton. It means that the fashion world has come to understand that the mature woman can wear a sheath if it's done especially for her and that she can wear straight, slim lines in some style other than the clasic shirtwaist dress.

These new fashions are found in the good fabric that's bemberg. A sheath dress in navy blue linen (left) has wide shoulder straps in place of the spaghetti straps used for the younger age groups. There's a cuffed bodice that provides the right cover-up and there is, in addition, a long coat in bemberg navy sheer petal-printed in white. Both the white and the navy of this coat will keep their colors in the tub.

Leopold Abdicates Belgian Throne

New 4-H Agent

LOUISE ARCHBOLD

Miss Louise Archbold of Swarthmore, Pa., is the new assistant Ulster county 4-H agent. She assumes her duties here July 9, succeeding the former Miss Shirley Jane Thielker, who resigned to become the bride on May 27 to S/Sgt. William J. DeForest of LaGrangeville.

Although she has lived most of her life in Swarthmore, Miss Archbold is a native of Syracuse. She graduated last June from Drexel Institute of Technology, Philadelphia, with a B.S. degree in home economics and education. Last summer she worked as summer assistant 4-H Club agent in Herkimer and Chenango counties. In college, she was a president of her sorority, a member of the home economics club, and was interested in sports.

School in Yard

Sessions of the daily vacation Bible school of the First Church of the Nazarene, Wiltwyck avenue, were held Monday in the backyard of the parsonage, the Rev. Frederick Fike, pastor, announced Monday. About 100 students are enrolled. Last week, a portion of the church collapsed necessitating changes in the schedule of classes and church services.

Will Ask Lawyers About Selections Of Federal Judges

Washington, July 17 (AP)—Senator Douglas (D.-Ill.) said today he will poll the Chicago Bar Association to determine whether he or President Truman is right in their federal judge selections.

Mr. Truman passed over two of three men recommended by Douglas for judgeship vacancies in Illinois.

Douglas said in a statement he believes Mr. Truman's two choices are "worthy men."

But he added he feels his own selections have "superior qualifications."

However, Mr. Truman nominated Joseph Jerome Drucker and Cornelius J. Harrington to the bench.

Drucker is a nephew of Rep. Adolph Sabath, Chicago Democrat and 85-year-old dean of the House. Harrington is a circuit judge in Chicago.

Congressional insiders interpreted Mr. Truman's appointments as another indication of a growing coolness between him and the Illinois senator.

Douglas, however, said:

"I have no desire to become engaged in a struggle with the President for whom I have the kindliest feelings and who is bearing a heavy load."

Fined by Mino

Floyd Williams, 50, of Bloomington, was arrested at 10:35 p. m., yesterday on Henry street near Schryver Court, on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $50 and his driving license was revoked when he appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today.

Italy Makes Plans To Cut Out Reds

Rome, July 17 (AP)—President Luigi Einaudi began political talks today to try to broaden Italy's anti-Communist government. Premier Alcide de Gasperi, who quit with his cabinet last night to make the maneuver possible, probably will be named to head a reshuffled regime.

The resignations were decided during a cabinet meeting held yesterday afternoon in Viminale Palace, headquarters of the premier.

The president early today hurried to Rome from his summer home south of the city and began consultations with Senate President Enrico de Nicola and other political and parliamentary leaders.

Press comments forecast a long crisis, even though de Gasperi is almost certain to be called to form the new government.

His Christian Democrat party has a majority in the Chamber of Deputies and is much the largest group in the Senate.

Concern Shown Over New Red 'Peace Paper'

Moscow, July 17 (AP)—Western diplomats here are giving their closest attention to a new Soviet-English - language publication, "News," and its theme that peaceful relations between Russia and the United States and Britain are possible regardless of political differences.

Such talk of peaceful east-west relations has often been voiced in the Soviet press, but its specific application to relations with Britain and the U. S. is a line not frequently found of late in Soviet publications.

Western observers are much interested that the Russians are launching a publication with such sentiments at a time when the Soviet has resumed four-power trade talks in Berlin and when the North Korean and Chinese Communists, after Russian suggestions, are holding truce talks in Korea.

Buses Run Again

Albany, N. Y., July 17 (AP)—Bus service between Albany and 11 nearby communities, halted for four days by a drivers' strike was restored yesterday by the United Transportation Company.

School in Yard

Sessions of the daily vacation Bible school of the First Church of the Nazarene, Wiltwyck avenue, were held Monday in the backyard of the parsonage, the Rev. Frederick Fike, pastor, announced Monday. About 100 students are enrolled. Last week, a portion of the church collapsed necessitating changes in the schedule of classes and church services.

Will Ask Lawyers About Selections Of Federal Judges

Washington, July 17 (AP)—Senator Douglas (D.-Ill.) said today he will poll the Chicago Bar Association to determine whether he or President Truman is right in their federal judge selections.

Mr. Truman passed over two of three men recommended by Douglas for judgeship vacancies in Illinois.

Douglas said in a statement he believes Mr. Truman's two choices are "worthy men."

But he added he feels his own selections have "superior qualifications."

However, Mr. Truman nominated Joseph Jerome Drucker and Cornelius J. Harrington to the bench.

Drucker is a nephew of Rep. Adolph Sabath, Chicago Democrat and 85-year-old dean of the House. Harrington is a circuit judge in Chicago.

Congressional insiders interpreted Mr. Truman's appointments as another indication of a growing coolness between him and the Illinois senator.

Douglas, however, said:

"I have no desire to become engaged in a struggle with the President for whom I have the kindliest feelings and who is bearing a heavy load."

Fined by Mino

Floyd Williams, 50, of Bloomington, was arrested at 10:35 p. m., yesterday on Henry street near Schryver Court, on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $50 and his driving license was revoked when he appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today.

Italy Makes Plans To Cut Out Reds

Rome, July 17 (AP)—President Luigi Einaudi began political talks today to try to broaden Italy's anti-Communist government. Premier Alcide de Gasperi, who quit with his cabinet last night to make the maneuver possible, probably will be named to head a reshuffled regime.

The resignations were decided during a cabinet meeting held yesterday afternoon in Viminale Palace, headquarters of the premier.

The president early today hurried to Rome from his summer home south of the city and began consultations with Senate President Enrico de Nicola and other political and parliamentary leaders.

Press comments forecast a long crisis, even though de Gasperi is almost certain to be called to form the new government.

His Christian Democrat party has a majority in the Chamber of Deputies and is much the largest group in the Senate.

Concern Shown Over New Red 'Peace Paper'

Moscow, July 17 (AP)—Western diplomats here are giving their closest attention to a new Soviet-English - language publication, "News," and its theme that peaceful relations between Russia and the United States and Britain are possible regardless of political differences.

Such talk of peaceful east-west relations has often been voiced in the Soviet press, but its specific application to relations with Britain and the U. S. is a line not frequently found of late in Soviet publications.

Western observers are much interested that the Russians are launching a publication with such sentiments at a time when the Soviet has resumed four-power trade talks in Berlin and when the North Korean and Chinese Communists, after Russian suggestions, are holding truce talks in Korea.

Oneonta Flinger Shuts Out Colonials, 2-0, on Two-Hitter at Stadium

Aylward Scores Tenth Victory; Big Sam Loses

CYO Games Part of Twinbill Tonight

Big Sam Piacentino, the Colonial outfielder who started his career in organized baseball as a pitcher, returned to his first love last night at municipal stadium.

Sam threw hard and effectively, looked as sharp as any flinger to visit the stadium this season, and yet he could not stir the slumping Colonials out of their starvation diet or runs.

Big Paul Aylward, the towering Oneonta right hander, stopped the Colonials on two hits, 2 to 0, for the fourth shutout inflicted on the locals in their last five games.

Piacentino permitted only five blows and was locked in a scoreless battle with Aylward for seven innings. A fielding error by Big Sam accounted for the Red Sox's first run in the eighth and they picked up a legitimate marker in the ninth.

Twi-Night Twinbill

(The series closes out tonight as part of a twi-night doubleheader. At 6:30 p. m., St. Mary's of Kingston meets Wappingers Falls in a regional CYO baseball finals. The Colonial-Red Sox contest will follow, with Joe Ross, ace of the Oneonta staff, going against Tony Piacente, or a new flinger if one arrives in camp during the day.)

Aylward faced only 29 batters en route to his 10th victory of the season. He issued only one pass and struck out five.

Kingston had only one chance against the big right hander who retired the first nine batters and finished with a string of seven. That came in the fourth when Jack Bickett tried to score from second on a wild pitch but was nailed at home plate on a close play.

Breaks Help

Oneonta converted two bloop hits and an error by Piacentino into a run in the eighth. John Minarcin blooped a single to short right and Atwood got two bases when Jack Allen missed a shoestring attempt on a blooper into the same sector.

With the infield drawn in, West tapped to the box and Piecentino cut off a runner at the plate. Aylward followed with a Baltimore chop to box and Sam's throw to the plate was too high, Minarcin sliding under for a 1-0 lead.

Arnie Spence's walk and Minarcin's double accounted for Oneonta's second tally in the ninth.

In six of the nine innings, Aylward faced only nine men. Piacentino had five clear innings, walked only two and struck out five with a lively fast ball. He poured three strikeouts past Arnie Spence, the Red Sox cleanup hitter.

Manager Sosh shuffled the batting order in an effort to inject some scoring power but without success. You can look for more changes and probebly some new faces in short order.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting: West Westrum, Giants—Slammed two homers, his second coming in the eighth inning to snap a 6-6 tie and give the Giants a 7-6 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Pitching: Carl Erskine, Dodgers—Pitched seven innings of perfect ball before Ted Kluszewski singled to open the eighth. The young righthander allowed only two hits as the Dodgers snapped Cincinnati's seven-game winning streak, 11-2.

Walcott Thinks It's Now or Never

Pittsburgh, July 17 (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott, the 37-year-old heavy-weight challenger who claims he was robbed in two of his previous attempts to wrest the title from Ezzard Charles and Joe Louis, gets his fifth and probably last chance tomorrow night.

A confident Walcott meets Charles for the third time at Forbes Field (9 p. m., Eastern Standard Time). He says he should have won the decision in one of his previous meetings with the champion—and he's equally certain he was victimized in his first fight with Louis.

Louis, who is slated to meet the winner, will be at the ringside.

Charles is the 1 to 4 favorite with virtually no betting.

Already more than $100,000 in tickets have been sold and the gate may reach an amazing $200,000.

In order to end the blackout on big fights, television manufacturers have purchased TV rights for an additional $100,000 and will put the match on the National Network, with only Pittsburgh and Johnstown, Pa., shut out. CBS will carry the fight on radio.

"This is it," says Jersey Joe. "Either he goes or I go. I know I can't ever get another chance."

The 30-year old Charles weighs 183 to Walcott's 194. If Walcott were to win—and he is in fine condition and possesses a baffling boxing style—it would be a "rags to riches" story matching that of the former champion, James J. Braddock. Walcott was once on relief.

Ansonia, Conn.—Irish Pat Mallane, 135, Union City, Conn., stopped Jimmy Withers, 135½, New York (1).

Little League Leaders Are Still Unbeaten

Ron Ashdown Homers; Turck Stars in Relief

Don't be surprised if Casey Stengel sends a scout to St. Mary's Field one of these days to see how the Little League Yankees keep rolling on undefeated.

The junior version of the Yankees made it five straight yesterday, 5 to 3 over the Ddogers, for a perfect slate in the Little loop.

The unbeaten league leaders had already scored five runs to lead 5-0 when the Dodgers rallied to knock Seymour Semilof out of the box in the fifth, but Tony Turck came on to check the threat.

The Yankees pecked away at Ernie Madison for single runs in first, second and fifth stanzas and added a brace in the third.

Ashdown Hits Homer

Ronald Ashdown had half of the Yankee hits with a homer and single in three trips. Madison permitted only four hits and struck out 11 but three Dodger miscues contributed to the Yankee run total.

George Armstrong with a double and single was the leading batter for the Dodgers who outhit the Yankees by one safety.

Ashdown's circuit clout, his second of the season, came with the bases empty in the Yankee fifth. In the third inning, Ashdown singled to score Victor Locke who had singled and advanced to second on a wild pitch.

Turck Stops Rally

The Dodgers threatened with a typical Brooklyn rally in the fifth. Charlie DeCicco singled and Madison walked to launch the rally. Hobert Armstrong hit back to Semilof who forced Madison at second. Bob Pratt's single scored DeCicco. Glenn Newell, the Dodgers' ace hurler, was called on as a pinch hitter for Nick Kearney and drew a walk loading the bases.

That was all for Duke Semilof. Tony Turck came in and promptly struck out Skipper Davitt but walked Ray Reilly, forcing in Hobart Armstrong with the second run, George Armstrong's safety delivered Pratt with the third run and Turck finally stopped the uprising by getting Ted Bruhn to ground to first base.

Barbara Bruning Tops State Women

Tuckahoe, N. Y., July 17 (AP)—Youth figures to have something to say regarding the New York State Women's golf championship with six players under 20, including medalist Barbara Bruning, among the 32 starting match play today at the Leewood Golf Club.

Miss Bruning of White Plains, 19-year-old Wellesley College sophomore and Intercollegiate champion, carded a two-under par 73 yesterday to win the medal by two strokes.

In addition to Miss Bruning, there are four other 19-year-old misses — Nancy Keplinger of Hempstead, Roslyn Swift of Lake Success, Dorothy Lowenstein of White Plains and Diana Bourne of Bronxville among the qualifiers. The 20-year-old is Rhea White of Utica.

Two of the 19-year-olds meet in the opening round when Miss Bruning opposes Miss Lowenstein, University of North Carolina junior who posted an 82 to qualify.

Champ Cards 85

Mrs. Ruth Torgerson of Garden City, last year's winner, swings into action against Lajunta White of Yonkers, who took an 81 in qualifying for the match competition. Mrs. Torgerson was not required to qualify but she played yesterday and carded an 85.

To go all the way, Miss Bruning or any of the other youngsters will have to overcome a field of veterans wise in the ways of tournament golf.

In addition to Mrs. Torgerson they include Mrs. Philip Allen of Syracuse, the former Virginia Guilfoil who won the title ten years ago. She was only two strokes back of the Wellesley ace with a qualifying round of 75.

KPBA Praised For Regatta

The Kingston Power Boat Association has received a letter of commendation from Richard E. Hobbs, of the General Outboard Company, of Melrose, Mass., for the splendid manner in which it conducted its recent 10th annual regatta on July 8.

"I have been to several outboard events over the past few years and wish to state that at none of them has there been so much evidence of hard work and exceptional planning as was apparent at your regatta," Hobbs wrote to Commodore Roger Reardon of the KPBA.

"If all of the outboard racing in New England and New Jersey area were run half as well as your races, I think the result would be a tremendous increase in outboard racing and I think this is something we would all like to see," Hobbs said.

Midget Auto Races Return to Rhinebeck Friday After Three-Years' Absence

Midget auto racing which preceded the stock cars in popularity at eastern race tracks will return to the Rhinebeck Speedway next Friday night, Promoter Steve Iko announced today.

Iko said the midgets are returning by popular demand.

The little bundles of mechanical dynamite, as Iko describes the midgets, are returning to Rhinebeck for the first time in three years.

When the announcement was made to the large crowd attending stock car races Saturday night, the cheers and applause were tremendous and fans gave a roaring welcome to the news.

Excitement was at its highest when added information brought out the fact that the nationally famous ARDC roster includes the fastest cars in the sport today in both Offys' and Fords. These heavy footed pilots, who have achieved the highest acclaim in racing are still well remembered by Rhinebeck fans and their enthusiasm increased when told that among the stars returning are faforite champions like the popular Ed "Dutch" Schaefer, the "Flying Dutchman" of Floral Park, L. I., who was remembered for the outstanding races he drove in the "Golden Arrow."

Bob and Stan Disbrow of Poughkeepsie along with Rhinebeck's Bob Tator are set to return for midget car action Friday night. After hearing the crowd's reaction, they were off to contact car owners to assure themselves a starting position among the many other favorites already entered.

Washington — Gene Smith, 124¾, Washington, stopped Jimmy Cooper, 126, Washington (6).

Oneonta Flinger Shuts Out Colonials, 2-0, on Two-Hitter at Stadium

CYO Games Part of Twinbill Tonight

Big Sam Piacentino, the Colonial outfielder who started his career in organized baseball as a pitcher, returned to his first love last night at municipal stadium.

Sam threw hard and effectively, looked as sharp as any flinger to visit the stadium this season, and yet he could not stir the slumping Colonials out of their starvation diet or runs.

Big Paul Aylward, the towering Oneonta right hander, stopped the Colonials on two hits, 2 to 0, for the fourth shutout inflicted on the locals in their last five games.

Piacentino permitted only five blows and was locked in a scoreless battle with Aylward for seven innings. A fielding error by Big Sam accounted for the Red Sox's first run in the eighth and they picked up a legitimate marker in the ninth.

Twi-Night Twinbill

(The series closes out tonight as part of a twi-night doubleheader. At 6:30 p. m., St. Mary's of Kingston meets Wappingers Falls in a regional CYO baseball finals. The Colonial-Red Sox contest will follow, with Joe Ross, ace of the Oneonta staff, going against Tony Piacente, or a new flinger if one arrives in camp during the day.)

Aylward faced only 29 batters en route to his 10th victory of the season. He issued only one pass and struck out five.

Kingston had only one chance against the big right hander who retired the first nine batters and finished with a string of seven. That came in the fourth when Jack Bickett tried to score from second on a wild pitch but was nailed at home plate on a close play.

Breaks Help

Oneonta converted two bloop hits and an error by Piacentino into a run in the eighth. John Minarcin blooped a single to short right and Atwood got two bases when Jack Allen missed a shoestring attempt on a blooper into the same sector.

With the infield drawn in, West tapped to the box and Piacentino cut off a runner at the plate. Aylward followed with a Baltimore chop to box and Sam's throw to the plate was too high, Minarcin sliding under for a 1-0 lead.

Arnie Spence's walk and Minarcin's double accounted for Oneonta's second tally in the ninth.

In six of the nine innings, Aylward faced only nine men. Piacentino had five clear innings, walked only two and struck out five with a lively fast ball. He poured three strikeouts past Arnie Spence, the Red Sox cleanup hitter.

Manager Sosh shuffled the batting order in an effort to inject some scoring power but without success. You can look for more changes and probebly some new faces in short order.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting: West Westrum, Giants—Slammed two homers, his second coming in the eighth inning to snap a 6-6 tie and give the Giants a 7-6 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Pitching: Carl Erskine, Dodgers—Pitched seven innings of perfect ball before Ted Kluszewski singled to open the eighth. The young righthander allowed only two hits as the Dodgers snapped Cincinnati's seven-game winning streak, 11-2.

Walcott Thinks It's Now or Never

Pittsburgh, July 17 (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott, the 37-year-old heavy-weight challenger who claims he was robbed in two of his previous attempts to wrest the title from Ezzard Charles and Joe Louis, gets his fifth and probably last chance tomorrow night.

A confident Walcott meets Charles for the third time at Forbes Field (9 p. m., Eastern Standard Time). He says he should have won the decision in one of his previous meetings with the champion—and he's equally certain he was victimized in his first fight with Louis.

Louis, who is slated to meet the winner, will be at the ringside.

Charles is the 1 to 4 favorite with virtually no betting.

Already more than $100,000 in tickets have been sold and the gate may reach an amazing $200,000.

In order to end the blackout on big fights, television manufacturers have purchased TV rights for an additional $100,000 and will put the match on the National Network, with only Pittsburgh and Johnstown, Pa., shut out. CBS will carry the fight on radio.

"This is it," says Jersey Joe. "Either he goes or I go. I know I can't ever get another chance."

The 30-year old Charles weighs 183 to Walcott's 194. If Walcott were to win—and he is in fine condition and possesses a baffling boxing style—it would be a "rags to riches" story matching that of the former champion, James J. Braddock. Walcott was once on relief.

Ansonia, Conn.—Irish Pat Mallane, 135, Union City, Conn., stopped Jimmy Withers, 135½, New York (1).

Little League Leaders Are Still Unbeaten

Ron Ashdown Homers; Turck Stars in Relief

Don't be surprised if Casey Stengel sends a scout to St. Mary's Field one of these days to see how the Little League Yankees keep rolling on undefeated.

The junior version of the Yankees made it five straight yesterday, 5 to 3 over the Ddogers, for a perfect slate in the Little loop.

The unbeaten league leaders had already scored five runs to lead 5-0 when the Dodgers rallied to knock Seymour Semilof out of the box in the fifth, but Tony Turck came on to check the threat.

The Yankees pecked away at Ernie Madison for single runs in first, second and fifth stanzas and added a brace in the third.

Ashdown Hits Homer

Ronald Ashdown had half of the Yankee hits with a homer and single in three trips. Madison permitted only four hits and struck out 11 but three Dodger miscues contributed to the Yankee run total.

George Armstrong with a double and single was the leading batter for the Dodgers who outhit the Yankees by one safety.

Ashdown's circuit clout, his second of the season, came with the bases empty in the Yankee fifth. In the third inning, Ashdown singled to score Victor Locke who had singled and advanced to second on a wild pitch.

Turck Stops Rally

The Dodgers threatened with a typical Brooklyn rally in the fifth. Charlie DeCicco singled and Madison walked to launch the rally. Hobert Armstrong hit back to Semilof who forced Madison at second. Bob Pratt's single scored DeCicco. Glenn Newell, the Dodgers' ace hurler, was called on as a pinch hitter for Nick Kearney and drew a walk loading the bases.

That was all for Duke Semilof. Tony Turck came in and promptly struck out Skipper Davitt but walked Ray Reilly, forcing in Hobart Armstrong with the second run. George Armstrong's safety delivered Pratt with the third run and Turck finally stopped the uprising by getting Ted Bruhn to ground to first base.

Barbara Bruning Tops State Women

Tuckahoe, N. Y., July 17 (AP)—Youth figures to have something to say regarding the New York State Women's golf championship with six players under 20, including medalist Barbara Bruning, among the 32 starting match play today at the Leewood Golf Club.

Miss Bruning of White Plains, 19-year-old Wellesley College sophomore and Intercollegiate champion, carded a two-under par 73 yesterday to win the medal by two strokes.

In addition to Miss Bruning, there are four other 19-year-old misses — Nancy Keplinger of Hempstead, Roslyn Swift of Lake Success, Dorothy Lowenstein of White Plains and Diana Bourne of Bronxville among the qualifiers. The 20-year-old is Rhea White of Utica.

Two of the 19-year-olds meet in the opening round when Miss Bruning opposes Miss Lowenstein, University of North Carolina junior who posted an 82 to qualify.

Champ Cards 85

Mrs. Ruth Torgerson of Garden City, last year's winner, swings into action against Lajunta White of Yonkers, who took an 81 in qualifying for the match competition. Mrs. Torgerson was not required to qualify but she played yesterday and carded an 85.

To go all the way, Miss Bruning or any of the other youngsters will have to overcome a field of veterans wise in the ways of tournament golf.

In addition to Mrs. Torgerson they include Mrs. Philip Allen of Syracuse, the former Virginia Guilfoil who won the title ten years ago. She was only two strokes back of the Wellesley ace with a qualifying round of 75.

KPBA Praised For Regatta

The Kingston Power Boat Association has received a letter of commendation from Richard E. Hobbs, of the General Outboard Company, of Melrose, Mass., for the splendid manner in which it conducted its recent 10th annual regatta on July 8.

"I have been to several outboard events over the past few years and wish to state that at none of them has there been so much evidence of hard work and exceptional planning as was apparent at your regatta," Hobbs wrote to Commodore Roger Reardon of the KPBA.

"If all of the outboard racing in New England and New Jersey area were run half as well as your races, I think the result would be a tremendous increase in outboard racing and I think this is something we would all like to see," Hobbs said.

Midget Auto Races Return to Rhinebeck Friday After Three-Years' Absence

Midget auto racing which preceded the stock cars in popularity at eastern race tracks will return to the Rhinebeck Speedway next Friday night, Promoter Steve Iko announced today.

Iko said the midgets are returning by popular demand.

The little bundles of mechanical dynamite, as Iko describes the midgets, are returning to Rhinebeck for the first time in three years.

When the announcement was made to the large crowd attending stock car races Saturday night, the cheers and applause were tremendous and fans gave a roaring welcome to the news.

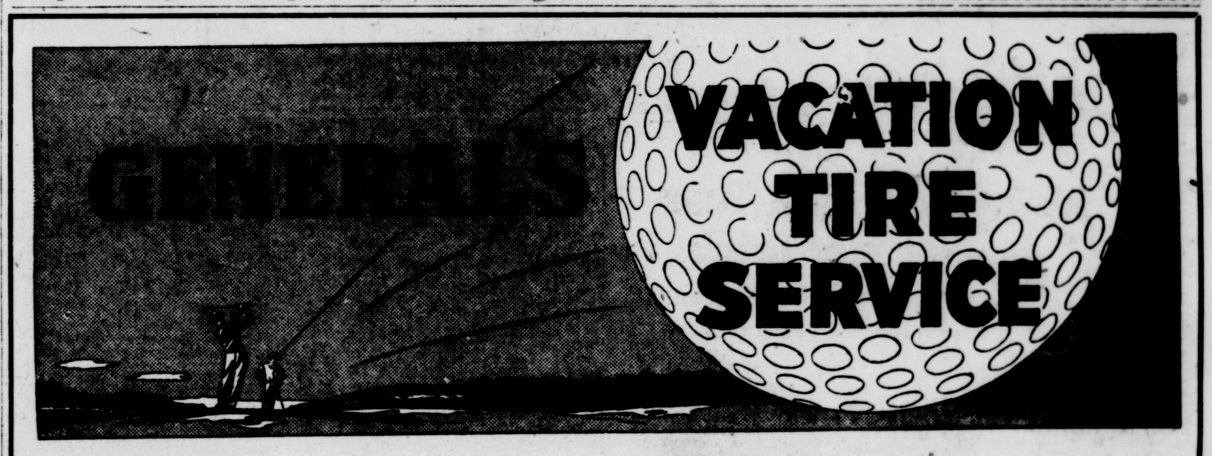

Excitement was at its highest when added information brought out the fact that the nationally famous ARDC roster includes the fastest cars in the sport today in both Offys' and Fords. These heavy footed pilots, who have achieved the highest acclaim in racing are still well remembered by Rhinebeck fans and their enthusiasm increased when told that among the stars returning are faforite champions like the popular Ed "Dutch" Schaefer, the "Flying Dutchman" of Floral Park, L. I., who was remembered for the outstanding races he drove in the "Golden Arrow."

Bob and Stan Disbrow of Poughkeepsie along with Rhinebeck's Bob Tator are set to return for midget car action Friday night. After hearing the crowd's reaction, they were off to contact car owners to assure themselves a starting position among the many other favorites already entered.

Washington — Gene Smith, 124¾, Washington, stopped Jimmy Cooper, 126, Washington (6).

Alex Gerlack Shoots Four-Under 66 to Capture Poughkeepsie Tourney

The Scoreboard

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Results of the next three days may throw the American League race into one of the tightest four-team scrambles of record.

Only two and a half games separate the front-running Red Sox and the fourth-place Indians today as Boston invades Cleveland for a three-game set while runner-ups Chicago and New York clash in a three-game argument of their own.

A mere half game can separate all four clubs when the last put-outs are made on Thursday. All it would need is for the Indians to sweep the set from the Red Sox and the Yankees to win two out of three from the White Sox.

Then the standings would read this way:

	W	L	Pct.	GB
New York	50	33	.602	..
Cleveland	51	34	.600	..
Boston	51	35	.593	½
Chicago	52	36	.591	½

The Red Sox lost a full game to each of their pursuers yesterday when the tail-end St. Louis Browns roused themselves with a seven-run fifth inning to upset the Sox, 9-5.

Chisox Rally

Chicago turned on their Philadelphia tormentors with an early blast to register a 9-5 victory over the Athletics and cut Boston's margin to one game. The Yankees, outhit almost two to one, outlasted the Tigers in Detroit, 8-6, to stay within a half game of the White Sox. They pulled even with Chicago in percentage, however, at .600. Cleveland waltzed to an easy 8-2 triumph over Washington to cut its first-place gap to two and a half games.

It's a different story in the National League. The front-running Dodgers snapped their four-game losing streak with a decisive 11-2 win over Cincinnati to retain their eight-game margin.

Giants Nip Bucs

New York's Giants slipped past St. Louis into second place by vanquishing the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-6, in the rubber of their three-game set. A five-run eighth inning kayoed Gerry Staley and gave the Philadelphia Phils a 5-2 victory over the Cardinals. Boston's Braves spotted Chicago four runs in the first inning and came on to win, 9-4.

Ted Williams slammed his 18th homer for the Red Sox but it went to waste as the Browns teed off on Ellis Kinder and Bill Wight for six hits and added three walks for seven runs in the big fifth inning.

Paul Richards shook up his Chicago lineup and the White Sox responded by shellacking a pair of Philadelphia hurlers for 15 hits, including homers by Orestes Minoso and Don Lenhardt.

A two-run homer by Yogi Berra and another four-bagger by Joe Collins offset spotty pitching by newcomer Artie Schallock and Frank Shea and gave the Yankees their second straight win over the Tigers.

Luke Easter hammered his 13th and 14th homers and drove in five runs to lead the Indians to victory over Washington.

Old Caps Win Over Morgan's Nine, 15-2

Twi Managers to Hold Meeting

City Baseball League managers have been called to an important meeting, following today's contest between Jones Dairy and Wiltwyck Motors.

The onrushing Dairymen, only two games behind the pace-setting Wiltwyck Motors and Chez Emile, will send their veteran ace, Tommy Fisher, to the mound against Gene McClelland of the Motormen.

This is a crucial game for the Joneses, who can slice the Motormen's margin to one game.

Caps Rout Merchants

Old Capital Motors routed the hapless Morgan Merchants, 15 to 2, in yesterday's contest that had no particular bearing on the final results of the pennant chase.

George Jackson permitted only five hits and fanned seven of the Merchants. The Motormen clubbed Hokie Tomson and Zeke Klosterman for 13 hits, including three each by Fred Schryver and Barringer.

Barringer drove in five runs with a double and two singles. It was a typical loosely-played Morgan contest in which nine errors cropped up in the boxscore.

The Motormen also set what is believed to be an all-time City League record with 10 stolen bases.

Eric Goercke and Post shared four of the five Morgan safeties.

The boxscore:

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Billy Shields, the Albany amateur ace, hit the big time jackpot with his brilliant victory in the New York State Amateur tournament. Ray Billows played in the qualifying foursome with the bony capital district swinger and described him as a championship threat. Lester Rice, the astute JA golf expert and dog lover, says Shields has definite big time potentialities.

• The Nineteenth Hole:

Ellenville area golfers rate 5-handicap Dick Eck a real dark horse threat in the Father Herdegen Memorial. You can stir up plenty of action by taking the Bill Van Aken-Leon Randall and Alvin Boice-George Hughes tandems against the field for combined medal scores. Twaalfskill Golf Club has its member-guest tournament coming up on August 4. Bill Costello sliced his handicap four strokes in the past month and has qualified for the county amateur. John Cwik holds the IBM course record in Poughkeepsie with a six-under 64. Wesley "Bo" Gill, the Newburgh pundit, is shooting in middle 70s following a series of lessons from Gene Sarazen, the Germantown Squire. We have a strong feeling, however, that somewhere along the line he is missing a hole or two. You won't find any finer greens than those on the back nine at James Baird course. And this department still insists that Tommy McNamara's Dutchess Country Club layout is the most exacting golf test in these parts.

• Who's Who at Wiltwyck:

The 1951 Wiltwyck championship looks like a terrific scramble from here. Bill Van Aken apparently hasn't been up to his 1950 form when he grabbed the Wiltwyck and city crowns. Leon Randall, back in 1949 style, is a powerful threat and it's hard to discount veterans like Watts Bailey and Maurice Davenport. Bob Daley could do it, too. Ray Vogt's game was coming along nicely, following an extended illness but there is some doubt if he will play in the championships. Roy, who won the first city crown, recently switched to the brassie on tee shots and was hitting the aspirin as long as ever. A nice father-and-son match would pair Dr. Mahlon Atkinson and Mahlon, Jr., of Catskill against the Davenports—Maurice and son, Dick. In his age bracket, Dr. Atkinson is perhaps the most rugged player in these parts. In the recent Catskill Open we had the pleasure of playing the last nine holes with the doctor and Billy Shields, the new state amateur king. The doc, well trained in such chicanery by Justice Harry Schirick, took two bisques against Shields and needed only one to win. That's how tough he can be.

Evaluating Lou Smith's chances in the Herdegen Memorial, Walton Fitzgerald, a talented dispenser of bon mots, uttered the classic remark of the week:

"You have to rate Smitty a darkhorse, alright. And he'll be a lot tougher when he picks up more tan in August."

We have not yet decided if John Matthews' elevation to the championship flight at Twaalfskill for the second straight year represents a victory for capitalism over the bourgeoise, or is the just reward for one who has devoted endless hours of practice, patience and persistence to the most exacting sports on earth.

There's a psychological twist in golf balls that is misunderstood by many average and low-handicap players. The high compression ball isn't one for the average golfer and the ball manufacturers have spent fortunes trying to convince the average golfer of that fact. But it's been of not much effect; the average golfer still wants the type of ball that the experts can hit a country mile. And the poor duffer just never generates sufficient clubhead impact to start the rockets off the tees in proper fashion.

Danny The Duffer: Oh, just give me one more than the highest score.

FIRES 66 ON POUGHKEEPSIE COURSE

Flashing old-time form, Alex Gerlak, Twaalfskill Golf Club pro, won the Northeastern PGA's weekly event with a four-under-par 66 Monday at the College Hill links in Poughkeepsie. He was two strokes ahead of the field. He was out in 31, with four birdies and shot even figures on the back nine. (Freeman Photo).

Hughes and Van Gonsic Share Medalist Honors

Both Shoot 71s in Twaalfskill Play

John Van Gonsic and George Hughes shared medalist honors with one-over-par 71s in the Twaalfskill Golf Club qualifying play completed on Sunday.

Van Gonsic, a former club champion, was out in 36 and had an incoming 35. The sweet-swinging Hughes carded the only subpar nine hole score with an outgoing 34 and had 37 on the back nine.

Lou Smith and Dr. Douw Meyers broke 80, with 79s, Meyers shooting 42-37 and Smith, 39-40.

A score of 84 was good enough to qualify for the championship flight. There were three players bracketed in a tie for 16th position at 84—George Schneider, Floyd Flint, N. LeVan Haver and Charlie Vogel. Schneider stayed in the top flight on a matching of cards.

Match play will start this week. The medal scores:

Railroad Loses Money

New York, July 17 (AP)—Testimony was given yesterday at the Public Service Commission that the Yonkers Railroad Company operation for six months ended May 31 continued at a loss in spite of a fare increase granted last November. An exhibit submitted to Hearing Examiner Harold M. Olmstead showed the net income loss for the six months to May 31, of $213,522, compared with a loss figure of $321,497 for the corresponding period in 1950.

Twaalfskill Pro Has Rounds of 31 and 35 In Weekly PGA TEST at College Hill

Firing a four-under-par 66, Alex Gerlak, Twaalfskill Golf Club professional, led the field in the Northeastern PGA event by two strokes, Monday at the College Hill course in Poughkeepsie.

Gerlak's card showed six birdies and two bogies and with a couple of breaks on the back nine, he could have flirted with Charlie DeStefano's course record of 61. He was out in 31 and played the back nine in regulation figures.

Deadlocked for runnerup honors were Steve Kay of Sharon Springs and Milon Marusic of Wolfert's Roost in Albany with 68s.

Two home products—host pro Charlie DeStefano and Tom McNamara of the Dutchess Country Club—carded one-over 71s.

Sig Makofski of Schenectady paced the amateur contingent with a 70. Al Serian of Freer Park was second with a 72.

Has Hot Putter

A hot putter that enabled Gerlak to sink four putts of 15 feet or better for birdies on the first nine deserted the Twaalfskill pro on the last three holes.

Six-under part at the 15th, despite the fact he had missed a five footer on the 11th and a strong pitch shot on the 10th, Gerlak bogied the 175-yard par-3 16th when his drive was short and he chipped seven feet beyond the cup. The return putt hit the back of the cup and bounced out.

On the long par-five uphill 17th, his second shot strayed off line into a clump of trees but Gerlak rallied with a magnificent pitch shot 10 feet from the cup. He then proceeded to three-putt from that distance. He got down in regulation figures on the 18th.

The SCOREBOARD

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Results of the next three days may throw the American League race into one of the tightest four-team scrambles of record.

Only two and a half games separate the front-running Red Sox and the fourth-place Indians today as Boston invades Cleveland for a three-game set while runner-ups Chicago and New York clash in a three-game argument of their own.

A mere half game can separate all four clubs when the last put-outs are made on Thursday. All it would need is for the Indians to sweep the set from the Red Sox and the Yankees to win two out of three from the White Sox.

Then the standings would read this way:

	W	L	Pct.	GB
New York	50	33	.602	..
Cleveland	51	34	.600	..
Boston	51	35	.593	½
Chicago	52	36	.591	½

The Red Sox lost a full game to each of their pursuers yesterday when the tail-end St. Louis Browns roused themselves with a seven-run fifth inning to upset the Sox, 9-5.

Chisox Rally

Chicago turned on their Philadelphia tormentors with an early blast to register a 9-5 victory over the Athletics and cut Boston's margin to one game. The Yankees, outhit almost two to one, outlasted the Tigers in Detroit, 8-6, to stay within a half game of the White Sox. They pulled even with Chicago in percentage, however, at .600. Cleveland waltzed to an easy 8-2 triumph over Washington to cut its first-place gap to two and a half games.

It's a different story in the National League. The front-running Dodgers snapped their four-game losing streak with a decisive 11-2 win over Cincinnati to retain their eight-game margin.

Giants Nip Bucs

New York's Giants slipped past St. Louis into second place by vanquishing the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-6, in the rubber of their three-game set. A five-run eighth inning kayoed Gerry Staley and gave the Philadelphia Phils a 5-2 victory over the Cardinals. Boston's Braves spotted Chicago four runs in the first inning and came on to win, 9-4.

Ted Williams slammed his 18th homer for the Red Sox but it went to waste as the Browns teed off on Ellis Kinder and Bill Wight for six hits and added three walks for seven runs in the big fifth inning.

Paul Richards shook up his Chicago lineup and the White Sox responded by shellacking a pair of Philadelphia hurlers for 15 hits, including homers by Orestes Minoso and Don Lenhardt.

A two-run homer by Yogi Berra and another four-bagger by Joe Collins offset spotty pitching by rewcomer Artie Schallock and Frank Shea and gave the Yankees their second straight win over the Tigers.

Luke Easter hammered his 13th and 14th homers and drove in five runs to lead the Indians to victory over Washington.

Old Caps Win Over Morgan's Nine, 15-2

Twi Managers to Hold Meeting

City Baseball League managers have been called to an important meeting, following today's contest between Jones Dairy and Wiltwyck Motors.

The onrushing Dairymen, only two games behind the pace-setting Wiltwyck Motors and Chez Emile, will send their veteran ace, Tommy Fisher, to the mound against Gene McClelland of the Motormen.

This is a crucial game for the Joneses, who can slice the Motormen's margin to one game.

Caps Rout Merchants

Old Capital Motors routed the hapless Morgan Merchants, 15 to 2, in yesterday's contest that had no particular bearing on the final results of the pennant chase.

George Jackson permitted only five hits and fanned seven of the Merchants. The Motormen clubbed Hokie Tomson and Zeke Klosterman for 13 hits, including three each by Fred Schryver and Barringer.

Barringer drove in five runs with a double and two singles. It was a typical loosely-played Morgan contest in which nine errors cropped up in the boxscore.

The Motormen also set what is believed to be an all-time City League record with 10 stolen bases.

Eric Goercke and Post shared four of the five Morgan safeties.

The boxscore:

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Billy Shields, the Albany amateur ace, hit the big time jackpot with his brilliant victory in the New York State Amateur tournament. Ray Billows played in the qualifying foursome with the bony capital district swinger and described him as a championship threat. Lester Rice, the astute JA golf expert and dog lover, says Shields has definite big time potentialities.

• The Nineteenth Hole:

Ellenville area golfers rate 5-handicap Dick Eck a real dark horse threat in the Father Herdegen Memorial. You can stir up plenty of action by taking the Bill Van Aken-Leon Randall and Alvin Boice-George Hughes tandems against the field for combined medal scores. Twaalfskill Golf Club has its member-guest tournament coming up on August 4. Bill Costello sliced his handicap four strokes in the past month and has qualified for the county amateur. John Cwik holds the IBM course record in Poughkeepsie with a six-under 64. Wesley "Bo" Gill, the Newburgh pundit, is shooting in middle 70s following a series of lessons from Gene Sarazen, the Germantown Squire. We have a strong feeling, however, that somewhere along the line he is missing a hole or two. You won't find any finer greens than those on the back nine at James Baird course. And this department still insists that Tommy McNamara's Dutchess Country Club layout is the most exacting golf test in these parts.

• Who's Who at Wiltwyck:

The 1951 Wiltwyck championship looks like a terrific scramble from here. Bill Van Aken apparently hasn't been up to his 1950 form when he grabbed the Wiltwyck and city crowns. Leon Randall, back in 1949 style, is a powerful threat and it's hard to discount veterans like Watts Bailey and Maurice Davenport. Bob Daley could do it, too. Ray Vogt's game was coming along nicely, following an extended illness but there is some doubt if he will play in the championships. Roy, who won the first city crown, recently switched to the brassie on tee shots and was hitting the aspirin as long as ever. A nice father-and-son match would pair Dr. Mahlon Atkinson and Mahlon, Jr., of Catskill against the Davenports—Maurice and son, Dick. In his age bracket, Dr. Atkinson is perhaps the most rugged player in these parts. In the recent Catskill Open we had the pleasure of playing the last nine holes with the doctor and Billy Shields, the new state amateur king. The doc, well trained in such chicanery by Justice Harry Schirick, took two bisques against Shields and needed only one to win. That's how tough he can be.

Evaluating Lou Smith's chances in the Herdegen Memorial, Walton Fitzgerald, a talented dispenser of bon mots, uttered the classic remark of the week:

"You have to rate Smitty a darkhorse, alright. And he'll be a lot tougher when he picks up more tan in August."

We have not yet decided if John Matthews' elevation to the championship flight at Twaalfskill for the second straight year represents a victory for capitalism over the bourgeoise, or is the just reward for one who has devoted endless hours of practice, patience and persistence to the most exacting sports on earth.

There's a psychological twist in golf balls that is misunderstood by many average and low-handicap players. The high compression ball isn't one for the average golfer and the ball manufacturers have spent fortunes trying to convince the average golfer of that fact. But it's been of not much effect; the average golfer still wants the type of ball that the experts can hit a country mile. And the poor duffer just never generates sufficient clubhead impact to start the rockets off the tees in proper fashion.

Danny The Duffer: Oh, just give me one more than the highest score.

FIRES 66 ON POUGHKEEPSIE COURSE

Flashing old-time form, Alex Gerlak, Twaalfskill Golf Club pro, won the Northeastern PGA's weekly event with a four-under-par 66 Monday at the College Hill links in Poughkeepsie. He was two strokes ahead of the field. He was out in 31, with four birdies and shot even figures on the back nine. (Freeman Photo).

Hughes and Van Gonsic Share Medalist Honors

Both Shoot 71s in Twaalfskill Play

John Van Gonsic and George Hughes shared medalist honors with one-over-par 71s in the Twaalfskill Golf Club qualifying play completed on Sunday.

Van Gonsic, a former club champion, was out in 36 and had an incoming 35. The sweet-swinging Hughes carded the only subpar nine hole score with an outgoing 34 and had 37 on the back nine.

Bob Boice, long-hitting brother of club champion, Alvin Boice, and Ed Remmert tied with 74s, while the champion was somewhat off his normal pace with 39-37—76. Remmert posted 38-36 and Bob Boice shot 39-35.

Lou Smith and Dr. Douw Meyers broke 80, with 79s, Meyers shooting 42-37 and Smith, 39-40.

A score of 84 was good enough to qualify for the championship flight. There were three players bracketed in a tie for 16th position at 84—George Schneider, Floyd Flint, N. LeVan Haver and Charlie Vogel. Schneider stayed in the top flight on a matching of cards.

Match play will start this week. The medal scores:

Railroad Loses Money

New York, July 17 (AP)—Testimony was given yesterday at the Public Service Commission that the Yonkers Railroad Company operation for six months ended May 31 continued at a loss in spite of a fare increase granted last November. An exhibit submitted to Hearing Examiner Harold M. Olmstead showed the net income loss for the six months to May 31, of $213,522, compared with a loss figure of $321,497 for the corresponding period in 1950.

Twaalfskill Pro Has Rounds of 31 and 35 In Weekly PGA TEST at College Hill

Firing a four-under-par 66, Alex Gerlak, Twaalfskill Golf Club professional, led the field in the Northeastern PGA event by two strokes, Monday at the College Hill course in Poughkeepsie.

Gerlak's card showed six birdies and two bogies and with a couple of breaks on the back nine, he could have flirted with Charlie DeStefano's course record of 61. He was out in 31 and played the back nine in regulation figures.

Deadlocked for runnerup honors were Steve Kay of Sharon Springs and Milon Marusic of Wolfert's Roost in Albany with 68s.

Two home products—host pro Charlie DeStefano and Tom McNamara of the Dutchess Country Club—carded one-over 71s.

Sig Makofski of Schenectady paced the amateur contingent with a 70. Al Serian of Freer Park was second with a 72.

Has Hot Putter

A hot putter that enabled Gerlak to sink four putts of 15 feet or better for birdies on the first nine deserted the Twaalfskill pro on the last three holes.

Six-under part at the 15th, despite the fact he had missed a five footer on the 11th and a strong pitch shot on the 10th, Gerlak bogied the 175-yard par-3 16th when his drive was short and he chipped seven feet beyond the cup. The return putt hit the back of the cup and bounced out.

On the long par-five uphill 17th, his second shot strayed off line into a clump of trees but Gerlak rallied with a magnificent pitch shot 10 feet from the cup. He then proceeded to three-putt from that distance. He got down in regulation figures on the 18th.

Saratoga Feature To Seattle Hanover

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 17 (AP)—Seattle Hanover, a four-year-old stallion, breezed home six lengths in front of the field last night to win the $2,500 Schenectady Pace at the Saratoga Raceway.

He was clocked in 2:05 2/5 in the grand circuit event.

Seattle, owned by the Castleton Farm of Lexington, Ky., and driven by Wayne Smart, was a 4 to 5 choice and paid $3.80.

Second was Sparkle Hanover followed by Old Grand Dad.

Yankee Hanover, who had been lightly regarded as a Hambletonian candidate, won an overnight event in 2:08 3/5, and returned $17.50.

Yankee, owned by Mrs. John L. Wehle of Rochester, scored ahead of Groomsman and Roderic.

Sports of the Day

(IN BRIEF)
(By The Associated Press)

Munich—Rain caused postponement until today of decisive singles match in West Germany-Italy Davis Cup competition after Italy tied series at 2-2.

Welbert, Germany — Jaroslav, Drobny defeated Vladislav Skonecki, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, and Louise Brough beat Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont, 6-2, 4-6, 6-0, in finals of International Tennis Tournament.

Honolulu — Chriqui named as probable winner of Los Angeles-Honolulu yacht race, subject to change if boats still at sea have better corrected time on their handicaps.

Monday's 98 Was Highest Reading For Present Year

The mercury hit 98 degrees yesterday for the year's high temperature to date, but this was far from any kind of a July record.

The highest July temperature recorded at the city engineer's office dates back to July 9, 1936 when the mercury hit 106. Temperatures during that same month went over 100 degrees several times.

Yesterday's high at about 2 p. m., was followed by a drop to 86 degrees only about 15 minutes later because of a sudden wind. This was short lived and the temperature started rising gradually again for the next two hours until it reached 95 degrees at 4 p. m.

The mercury continued in the 90's until about 8 p. m., when a gradual downtrend sent it to 71 degrees for the overnight low at 4 a. m., as scattered showers began sweeping over the Catskill Mountain and Hudson Valley areas.

Today promised lower temperatures through the day. The city engineer's office recorded 82 degrees at noon.

There are 9,500,000 piano players in the United States.

LEGAL NOTICE

STATE OF NEW YORK, SUPREME COURT, COUNTY OF ULSTER—THE KINGSTON SAVINGS BANK, Plaintiff, against RICHARD W. WELLS and MARY T. WELLS, his wife, and THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, Defendants. CASE #22,644

NOTICE OF SALE

IN PURSUANCE and by virtue of a Judgment of Foreclosure and sale duly granted in the above entitled action on the 27th day of June, 1951, and entered in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on the 27th day of June, 1951, I, HUGH R. ELWYN, Esq., the undersigned, Referee, in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction at the front door of the Ulster County Court House, in the City of Kingston, New York, on the 27th day of July, 1951, at 12 o'clock Noon (Eastern Daylight Saving Time) of that day, as one parcel and property, the premises described in said Judgment as follows:

ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, with the dwelling house thereon, situate on the southeasterly side of Pettit Avenue in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, and more particularly bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point on the southeasterly side of Pettit Avenue which point is distant two hundred one feet easterly from the intersection formed by the easterly line of Schermerhorn Street with the southeasterly line of Pettit Avenue and runs from said point of beginning in a southerly direction along lot #119 on a map hereinafter mentioned for a distance of one hundred (100) feet; thence in an easterly direction along lot #131 and a part of #133 for a distance of fifty (50) feet to other lands of Carchidi, thence in a northwesterly direction and along other lands of Carchidi for a distance of one hundred (100) feet to the southeasterly side of Pettit Avenue; thence in a westerly direction along the southeasterly side of Pettit Avenue for a distance of fifty (50) feet to the point and place of beginning.

The above described property includes lot #118 and 17 feet from the westerly side of lot #117 on a map entitled "Map of Clinton Park" property formerly of William H. Moffit Realty Company, located in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, surveyed in June 1900 by W. T. Klingberg, Engineer and Surveyor of Kingston, and filed in the office of the Clerk of Ulster County in June 1900.

The above described property being a portion of the premises described in a deed executed by Grace Carchidi to James Carchidi, dated October 23, 1946, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Deed Book 678 page 595 on February 27th, 1947.

The above described property being the same premises as conveyed by James Carchidi, widower, to Richard W. Wells and Mary T. Wells, his wife, as tenants by the entirety, by deed dated Sept. 29 1948 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 718 of Deeds page 14 on Sept. 29, 1948.

Dated: June 28th, 1951.

Reds Back to Jail

New York, July 17 (AP)—Thirteen indicted Communist leaders were ordered to jail today for the third time when they failed to produce court-approved bail. The order came from Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff. Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan yesterday disqualified the Civil Right Congress bail fund from posting bond and gave 14 defendants until today to obtain the bond from other sources. Thirteen made no bail application when they appeared before Holtzoff.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

From time to time, some outfit comes to town and turns out what some call "commercial biographies." Yet if it weren't for these books, little would be known or written about some of the builders of our city and county. Some of the "real doers" are often modest, and seldom does their name and picture reach the newspapers. Yet their good deeds are felt by many. "The Valley of the Hudson River of Destiny" is an illustrated biographical volume of books, which perhaps can be classed in the "commercial" write-ups, yet there was much intelligent research and foot work done to put out the handsome volumes.

I had never seen this set of books until I was presented with them for keeps recently. On page 468 there is the beginning of a write up on George W. Ross, M. D. and also a good photo of the doctor, back in the 1930's. Having lived in Port Ewen, where he practiced, as a younster I knew him well. When I had chickenpox and heavy colds he was called in. He was the one doctor I remember as certainly having a bedside manner for children. I knew very little about his life history before he came to Port Ewen, but knew he lived in one of the prettiest homes over-looking the Hudson, on our side of the street, and whenever he would drive down to Kingston in one of his handsome cars, if he saw my father or anyone else of my family he would often give us a lift. I guess today doctors are too busy for such small town friendliness.

Dr. Ross was born in Albany July 1, 1876, about 100 years after the Revolution. His father was born in Scotland. His father opened a grocery store in Albany and later was able to retire and move to Loudonville, outskirts of Albany and there enjoyed farming as a hobby. Then he returned to Albany again. Dr. Ross's mother was Matilda (Van Patten) Ross, a native of Albany and a daughter of Peter Van Patten, whose forbears were among the early settlers of Albany county. Dr. Ross was one of seven children. From then on it continues to cover his life and practice in Port Ewen. There is a Ross Park in Port Ewen named after the good doctor.

In the same book there is a coverage of Daniel Henry Krieger, successful pharmacist of Poughkeepsie, representing the third generation of his family to be actively engaged in business at the corner of Main and Perry streets. His grandfather opened a store there in 1844. This book was written around 1930. Daniel H. Krieger was an only child of Daniel and Catherine (Luther) Krieger. Mr. Krieger was united in marriage to Miss Ida F. Weber, daughter of Edward and Emma (Fischer) Weber, of Kingston. Mrs. Krieger is of French descent on her mother's side, her maternal grandmother bearing the maiden name of Ida Chastang. Her father, Edward Weber, for many years owned and conducted a retail meat market in Kingston, corner Broadway and Abeel street. Ida Weber Krieger also being a licensed pharmacist, they became a very popular team in Poughkeepsie and their drug store known throughout the county. When Mr. Krieger died, Mrs. Krieger continued the business, therefore the Kriegers have now conducted business there for over 100 years.

Floating Oil Still Burns in Kansas City

Racketeers Are Linked to Scarcity Of Defense Goods

The scene shifted fast after a subcommittee of the Senate's Small Business Committee wound up two days of hearings here.

The tip about possible racketeer connections came from a surprise witness at an extraordinary final session last night. The witness was Marshall C. Thomas of Norwalk, Conn., a onetime chemicals manufacturer who took to the materials brokerage business because "it was more profitable."

Thomas said "word has got back to me" that racketeers were connected with the nation's scarce supply of nickel. Tho other witnesses said Thomas had mentioned racketeers as his source of nickel supply in offering large quantities of the metal at many times the regular market price.

Denies Racket Angle

Thomas readily admitted selling nicked annodes for up to $5.50 a pound, when, according to another witness, the normal market price has been 67 cents. But he denied that he knew any racketeers.

There is no price ceiling on nickel annodes, it was brought out. Thomas said he did not deal in scrap nickel, on which there is a ceiling. He said he also has not dealt much in steel. The steel shortage has brought mass layoffs in the auto industry.

Sen. Moody (D.-Mich.), chairman of the subcommittee, sprinkled his questions with references to "this black market or dark gray market."

Quick Action

Moody said Thomas flew into Detroit last evening in the hope of selling 49,000 pounds of nickel to the Advance Plating Co. here for $4.50 a pound. He was handed a subjoena to appear before the committee as he stepped from the plane and took the stand an hour later.

At the committee's request President Bernard M. Baur of Advance Plating had suggested that Thomas rush here.

Moody asked Thomas if he would object to opening his books to scrutiny by a committee investigator. Thomas said he would not. Moody then assigned an investigator to accompany Thomas back to Norwalk today.

Tired of Home Chores, Two Fly to Hollywood

Burbank, Calif., July 17 (AP)—Tired of mowing lawns and attending dancing school, 15-year-old James Hillhouse, and his sister, Judy, 13, of Rye, N. Y., ran away from home, via airplane, for Hollywood.

Detectives Alan Ostroff and Ray Dow met them last night at the airport here. The children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hillhouse, had traced their movements and wired money for their return trip.

The detectives said the children told them they wrote two checks for $160 each on their mother's account for plane fare and spending money.

James said he was tired of the vacation routine of mowing lawns and Judy said she had had enough dancing, but the boy admitted he wanted to see his "dream girl" of the movies, actress Debbie Reynolds, while Judy wanted to meet child actor Dean Stockwell, her current hero.

James brought along plenty of "boy baggage," including tennis shoes, knives and a Boy Scout axe. He said he and Judy belong to the Junior American Yacht Club and have sailed the family's lightning-class sailboat.

Hungarians Asked To Show Resistance

Vienna, Austria, July 17 (AP)—The Hungarian people have been urged by their brothers in exile to conduct a week of passive resistance to their Communist masters and the Soviet Union.

Powerful radio free Europe stations, sponsored by private American funds, broadcast the appeal, which was signed by "The Commander of the Magyar (Hungarian) Defense Council (Moet)."

Points to Defense Losses

Washington, July 17 (AP)—Rep. Price (D.-Ill.) said today that every two per cent rise in prices means that rearmament costs go up another $1,000,000,000 a year. Price, a member of the House Armed Services Committee, said in a statement that "the enemy of inflation" already has inflicted heavy losses on the defense dollar. "We have lost planes and tanks just as surely as though they had been destroyed by an armed enemy," he said.

Several Doctors Involved

Lynn, Mass., July 17 (AP)—Several Essex county doctors are expected to be involved in a grand jury investigation of the adoption racket sale of babies for from $800 to $3,500 to foster parents, district attorney Hugh A. Cregg said today. "The only location of this affair is a rest home on the outskirts of Lynn," Cregg added. Cregg would not divulge the names of any doctors involved.

Car, Out of Control, Damages Property

At 7:20 a. m. Saturday a car was reported to have left the highway at Stone Ridge and damaged the lawn and shrubbery on the property of Walter Schaefer. Deputy Sheriff William Churchill was assigned to investigate.

It was found the car was a Plymouth owned and operated by George Dyzewski, 20, of 88 Hasbrouck avenue, Kingston, who was enroute to work at the Ulster Knife Works in Ellenville.

He reported he had lost control of the car on a curve and the car had run over on the lawn and when it came to a halt was headed toward Kingston. He was alone at the time.

Damage to the lawn and shubbery was placed at $150 by Schaefer. There was no personal injury and Dyzewski continued on to work.

Behncke Ousted By Pilots Union

Chicago, July 17 (AP)—The AFL Air Line Pilots Association today voted to oust President David L. Behncke, 54, and then approved paying him his current salary of $15,000 a year for life.

Actions to dismiss Behncke, founder and president of the union for 20 years, came early today after an all-night meeting of 210 of the union's 228 directors.

The fight for control of the union and the attempt to fire Behncke was to come up for hearing in Federal Court today.

The directors elected a new president, Clarence N. Sayen, 32, of Chicago. He was an executive vice president of ALPA but recently had been fired by Behncke. Four other union officials also fired by Behncke in the last two weeks were reinstated by the directors.

A spokesman for the directors said the vote to "recall" Behncke from the office of president was by "an overwhelming majority." He said the directors, voting for membership, cast a vote of 6,000 to 200 for Sayne to take over the president's job at the $15,000 a year salary.

Condition Critical

New York, July 17 (AP)—A soldier who jumped yesterday from the 33rd floor of the Empire State building, but landed on an extension three floors below was reported in critical condition today at Bellevue Hospital. Police said that Pfc. John F. Tranchese, 35, of Bayonne, N. J., removed a ventilating panel in an office and jumped out. He gave no reason for his act. His wife, Josie, visited him at Bellevue today.

Monday's 98 Was Highest Reading For Present Year

The mercury hit 98 degrees yesterday for the year's high temperature to date, but this was far from any kind of a July record.

The highest July temperature recorded at the city engineer's office dates back to July 9, 1936 when the mercury hit 106. Temperatures during that same month went over 100 degrees several times.

Yesterday's high at about 2 p. m., was followed by a drop to 86 degrees only about 15 minutes later because of a sudden wind. This was short lived and the temperature started rising gradually again for the next two hours until it reached 95 degrees at 4 p. m.

The mercury continued in the 90's until about 8 p. m., when a gradual downtrend sent it to 71 degrees for the overnight low at 4 a. m., as scattered showers began sweeping over the Catskill Mountain and Hudson Valley areas.

Today promised lower temperatures through the day. The city engineer's office recorded 82 degrees at noon.

There are 9,500,000 piano players in the United States.

Behncke Ousted By Pilots Union

Chicago, July 17 (AP)—The AFL Air Line Pilots Association today voted to oust President David L. Behncke, 54, and then approved paying him his current salary of $15,000 a year for life.

Actions to dismiss Behncke, founder and president of the union for 20 years, came early today after an all-night meeting of 210 of the union's 228 directors.

The fight for control of the union and the attempt to fire Behncke was to come up for hearing in Federal Court today.

The directors elected a new president, Clarence N. Sayen, 32, of Chicago. He was an executive vice president of ALPA but recently had been fired by Behncke. Four other union officials also fired by Behncke in the last two weeks were reinstated by the directors.

A spokesman for the directors said the vote to "recall" Behncke from the office of president was by "an overwhelming majority." He said the directors, voting for membership, cast a vote of 6,000 to 200 for Sayne to take over the president's job at the $15,000 a year salary.

Condition Critical

New York, July 17 (AP)—A soldier who jumped yesterday from the 33rd floor of the Empire State building, but landed on an extension three floors below was reported in critical condition today at Bellevue Hospital. Police said that Pfc. John F. Tranchese, 35, of Bayonne, N. J., removed a ventilating panel in an office and jumped out. He gave no reason for his act. His wife, Josie, visited him at Bellevue today.

Police Say Judge Prejudices Charge On Gambling Tie

New York, July 17 (AP)—Eight policemen say Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz already has prejudged the charges that they conspired to protect a $20,000,000-a-year Brooklyn gambling ring.

The eight, among 19 policemen and former policemen named by a grand jury as protectors of Harry Gross' bookmaking syndicate, asked yesterday that their case be transferred from Judge Leibowitz's court to Brooklyn Supreme Court.

Trial of their case started before Judge Leibowitz last June 4 but was adjourned to Sept. 10 after selection of a single juror. The adjournment came after a 20th defendant leaped to his death from a court house window.

Assistant District Attorney Julius A. Helfand reacted to yesterday's Supreme Court petition by immediately asking Judge Leibowitz to resume the trial next Monday instead of Sept. 10.

Helfand said that at the time of adjournment the defense agreed not to make further motions on the question of jurisdiction.

Judge Leibowitz denied Helfand's request for resuming the trial before Sept. 10.

The move for a change of jurisdiction was filed in Supreme Court by John J. Broderick, attorney for the eight. Broderick was not a party to the June 4 agreement. He was brought into the case after the eight revolted against their original counsel.

Attorneys for the other 11 defendants yesterday told Judge Leibowitz they had confidence in his ability to preside impartially at the trial.

Broderick's motion was accompanied by affidavits from the eight defendants charging that Judge Leibowitz had made public speeches describing the men as "vile and criminal." They also said the judge was "an inspiration and a leader to the grand jury which returned the indictments."

Their motion was set down for argument next Monday.

Hail Damage Monday In Upstate Sections

Albany, N. Y., July 17 (AP)—Thunderstorms brought New York state relief today from sweltering temperatures and high humidity, while some sections suffered damage from hail.

The weather Bureau said highest readings today would be in the 70s for the most part, in contrast to the high 80s and low 90s yesterday. The humidity was expected to drop gradually as clouds broke up.

Cortland county reported severe hail damage. Crops were destroyed on several farms near the village of McGraw. Corn was stripped of its leaves and oats were flattened. At Virgil, lightning was blamed for a fire that destroyed a small barn, a garage and a henhouse.

The storm also cut off power in some sections.

Hailstones were reported frozen together on the ground near McGraw this morning.

Hail also caused some minor property damage in Albany.

Aid Empire State Building Jumper

An unidentified man, seriously injured when he hurled himself from a 33rd floor office in the Empire State Building, New York, July 16, screams in pain as policemen lift him for removal to a litter. The injured man landed three floors below on the 30th floor setback of the 102-story building, the world's tallest structure.

Iran's Parliament Breaks Up Today

Tehren, July 17 (AP)—Iran's Parliament broke up in confused shouting today following charges by a deputy that Interior Minister Fezlullak Zahedi plotted Sunday night's Communist-sparked riots in an effort to supplant Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

The turbulent parliamentary session underlined an atmosphere of official squabbles and mounting tension as Mossadegh and U. S. Envoy W. Averell Harriman continued their talks in an effort to solve the British-Iranian crisis over nationalization of the properties of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Newspapers estimated the death toll in Sunday night's riots at from 12 to 25. The shootings occurred when police and troops intervened in a clash between Mossadegh's supporters and a Communist-led mob protesting Harriman's arrival.

Troops with bayonets and tanks last night dispersed another Red-called crowd of 4,000 demanding the bodies of the riot dead. With the government fearing Communist attempts to stage a "martyr's funeral," martial law now in force prohibited gatherings of more than three persons.

The accusation against Zahedi—which was not substantiated—was made by Lenah Pirasteh. Speaker Reza Hekmat at once ordered a closed session of Parliament to hear a reply from Zahedi, who has been prominently mentioned to succeed Mossadegh if the aged premier retires.

Mossadegh met twice with Harriman, leaving his sickbed and home for the second talk at the mountain guest palace where Truman's adviser is staying. Absolute public silence on both sides indicated there was no break in the deadlock as far as the nationalization-intent Iranians were concerned.

Harriman conferred last night with British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd and today met with Foreign Minister Bagher Kazemi.

Knew Atomic Secrets

Washington, July 17 (AP)—The State Department has disclosed that one of two missing British diplomats was in on atomic secrets that would once have been valuable to Russia. But it says they are probably of little value now. The department said yesterday Donald MacLean was a British member, in 1947-48, of an American-British-Canadian policy committee on atomic matters.

MacLean and Guy Burgess, another British Foreign Office official, disappeared from London May 25, amid speculation they might have ducked behind the Iron Curtain. An international manhunt has developed only fragmentary traces of them.

Body Flown Home

Amman, Jordan, July 17 (AP)—The body of Lebanon's former Premier Riad El Sohl—cut down yesterday by assassins' bullets—was flown home to Beirut today. Authorities said one of his slayers is dead, another lies wounded by his own hand and a third is still sought by police.

Demands Death Penalty

New York, July 17 (AP)—District Attorney Herman Methfessel has demanded the death penalty for August E. Jagusch, 41-year-old carpenter, accused of the rape-strangling of Mrs. Doreathy M. Sarasky last May 19 on Staten Island. Trial of Jagusch opened yesterday before Richmond County Judge Thomas J. Walsh. A jury of ten men and two women was selected without a rejection by either the prosecution or the defense.

Officials Probe Prison Riot in Colorado

Canon City, Colo., July 17 (AP)—Five subdued convicts stirred restfully in barren, solitary cells today while officials probed their bloody attempt to free 10 dangerous criminals from the Colorado State Prison.

Two guards were wounded, neither seriously, in the fighting that broke out yesterday when the five convicts, brandishing knives and a revolver, tried to spring 10 prisoners from isolation cells. The 10 included incorrigibles placed in solitary for bad behavior.

Heavily-armed guards trapped the five convicts in a cellhouse and quelled them with a torrent of tear gas.

The prisoners held five guards as hostages for a short time during the 45 minute uprising. Warden Roy Best said the escape plot was planned by Harold Hathaway, Pueblo, Colo., robber with a long record of prison rebellion. He is among the 10 in the isolation cells.

Small Boy Is Injured In Traffic Mishap

David Ennis, 5, of 86 Roosevelt avenue, suffered an injury of the left arm and a bruise on the forehead in a traffic mishap on Roosevelt avenue near Savoy street yesterday.

A police report said that Harold C. Morgan, 106 Harding avenue, reported to police headquarters that at about 7:15 p. m., he was driving a sedan northeast on Roosevelt avenue and when he was near Savoy street the boy "ran across the street toward an ice cream truck into the path of the Morgan car," and was thrown to the pavement. He was taken to Kingston Hospital by Morgan, the report said.

Eisenhower Meets To Plan Defenses

Paris, July 17 (AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower met today with his central command chiefs in an important conference to plan the defenses of this key western European area.

The meeting brought together top figures in British, French and American military life, including Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery and the British and American commanders in Germany.

Gen. Alphonse Juin, resident general of French Morocco, who is boss of the big allied army forces assigned to the command, flew from North Africa to Paris for the meeting.

The conference was expected to result in an early announcement that Juin would soon relinquish his African duties to take over the full time job under Eisenhower. This would dispel recurrent reports here that Juin was unwilling to give up his Moroccan post for the supreme headquarters command.

Eisenhower announced the makeup of the command in March. But since then Gen. Augustin Guillame, commander of French forces in Germany, has deputized for Juin.

Juin has had his hands full in French Morocco where unrest flared into some violence last winter.

Opinion in allied military circles here has been increasingly in favor of his relinquishing the job and taking over the Eisenhower appointment as soon as possible. The view is held that Juin cannot continue to ride two horses—both of them requiring his full attention—at once.

Beside Juin and Montgomery, Eisenhower met Lt. Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander in chief of the central command's airforces; British Air Chief Marshal Hugh Saunders, Eisenhower's airforce deputy; Gen. Thomas Handy, chief of American European forces in Germany, and Gen. Colin Callender, acting commander in chief of British forces in Germany.

Lemister Reports Articles Stolen At Fishing Shack

Nicholas Lemister, 35 Lindsley avenue, owner of a fishing shack at Kingston Point beach, reported to Officer Gurnsey Burger, Jr., at 6:40 p. m. yesterday that someone had entered the place and taken articles valued at about $35.

Entrance was apparently gained through the breaking of a glass in a window. Reported missing were a radio, alarm clock, six seine mending needles and a ball of linen twine.

Police were also notified early yesterday afternoon that $12 had been taken from a cash register in the Kresge store on Wall street.

Detective Clarence Brophy was assigned to investigate both thefts.

May Go to Europe

New York, July 17 (AP)—Judge Learned Hand will go to Washington tomorrow to talk with army officials. President Truman reportedly has offered the judge a confidential mission in Europe. The 79-year-old judge retired last month as chief judge of the Second U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, but he still is accepting assignments to the bench in either the Court of Appeals or Federal District Court.

Police Say Judge Prejudices Charge On Gambling Tie

New York, July 17 (AP)—Eight policemen say Kings County Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz already has prejudged the charges that they conspired to protect a $20,000,000-a-year Brooklyn gambling ring.

Demands Death Penalty

New York, July 17 (AP)—District Attorney Herman Methfessel has demanded the death penalty for August E. Jagusch, 41-year-old carpenter, accused of the rape-strangling of Mrs. Doreathy M. Sarasky last May 19 on Staten Island. Trial of Jagusch opened yesterday before Richmond County Judge Thomas J. Walsh. A jury of ten men and two women was selected without a rejection by either the prosecution or the defense.

Officials Probe Prison Riot in Colorado

Canon City, Colo., July 17 (AP)—Five subdued convicts stirred restfully in barren, solitary cells today while officials probed their bloody attempt to free 10 dangerous criminals from the Colorado State Prison.

Two guards were wounded, neither seriously, in the fighting that broke out yesterday when the five convicts, brandishing knives and a revolver, tried to spring 10 prisoners from isolation cells. The 10 included incorrigibles placed in solitary for bad behavior.

Heavily-armed guards trapped the five convicts in a cellhouse and quelled them with a torrent of tear gas.

The prisoners held five guards as hostages for a short time during the 45 minute uprising. Warden Roy Best said the escape plot was planned by Harold Hathaway, Pueblo, Colo., robber with a long record of prison rebellion. He is among the 10 in the isolation cells.

Small Boy Is Injured In Traffic Mishap

David Ennis, 5, of 86 Roosevelt avenue, suffered an injury of the left arm and a bruise on the forehead in a traffic mishap on Roosevelt avenue near Savoy street yesterday.

A police report said that Harold C. Morgan, 106 Harding avenue, reported to police headquarters that at about 7:15 p. m., he was driving a sedan northeast on Roosevelt avenue and when he was near Savoy street the boy "ran across the street toward an ice cream truck into the path of the Morgan car," and was thrown to the pavement. He was taken to Kingston Hospital by Morgan, the report said.

Eisenhower Meets To Plan Defenses

Paris, July 17 (AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower met today with his central command chiefs in an important conference to plan the defenses of this key western European area.

The meeting brought together top figures in British, French and American military life, including Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery and the British and American commanders in Germany.

Gen. Alphonse Juin, resident general of French Morocco, who is boss of the big allied army forces assigned to the command, flew from North Africa to Paris for the meeting.

The conference was expected to result in an early announcement that Juin would soon relinquish his African duties to take over the full time job under Eisenhower. This would dispel recurrent reports here that Juin was unwilling to give up his Moroccan post for the supreme headquarters command.

Eisenhower announced the makeup of the command in March. But since then Gen. Augustin Guillame, commander of French forces in Germany, has deputized for Juin.

Juin has had his hands full in French Morocco where unrest flared into some violence last winter.

Opinion in allied military circles here has been increasingly in favor of his relinquishing the job and taking over the Eisenhower appointment as soon as possible. The view is held that Juin cannot continue to ride two horses—both of them requiring his full attention—at once.

Beside Juin and Montgomery, Eisenhower met Lt. Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander in chief of the central command's airforces; British Air Chief Marshal Hugh Saunders, Eisenhower's airforce deputy; Gen. Thomas Handy, chief of American European forces in Germany, and Gen. Colin Callender, acting commander in chief of British forces in Germany.

Lemister Reports Articles Stolen At Fishing Shack

Nicholas Lemister, 35 Lindsley avenue, owner of a fishing shack at Kingston Point beach, reported to Officer Gurnsey Burger, Jr., at 6:40 p. m. yesterday that someone had entered the place and taken articles valued at about $35.

Entrance was apparently gained through the breaking of a glass in a window. Reported missing were a radio, alarm clock, six seine mending needles and a ball of linen twine.

Police were also notified early yesterday afternoon that $12 had been taken from a cash register in the Kresge store on Wall street.

Detective Clarence Brophy was assigned to investigate both thefts.

May Go to Europe

New York, July 17 (AP)—Judge Learned Hand will go to Washington tomorrow to talk with army officials. President Truman reportedly has offered the judge a confidential mission in Europe. The 79-year-old judge retired last month as chief judge of the Second U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, but he still is accepting assignments to the bench in either the Court of Appeals or Federal District Court.
